PREFACE

The opinions of the Court of Claims reported herein are published by authority of the provisions of Section 18 of the Court of Claims Act, 705 ILCS 505/1 et seq., formerly Ill. Rev. Stat. 1991, ch. 37, par. 439.1 et seq.

The Court of Claims has exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine the following matters: (a) all claims against the State of Illinois founded upon any law of the State, or upon any regulation thereunder by an executive or administrative officer or agency, other than claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act or the Workers' Occupational Diseases Act, or claims for certain expenses in civil litigation, (b) all claims against the State founded upon any contract entered into with the State, (c) all claims against the State for time unjustly served in prisons of this State where the persons imprisoned shall receive a pardon from the Governor stating that such pardon is issued on the grounds of innocence of the crime for which they were imprisoned, (d) all claims against the State in cases sounding in tort, (e) all claims for recoupment made by the State against any Claimant, (f) certain claims to compel replacement of a lost or destroyed State warrant, (g) certain claims based on torts by escaped inmates of State institutions, (h) certain representation and indemnification cases, (i) all claims pursuant to Line of Duty Compensation Act, and (k) all claims pursuant to the Crime Victims Compensation Act.

A large number of claims contained in this volume have not been reported in full due to quantity and general similarity of content. These claims have been listed according to the type of claim or disposition. The categories they fall within include: claims in which orders of awards or orders of dismissal were entered without opinions, claims based on lapsed appropriations, certain State employees' back salary claims, prisoners and inmates-missing property claims, claims in which orders and opinions of denial were entered without opinions, refund cases, medical vendor claims, Line of Duty Compensation Act claims and certain claims based on the Crime Victims Compensation Act. However, any claim which is of the nature of any of the above categories, but which also may have value as precedent, has been reported in full.

CASES ARGUED AND DETERMINED

IN THE COURT OF CLAIMS

OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS

REPORTED OPINIONS

FISCAL YEAR 2013

(July 1, 2012 thru June 30, 2013)

(No. 98-CC-5168 – Claim denied)

BERNADETTE WILLIAMS, as Special Administrator of the Estate of ROBERT JAMES WILLIAMS (deceased), Claimant, v. STATE OF ILLINOIS, Respondent.

Opinion filed January 16, 2013

BARBARA CLINITE, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (JACQUELINE WILLIAMS, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Negligence- Hospitals and Mental Health Facilities- Duty of Care- In cases alleging negligence of hospitals and mental health facilities, respondent is not the insurer of the patient, but has the duty to exercise reasonable care to protect him or her against foreseeable injury.

Negligence- Hospitals and Mental Health Facilities- Standard of Care- Standard of care is defined as the care which a reasonable, well trained medical professional would provide in the same circumstances.

OPINION

Sprague, J.

This matter comes before this Court on the complaint of Bernadette Williams as Special Administrator of the Estate of Robert James Williams, deceased, Claimant, and against the State of Illinois, Madden Mental Health Center, Respondent, alleging wrongful death, and seeking damages in the amount of $100,000.00.

FACTS

Robert Williams (hereinafter Robert), born February 13, 1974, was a high school graduate, certified as an electrician's apprentice, and was unemployed at the time of his death. Robert was involved in a triangular relationship with his girlfriend "Patty," and with "Erin," the mother of his child. During early June of 1996, Robert attempted to breakup with Patty in an effort to spend more time, and place more focus, on his relationship with his child. On June 16, 1996, he went to see Patty to retrieve his personal property. An argument ensued and Patty called the Bridgeview Police. Patty signed a complaint against Robert who was arrested and charged with Disorderly Conduct.

While being transported to the police station, Robert became upset and kicked out the squad car door. Upon arrival at the Bridgeview Police Department, Robert was processed and placed in a cell where he was monitored by cameras. He tied a shirt around his neck and appeared to be looking for a place to attach it. He became further agitated and began banging his head against the cell bars.

Police Officer LaBuda heard Robert saying, "I'm going to kill myself, I'm going to kill somebody. Life is all fucked up." Robert further reported to the officer that he had attempted to hang himself the night before. Officer LaBuda signed a certificate relating his observations and transported Robert to Christ Hospital where he was admitted. Robert's status remained subject to police hold.

At Christ Hospital Robert was examined by Dr. File. A petition for involuntary admission was completed and supported by certification of the examining doctor and also by social worker Mark Roy. Robert's aggressive and agitated behavior continued, resulting in the imposition of physical restraints. Robert successfully freed one arm and was again restrained. The physician at Christ Hospital contacted Madden Mental Health Center (hereinafter MMHC) and requested to transfer Robert. After a MMHC social worker agreed to accept Robert's transfer, he was promptly transported by ambulance.

An admitting nurse at MMHC noted Robert to be "neat/clean," "sociable," "cooperative," but "irritable." She further noted an "appropriate" affect and a "coherent" thought process. Robert was also interviewed by intake worker Romona Larry from the Crisis Network Center. She found Robert to be "alert and oriented" and "denied homicidal/suicidal ideations". She determined his thought process to be clear and his speech appropriate. Robert also reported to Ms. Larry, "I didn't want to stay there (jail). I told them I was going to kill myself. I thought it was going to get me out of trouble. It was stupid."

Robert was also assessed by Dr. Marianna Danet, a physician completing her residency, and under contract with MMHC. Dr. Danet's evaluation determined appropriate behavior, feelings, and perceptions with "slight or occasional" issues with depression or sadness, insight or judgment. Robert disclosed to Dr. Danet that he had feigned suicidal gestures in an attempt to get out of jail. Dr. Danet determined Robert to by psychologically stable, sequential and logical, and convincing in his protestations that his statements about suicide had been an attempt to avoid incarceration. Based on her findings she authorized Robert's release.

Intake worker Larry mistakenly thought Robert had been released by police on an "I" bond (on his own signature) and Robert was released directly to his mother on June 17, 1996, instead of being returned to police custody.

Robert's discharge papers referred him to outpatient care at Greaterlawn Mental Health Care Center. His discharge paperwork further advised his agent to seek voluntary admission, or to appeal the decision to deflect his involuntary admission. Robert neither sought treatment nor appealed the decision to deflect.

Following his release Robert returned home with his mother. He told his mother that he had attempted to hurt himself in an attempt to get out of jail and his mother believed him. They ate dinner together and watched a Bulls game. She indicated his behavior was normal. The following morning, June 17, Claimant indicated Robert's mood was good, and he continued to demonstrate unremarkable behavior on June 18 and 19.

On June 20, Robert contacted police and confirmed that Patty had not dropped the charges and that the arrest warrant remained outstanding. On June 21, Claimant told her son that she would accompany him to the police station to address the issues and assured him he would only be held in jail for one day. Robert hanged himself at home before his mother arrived that same evening.

Claimant produced expert witness Dr. George Bawden, M.D., a practicing psychiatrist who is board certified n Psychiatry and Neurology. Upon review of Robert's medical records, Dr. Bawden noted a Christ Hospital social worker had indicated Robert had a mood disorder, a major depression and was at risk for suicide, which indicated an outpatient assessment. He further noted that a Christ Hospital attending nurse noted Robert had a "potential for violence, self-directed ineffective coping, drug abuse, alteration thought processes…"

Dr. Bawden testified that the petition and certificate prepared at Christ Hospital for Robert's involuntary admission were complaint with statutory requirements and testified that it normally would have resulted in the patient's admission to the facility for assessment. In this case Robert was deflected and released.

Dr. Bawden testified that considering the totality of the circumstances, including Christ Hospital's pending petition and certificate for involuntary admission, Robert's history of threatening behavior toward his girlfriend, his suicide attempt the day prior to the admission, his lack of credibility and self-incited manipulative intent, his aggressive police, the documentation of depressive and mood disorder, and history of substance abuse, all deemed Robert's suicide as reasonably foreseeable. Dr. Bawden testified that the standard of care would require Robert's admission and assessment prior to release, and that Robert's deflection and release to his mother established deviation from the established standard.

Respondent presented expert testimony of Dr. Dennis Beedle, who at the time of his testimony was the Deputy Director for inpatient Hospital System for the Illinois Department of Human Services (IDHS) with an extensive practice in emergency room and mental health facilities. However, at the time of Robert's death, Dr. Beedle wasn't associated with IDHS/IDMH.

In Dr. Beedle's opinion, review of the Christ hospital records was a part of an appropriate evaluation, but that MMHC's on assessment based on the patient and totality of facts presented would be necessary for complete evaluation.

Dr. Beedle testified that he was familiar with the criteria for involuntary admission in Illinois in 1996, which required that in order to detain a patient against his will, the psychiatrist shall determine that the patient poses a significant risk to himself or others. He further testified that where a cocaine user has demonstrated agitated and aggressive behavior and later demonstrated a claim, coherent and cooperative presence with staff, the patient would not be admitted on a voluntary or involuntary basis. Dr. Beedle scrutinized the medical records to determine whether Dr. Danet had missed a psychiatric issue, and concluded that she had demonstrated reasonable judgment in discharging Robert.

Dr. Beedle based his opinion on his education, experience and review of the relevant records. He concluded, based on reasonable degree of medical and psychological certainty, that Robert's death was the result of an unpredictable, unreasonable, and individualized fear of going to jail rather than depressive or schizophrenic illness. He opined that Robert's referral to a community mental health facility, upon deflection, was appropriate upon consideration of the totality of the circumstances, including the fact that Robert demonstrated normal behavior for four days after discharge until he was faced with the reality of returning to jail.

In sum, Dr. Beedle concluded that Dr. Danet and MMHC staff had not deviated from prevailing medical standards by Robert's deflection.

Respondent argues that Claimant's complaint should be denied for Claimant's failure to exhaust all administrative or judicial remedies prior to seeking final determination in the Court of Claims pursuant to the Court of Claims Act (705 ILCS 505/25). Respondent contends Claimant failed to pursue an action against Respondent personally, therefore barring this claim. Dr. Danet was a named defendant in Williams v. Davet, No. 01L5070, which was dismissed on the grounds that Claimant lacked jurisdiction in a case against the state and its agents. The finding was affirmed by The First District Appellate Court in Williams v. Davet, 345 Ill. App 3d 595 (1st Dist. 2003). Respondent previously filed a Motion to Dismiss for Claimant's failure to exhaust remedies with the Court of Claims. The motion was denied by the Court on September 12, 2006. Respondent's request that this claim be denied for failure to exhaust remedies is without merit and is again rejected.

Claimant contends Respondent deviated from the established medical standard of care by Dr. Danet's authorization for Robert's release considering his behavior and history of a recent suicide attempt.

The law is well established that in cases alleging negligence of hospitals and mental health facilities, Respondent is not the insurer of the patient, but has the duty to exercise reasonable care to protect him or her against foreseeable injury. Gianos v. State, 30 Ill. Ct. Cl. 373, 376 (1975). In determining whether proper care has been provided, the Court considers whether medical personnel made reasonable decisions at the time of examination and treatment. Sherrod v. State, 50 Ill. Ct. Cl. 23, 36 (1997), Stevens v. State, 31 Ill. Ct. Cl. 458, 464 (1976). It is well established that Respondent is not liable if reasonable care is exercised by the attending physician even where the physicians judgment may ultimately prove to be erroneous. Gianos, supra at 381. Standard of care is defined as the care which a reasonable, well trained medical professional would provide in the same circumstances. It is not sufficient for a patient's expert to testify that he would have acted differently in the circumstances. Williams v. State, 46 Ill. Ct. Cl. 221, 223 (1994).

In Sherrrod this Court concluded that a state psychiatric institute had met its duty of care where the patient committed suicide one day after deflection. The patient had been diagnosed with bipolar disorder mania, but prior to release he was calm and coherent and denied suicidal ideation. This Court found that the most critical information in making an assessment was the patient's appearance and condition at the time of treatment.

In this case Dr. Danet was aware of Robert's drug use. She was further aware of his actions and the medical records which diagnosed depressive and mood disorder. She considered the patient as he presented during her examination to be alert and oriented, with clear thought processes and appropriate speech. He was persuasive in his explanation of his suicidal indications as an attempt to obtain release from incarceration.

> The prediction of the future course of mental illness is a professional judgment of high responsibility and in some instances it involves a measure of calculated risk. If a liability were imposed on the physician or the State each time the prediction of future course of mental disease was wrong few releases would ever be made and the hope of recovery and rehabilitation of a vast number of patients would be impeded and frustrated. This is one of the medical and public risks which must be taken on balance, even though it may sometimes result in injury to the patient or others. Gianos, supra, quoting Tig vs. State of New York, 241 N.Y.S. 2d 495 at page 496.

In light of the totality of the facts it was reasonable for the MMHC staff to determine that Robert did not pose an immediate threat to himself or others which is the criteria for involuntary admission.

Following examination of the factual record, the legal authority, and the well presented arguments of the parties, this Court concludes that though this case had a tragic and unfortunate result, it was within the reasonable judgment of the MMHC staff to conclude at the time of determination that Robert would not, within a reasonable time after release, physically injure himself.

Claimant further contends that Respondent's error in releasing Robert to his mother instead of police custody was the proximate cause of his suicide. But the evidence does not reasonably support the conclusion that his suicide, four days after his release, would have been avoided if he had been returned to police custody.

It is therefore hereby ordered that this claim is denied.

MATTHEW SHOBER, Claimant, v. BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF EASTERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY, Respondent.

Opinion filed May 16, 2013

RON TULIN, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (SCOTT SEIVERS, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel) for Respondent.

Premise Liability- Duty of Care- Tenants- Landlords are not insures of their tenants. Landlords do, however, owe a duty to their tenants to maintain common areas in a reasonable safe condition.

Negligence- Elements- Burden of proof- For a claimant to recover upon a theory of negligence, he must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the State breached its duty of reasonable care; the breach was a proximate cause of the claimant's injuries; and the claimant was damaged as a result of the negligence.

Negligence- Requirements- Notice- In order for a Claimant to recover, he must prove the state had actual or constructive notice of the dangerous condition that allegedly existed.

Negligence- Contact Sports- If the claimant assumed the risk of harm; the respondent will not be liable for negligence. Participants in team sports, where physical contact is inherent and virtually inevitable, assume greater risk of injury than participants in noncontact sports.

Sprague, J.

These claims, brought separately, arise as a result of Claimant being injured while slipping on water and falling in the stairwell of Claimant's dormitory at Respondent University on October 21, 1999, and said injury allegedly being aggravated while participating as a student player for Respondent University's football team in a football game held on October 23, 1999. Claimant alleges that Respondent University was negligent in maintaining the dormitory stairwell as to prevent injury to Claimant and further alleges that Respondent University was negligent in allowing Claimant to play football for Respondent University's football team while injured, causing further injury to Claimant. Respondent University denies that it was negligent in either maintaining the dormitory stairwell, in that Respondent had no notice of the dangerous condition being present causing injury to Claimant, or allowing Claimant to play football, which allegedly aggravated Claimant's injury.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Due to the nature of circumstances involved in the two separate and distinct claims Claimant has against Respondent University, the facts are so intermingled that a thorough and extensive recitation of the facts is necessary.

In October of 1999, the Claimant, Matthew Shober, was a 19-year-old sophomore at Eastern Illinois University ("EIU") in Charleston, Illinois. The Claimant had received a four-year, full-ride scholarship to play football at EIU that included tuition as well as room and board. The Claimant was an offensive lineman on the EIU varsity football team. At six feet five inches tall, the Claimant's weight fluctuated in the 340 pound range during college. The Claimant lived on the basement or ground level of Douglass Hall, a University housing dormitory at EIU. Approximately 30 students lived on the floor. The Claimant's floor had two separate bathrooms with showers: one just down from the Claimant's dorm room, and another on the opposite side of the floor.

On October 21, 1999, the shower room nearest the Claimant's room was closed, apparently for renovations or repairs with the shower room nearest his dorm room closed, the Claimant went down to the other shower on his floor, which was open. However, someone else was using that shower at the time so that Claimant then went upstairs to use the first-floor shower room, which had three showers.

The Claimant took a shower and, after gathering up his shower items, he headed back downstairs. At the time, Claimant was wearing a t-shirt, shorts, and rubber sandals. When his foot hit the stairwell landing between the ground floor and first level, the Claimant contends he slipped and fell. The Claimant says his foot slipped out from under him, and he landed with his back hitting the edge of one of the stairs. The Claimant says he also hit his head on the banister.

The Claimant testified that there was water on the landing at the time of his fall. The Claimant testified that he did not observe any water as he went up the stairs to go take his shower and, to his knowledge, there was no water on the landing when he went up the stairs. The Claimant also testified that, before he fell, he did not see any water on the floor. The Claimant testified that the first time he knew or had an indication there was water there was after he slipped. The Claimant testified that he had no idea when the water got there and that he did not know of anybody else complaining of water being in the stairwell or on the stair on October 21. There was no evidence presented as to how the water came to be on the landing.

At the time of the Claimant's accident, the stairwell was well-lit and the Claimant had no obstructions in seeing the floor. There was a handrail in the stairwell that the Claimant held onto while going down the stairs. The stair treads had rubberized grip material on them, and the landing was commercial tile.

After the stairwell fall, the Claimant felt pain in his low middle back where his back contacted the stairs. After getting up from the floor, the pain went from his back to his buttocks area on the right side. The Claimant, at trial, described the pain from his dormitory slip and fall as "…right there in the middle of the low back and then the pain going down the leg," and "it went down to the butt areas as far as the leg."

The Claimant's stairwell fall occurred between 8 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. The Claimant then went to his class or classes, and afterward went to the athletic training office at the EIU football stadium, which would have been around 1 p.m. The Claimant did not make a doctor's appointment that day; the only care he sought was at the EIU training office.

The Claimant told Rob Doyle that he had slipped and fallen in the stairway. Now retired, in October 1999 Doyle was a licensed athletic trainer with a master's degree in physical education with an emphasis in athletic training, and a Ph.D. in health education. Doyle served as the athletic trainer assigned to EIU football. Doyle was a member of the EIU football team medical staff, which also included Dr. Richard Larson, the team physician; Dr. Karl Rudert, an orthopedic surgeon who volunteered his time and services for the EIU football program; and about a dozen student athletic trainers. Doyle had also taught in the athletic training curriculum when he was director of EIU's athletic training program.

Doyle provided different treatments to the Claimant, such as electrical stimulation, or "stim," and ultra sound treatments. The Claimant responded positively to treatment, and expressed that he felt better after the treatment. The Claimant participated in football practice on that day, Thursday, October 21.

That same day the Claimant called and left a message on his parents' answering machine saying that he had fallen on the stairs and reinjured his back. In his message, the Claimant asked his father, Joseph Shober, to contact Dr. Rudert and see if the Claimant could get a prescription for some medication called into the pharmacy where his father worked as the manager.

Later in the evening when Claimant eventually spoke to his father, Claimant asked his father if he could start taking the same medication that he had been prescribed by Dr. Rudert at an EIU clinic following the Claimant's injury before the October 2, 1999 football game. Joe Shober testified that he told his son that he "…wasn't sure if that's what the doctor would want him to do…" and that he would get a hold of the doctor. The Claimant did not speak to his father again before the football game on Saturday, October 23.

Joe Shober testified that he called Dr. Rudert on the morning of Friday, October 22, 1999, and spoke to Dr. Rudert's nurse. Joe Shober testified that he told the nurse that his son had slipped and fallen, re-injuring his back, and asked if they could get the prescription refilled for the same medication that Claimant had taken before. Joe Shober was able to get the prescription refilled for his son but did not actually talk to Dr. Rudert that day. Dr. Rudert testified that he did not talk to the Claimant or the Claimant's father. Dr. Rudert also did not recall expressing an opinion on October 22, 1999, to his nurse who conveyed that opinion to the Claimant's father whether the Claimant should have played in the football game on Saturday, October 23. Dr. Rudert further testified that he did not recall restricting the Claimant from playing football prior to October 23, 1999.

Joe Shober testified that he called Rob Doyle after talking to the nurse at Dr. Rudert's office and, although he did not talk to Doyle at that time, he ended up leaving a message that he had gotten a hold of Dr. Rudert's office, that they had reissued the prescription that the Claimant had been taking before, and that Claimant was not to play in the game on Saturday.

Joe Shober testified that Doyle called him back within an hour to an hour and a half. Doyle vaguely recalled having a phone conversation with Joe Shober on October 22, 1999, although Doyle had never previously spoken to Joe Shober. Joe Shober conveyed to Doyle that Dr. Rudert did not want the Claimant to play in the October 23 game. According to Joe Shober, Doyle had been doing several treatments with the Claimant, such as electrical stimulus on his muscles, and he was responding well. Doyle conveyed that the decision whether to play could be made on game day, as the treatments seemed to be helping Claimant. According to Doyle, it was common to delay such decisions to game day.

There was contradictory testimony as to whether Doyle told Joe Shober that he had called and spoken to Dr. Rudert's office, and that Dr. Rudert had cleared the Claimant to play in the football game on Saturday. Doyle testified he did not recall any conversation in which Dr. Rudert told him that the Claimant was restricted from playing or cleared to play in the October 23 game. Doyle's only awareness that Dr. Rudert had restricted Claimant from playing in the October 23 football game was based solely upon Doyle's single telephone conversation with Joe Shober on October 22. Doyle further did not recall talking to Dr. Rudert after Joe Shober's call, but did recall talking to Dr. Larson about delaying the decision whether the Claimant could play in the October 23 football game until game day.

Doyle testified that it would have been uncommon for him to learn about a player's restriction in a game based upon a doctor's determination by way of a parent and Doyle did not recall it ever happening before. EIU Offensive Coordinator Roy Wittke also testified that he had never experienced a decision being made for a player not to play based upon a doctor's restriction communicated solely by way of a parent of the player. Mark Bonnstetter, who assigned himself to football after being hired as EIU's Head Athletic Trainer in 2000, testified that he did not think it had ever happened to him either. The common way for Bonnstetter to hear that a doctor is restricting a player is directly from the doctor and not even from the doctor's staff. Bonnstetter testified that he never before had a situation where a player's parent went around him to get medical care or diagnosis.

Claimant participated in a "walk-through" practice on Friday, October 22, 1999. The walk-through practice was a minimal contact practice with no hitting. During Friday walk-through practices, players just wear shorts, t-shirts, and helmets, watch game film, go through their game plan out on the field for half an hour or forty five minutes and walk through some plays that might be used during Saturday's game. On that Friday Claimant received his assignments for Saturday's game and, although Claimant participated in the walk-through practice, he stopped practice early and went into the training office, where Doyle provided back treatments as he did the day before. At no time during that practice did the Claimant tell the coaching staff that he was not going to play in the next day's game.

After speaking with Claimant on the evening of October 21 after falling in the dorm stairwell, Joe Shober did not see or speak to his son until after the October 23 football game and was therefore unable to tell him about Dr. Rudert's alleged restriction prior to the October 23 game. Before the game, Claimant knew that his father had contracted Dr. Rudert, and that it was alright for him to take the medication, but it did not explain at trial why he only received that portion of his father's message and not the portion concerning his restriction from the October 23 game.

On October 23, 1999, the EIU football team played Tennessee Tech at home in Charleston, Illinois. On game day, the EIU training room is opened two or three hours before kickoff for treatments, for getting players taped up, and for getting them dressed. The team physician, Dr. Larson, would attend all EIU homes games, arriving 15 minutes to half an hour before the game. Dr. Larson would see players at that time or sit in the training room while players were getting taped and ready to play. Dr. Rudert would often attend home games as well, but often would not arrive until after kickoff. Doyle would attend the games, as would about a dozen student athletic trainers. The athletic trainers work under the supervision of medical doctors and on October 23, 1999, Doyle was working under the supervision of Dr. Larson, who was in attendance that day.

An hour before kickoff, the offensive and defensive lines go out for their warmups, run through their various drills and bang against each other. The players come in prior to kickoff for taping and adjustments, then the coaches have one last meeting and the teams go out onto the field a couple of minutes prior to kickoff. Virtually all of the players on the team would be seen in the training room prior to the game for either taping or treatment.

Doyle typically would speak to Dr. Larson about the conditions of the players that day. When Doyle was aware of an injury that might stop a player from participating in an upcoming game but one from which he might recover and be able to play, Doyle's normal practice as an EIU athletic trainer was to confer with a team physician. Doyle most often would confer with Dr. Larson, who was at all games, unlike Dr. Rudert. It was Doyle's normal practice to consult Dr. Larson when Doyle was aware of discussions about restricting an injured player from playing in a game and the decision whether he could play had been delayed until game day. Doyle testified that he believes he spoke with Dr. Larson about whether the Claimant could play in the October 23 game and that as team physician, Dr. Larson was the final decision maker.

After the team meal but before the game, the Claimant went to the training office and saw Doyle again. Along with Doyle, Dr. Larson would have been in the training room prior to the game as well. Doyle again provided Claimant stim treatment. Doyle was sure that on October 23, he spoke with the Claimant about whether he was hurt because the Claimant got dressed, went out, and apparently felt well enough to go through pre-game drills. The Claimant suited up for the game and was set to play and, while he slipped and fell and had some discomfort, treatment was positive and the Claimant was feeling better. Consequently, Doyle did not want to exclude the Claimant from playing in the October 23 game until game day. According to Doyle, prior to kickoff, and after he had successfully gone through pre-game warm-ups, Claimant saw Dr. Larson. Doyle understood that the Claimant said he was capable of playing and believed that Dr. Larson said that the Claimant could play in the game.

Prior to the October 23 game, the Claimant did not indicate to Doyle at any time that he did not want to play, could not play or that he was too injured to play in the football game. Further, Claimant testified that no one told him that he had to play and that no one pressured him to play in the October 23 game.

During the game between EIU and Tennessee Tech on October 23, Claimant played on all 69 offensive plays of the entire game. At trial, the Claimant testified that he suffered pain during the October 23 game and that as the game went on, the pain went farther down his leg to the point that by the end of the game it was to his big toe. Claimant felt pain when his foot hit the ground, when jogging or when coming out of a stance. Claimant testified that each time he came off the field during the game, student trainers asked him how his back was, and the claimant told them how it was. Doyle testified that Claimant never told him during the game that he could no longer play and did not observe anything during the game that indicated to him that the Claimant was injured in such a way that he should not be playing any further. Coach Roy Wittke, the EIU offensive coordinator, had no recollection of seeing the Claimant suffer an injury during the game. According to Claimant, he never told an athletic trainer at EIU that he was hurt and couldn't play, but was told by a trainer or coach to play anyway.

In fact, EIU coaches had previously restricted Claimant from playing earlier in the month, against his wishes, after the Claimant's lower back injury on October 2, 1999. Coach Wittke did not want Claimant to play in the October 9, 1999 game. The Claimant however, felt that he could play, and Dr. P. Sam Saravanan, a Shober family doctor, wrote a note releasing the Claimant to play football for that game. Nonetheless, the coaches did not want the Claimant to play on October 9 and felt that it was in his best interest not to.

Claimant acknowledged that as a football player, he has an obligation to tell his coaches about any injury, and report to the athletic trainer but, nonetheless, did not tell Doyle about any complaints of radiating pain down his lower extremities until after the game. After the game, Claimant went over and spoke to his father, Joe Shober, and it was only then that Joe Shober first learned that the Claimant was having problems.

Roy Wittke, the EIU offensive coordinator who has coached at the University of Arkansas and Arizona State University and coached players who moved on to the National Football League, or NFL, testified that different position groups such as quarterbacks, wide receivers, and offensive lineman have different cultures or mentalities and Doyle concurred. Coach Wittke testified that the offensive lineman position group, of which Claimant was a part, is unique in that "they're the only position group that initiates a collision on every single play in a ball game, every single offensive play." Because an offensive lineman hits somebody on every play, they are banged up and bruised from the first week of football camp until a week or so after football season. It is a daily occurrence for EIU football players to play with pain and offensive lineman commonly play through pain and injuries. Coach Wittke testified that, compared to other football players, offensive lineman are a more physical group and a mentally tougher group. According to Doyle, offensive lineman play with injuries all year long and "the offensive and defensive line, they try to position themselves or think of themselves as the meanest, baddest people on the field and the toughest." The tight-knit quality of the offensive lineman position group has an impact on whether they play through injuries or not and, compared to other football players, offensive lineman are less likely to complain about injuries they have received in a game. "I think they… are more prone to wanting to stay on the field for the good of the group, not letting their teammate down," Wittke testified. Doyle testified that this culture or mentality factors into the evaluation of lineman's injuries and their ability to play with their injuries in that it is their culture that they are tough and they put a lot of pressure on themselves to play. Doyle testified that it was very common for players to want to play even though they were injured and Dr. Rudert testified that athletes often either minimize their pain or outright do not tell you about the pain because they want to play. According to Doyle, often times players did not tell him they were hurt or they would minimize their injury. In Doyle's experience, offensive lineman have played with injuries they have not disclosed to him. As an EIU team physician, Dr. Rudert treated the Claimant and In Dr. Rudert's opinion, the Claimant minimized his pain. Dr. Rudert testified that "pulling information out of him was like pulling teeth, so getting accurate information was tough out of him."

During his time at EIU, Coach Wittke has been unaware of any pressure for injured players to play in a game who are so injured that they would otherwise be sat down, or not allowed to play. To the contrary, Coach Wittke testified that it is a common occurrence to see injured players try to convince medical staff that they're wrong in trying to restrict them from playing and that they should allow them to play.

It is a certainty that Claimant suffered an injury. According to an MRI taken after the October 23 game, the Claimant had disk bulges and disk herniation. Dr. Margret MacGregor, a surgeon, subsequently diagnosed the Claimant as having a left lumbar radiculopathy with lumber herniated disk and performed surgery on the Claimant in May 2000 at St. John' Hospital in Springfield.

Claimant, however, had a history of back injuries before Dr. Rudert and Dr. MacGregor diagnosed him after the October 21 fail in the dorm stairway and the October 23 football game:

- Claimant had a lower back injury during his junior year of high school.
- Claimant hurt his back during football practice in September 1998, in which he was treated in the emergency room for an injury to his upper low back.
- Of significant note, Claimant injured his lower back on October 2, 1999, during pre-game blocking drills or warm-ups prior to the October 2 game, and Claimant did not ask to come out during the game. The coaches expressed concern about his back pain and a decision was made jointly with the coaching staff to take him out of the game.
- On October 13, 1999, Claimant complained about his lower back at an EIU clinic. In a form reporting the clinic visit, an evaluation stated that the Claimant had "pain in low back when he is sitting" and "no disk space @ L-5—S-1." In his diagnosis, Dr. Karl Rudert stated that the Claimant "may have degenerative disk but no symptoms that indicate."

Dr. Rudert testified that, if the Claimant played an entire game on October 16, 1999, he might have had a disk herniation that simply was not symptomatic.

Neither Dr. Rudert nor Dr. MacGregor could squarely give an opinion within a reasonable degree of medical certainty how much of the Claimant's injury could be attributable to the October 21 dorm stairway fall and how much to the October 23 varsity football game. Dr. Rudert testified that he could not differentiate between the fall, the football game, and the prior pre-game drills incident as to when the Claimant suffered the herniation injury. Dr. Rudert could not give an opinion "[b]ecause I don't know which, each injury, how much damage was done to the disk or how much pain."

Dr. MacGregor initially opined that the Claimant herniated his disks on October 21 and aggravated this disk injury by playing in the October 23 game. Dr. MacGregor based these opinions upon the history provided to her by the Claimant. However, after being presented additional information about the Claimant's back injuries prior to October 21, Dr. MacGregor abandoned these initial opinions. The Claimant did not have an MRI after the October 21, Dr. MacGregor abandoned these initial opinions. To form an opinion of whether playing in the October 23 game caused further aggravation of Claimant's injury, Dr. MacGregor testified that there would have needed to be intervening MRI's. Dr. MacGregor ultimately testified that she could not be confident when the Claimant herniated his disks and that she had no opinion as to when the Claimant herniated the disks in his back and had no opinion whether playing in the October 23 game aggravated the Claimant's condition.

Mark Bonnstetter, who became EIU's Head Athletic Trainer in 2000, testified that it was his opinion, within the reasonable degree of certainty that an athletic trainer can have, that if the Claimant had not played in the October 23 game, he still would have needed microdiskectomy surgery. Bonnstetter testified that, as an athletic trainer, radicular pain was not a reason for alarm just a reason to follow-up a little closer. In testifying within a reasonable degree of certainty as an athletic trainer, Bonnstetter explained that the fact that Claimant might have been experiencing paresthesia or radicular pain during the October 23 game did not necessarily mean it arose from an injury incurred in that game. Bonnstetter testified that the Claimant might well have been feeling symptoms from something that happened two days earlier. The pain the Claimant contends he felt by the end of October 23 game could have been caused by the October 21 injury but not felt until the game.

Claimant acknowledged and agreed that football is a violent game and injuries happen in collegiate games. The Claimant also admitted that no one said he had to play in the October 23 game and that no one even pressured him to play in the game.

After Claimant's back surgery, both Dr. MacGregor and Dr. Rudert strongly recommended that claimant not return to playing football now or in the future due to a significant risk of re-injury and further problems. Nonetheless, disregarding those recommendations, Claimant attempted to return to playing collegiate football in the fall of 2000.

Subsequent to his college football days, Claimant began volunteering as a firefighter for the Lincoln Fire Protection District in 2001, and he continued to do so at the time of the hearing. Dr. MacGregor wrote the Claimant a letter clearing him to participate as a firefighter, the Claimant has participated in training exercises, carried hoses, climbed ladders, and responded to fires in 30 pounds of firefighter gear and the Claimant testified that he has been able to successfully fulfill his duties as a volunteer firefighter.

At the time of the hearing Claimant worked as a paramedic for two employers. As a paramedic, the Claimant sometimes is required to lift or otherwise exert force to get a patient out of a situation – a car crash, a bed, off the floor or toilet, etc. and the Claimant testified that he is able to perform his duties fully as a paramedic.

ISSUES

The first issue before the Court is whether Respondent University was negligent in maintaining the dormitory stairwell in such a condition as to allow water to accumulate on the stairway landing, causing Claimant to slip and fall in said stairwell, resulting in injury to Claimant.

The second issue before the Court is whether Respondent University was negligent in allowing Claimant to play in an intercollegiate football game that resulted in injury to, and aggravation of, a pre-existing injury to Claimant.

ANALYSIS

Although the facts of these claims are intermingled and the hearing in this matter dealt with both of the Claimant's claims – the incident occurring in the stairwell of Claimant's dorm on October 21, 1999 (No. 01-CC-3111) and the injury allegedly received by Claimant during the football game on October 23, 1999 (No. 01-CC-3110) – each claim is independent, was filed separately, and requires a separate analysis of the facts and elements of each claim.

A. Claim No. 01-CC-3111: October 21, 1999 Fall in Dorm Stairwell

In Claim No. 01-C-3111, the Claimant alleges that the Respondent's negligence caused him to slip and fall in the stairwell of his college dormitory, resulting in a lower back injury and the aggravation of a pre-existing lumbar spine injury.

Landlords are not insurers of their tenants' safety, see Bourgonje v. Machey, 362 Ill.App.3d 984, 995 (1st Dist. 2005). Landlords do, however, owe a duty to their tenants to maintain common areas in a reasonable safe condition. See Salazar v. Crown Enterprises, Inc., 328 Ill.App.3d 735, 742 (1st Dist. 2002).

For a Claimant to recover upon a theory of negligence, he must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the State breached its duty of reasonable care; the breach was a proximate cause of the Claimant's injuries; and the Claimant was damaged as a result of the negligence. Bahl v. State, 49 Ill.Ct.Cl. 120, 123 (1997).

Further, the mere fact that a dangerous condition existed is not, by itself, sufficient to constitute an act of negligence by the Respondent. Sowizrol v. State, 51 Ill.Ct.Cl. 91, 97 (1996). In order for a Claimant to recover, he must prove the state had actual or constructive notice of the dangerous condition that allegedly existed. Id. For constructive notice, it must be shown that the defect was substantial enough and existed for such a length of time that reasonable persons would conclude that immediate repairs should be made or that warning signs be posted. Id. For constructive notice, it must be shown that the defect was substantial enough and existed for such a length of time that reasonable persons would conclude that immediate repairs should be made or that warning signs be posted. Id.

In Carlson v. Board of Regents, 47 Ill.Ct.Cl. 171 (1994), the Claimant was injured when she slipped on a wet tile floor while exiting a shower-bathroom in her university dormitory. A pair of lady's soaked trousers hanging on a wall hook had created the puddle of water she slipped on. Id. at 172. The university had received complaints from dorm residents about students who tended to do their laundry in the bathrooms rather than in laundry facilities. The Carlson Court found the Respondent negligent, as the water puddle in a dark area without a handrail posed a dangerous condition and that the Respondent had constructive notice of the dangerous condition: "Had its employees responded to students' complaints as to laundering of clothes in the washroom, the State would have discovered the wet condition of the exit passageway." Id. at 174.

By contrast, in O'Neill v. State, 46 Ill.Ct.Cl. 146 (1993), the Claimant slipped on water and injured her tailbone when she approached a water fountain at a Department of Public Aid office. The Claimant testified that the water fountain was in a well-lighted area and that she was able to clearly see the floor, but that she had not noticed any water prior to her fall, only afterward, as the water was not noticeable to the naked eye. Id. at 148. The O'Neil Court ruled that the Claimant had not established that the Respondent had notice that there was water on the floor on the day of the accident and denied her claim. Id. at 148-49.

In the case at hand, the Claimant presented undisputed evidence that a potentially dangerous condition existed: water on the dorm stairwell landing. But the mere fact that a dangerous condition may have existed is not, by itself, sufficient to constitute an act of negligence by Respondent. Sowizrol, supra at 97. The Claimant must prove Respondent University had actual or constructive notice of the condition. Id.

The Claimant, though, put on no evidence at trial that the Respondent had any actual notice of the water on the stairwell landing. In fact, the Claimant testified that he did not know of anybody besides himself who had complained of water being in the stairwell or on the stairs on October 21, 1999.

When no evidence that the Respondent had actual notice of the water on the stairwell landing, the Claimant must prove the Respondent had constructive notice of the condition. To prove constructive notice, the condition must be substantial enough and have existed for such a length of time that reasonable persons would conclude that immediate repairs should be made or, in the alternative that warning signs be posted. Id. "Constructive notice will be established if it can be proven by strong and convincing proof that the defect existed for such a length of time as to confer notice on the State." Stojentin v. State, 55 Ill.Ct.Cl. 292, 308 (1999).

In the instant case, the claimant testified that there was water on the stairwell landing after his shower that he had not noticed when he climbed the stairs to go take his shower. Thus, if the water had been on the landing when he climbed the stairs to take his shower, the water must have been insubstantial, as the Claimant did not even notice it.

If, on the other hand, the water had not been on the stairway landing when Claimant climbed the stairs to go take his shower, but apparently had been deposited there sometime after the Claimant climbed the stairs but before he descended them after taking his shower, then the water on the stairwell landing was not a condition that had existed for such a length of time that reasonable persons would conclude that immediate repairs should be made or, in the alternative, that warning signs be posted.

Claimant presented no evidence as to how long the potentially dangerous condition existed other than his own testimony. The Claimant testified that "I have no idea when the water got there." The Claimant further testified that he did not observe and had no knowledge of water on the landing when he went up the stairs to take his shower, and first learned of the existence of the water on the landing when he fell going down the stairs after taking his shower. Thus, the period in which the water could have existed on the landing would have been longer than the time necessary for the Claimant to take a shower.

Consequently, this Court cannot find that the Respondent had actual or constructive notice of the potentially dangerous condition, water on the stairwell landing, and, as such, Claimant has failed to meet his burden to prove the required element of notice in such a negligence claim. Therefore, in Claim No. 01-CC-3111, judgment is entered against the Claimant and in favor of the Respondent.

B. Claim No. 01-CC-3110: October 23, 1999 Football Game

In Claim No. 01-CC-3110, the Claimant alleges that, despite the Claimant's injury two days earlier from the fall in the dorm stairwell, the Respondent negligently allowed the Claimant to play in an intercollegiate football game that resulted in injury to, and in aggravation of, a pre-existing injury to his lumbar spine.

To sustain the burden of proof for a negligence claim, the Claimant must establish, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the Respondent owed the Claimant a duty, that the Respondent breached that duty, and that the Respondent's negligence proximately caused the Claimant's injury. Badali v. State, 54 Ill.Ct.Cl. 340, 341 (2001). The burden of proof rests upon the Claimant to prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, both the existence of an injury and that the injury was the result of the occurrence of which the Claimant complains. Williams v. State, 49 Ill.Ct.Cl. 109 (1996) (quoting Bugariu v. Conley, 93 Ill.App.3d 571, 573 (1981)).

If the Claimant assumed the risk of harm, the Respondent will not be liable for negligence. Medina v. State, 55 Ill.Ct.Cl. 364, 366 (2003). "Participants in team sports, where physical contact among participants is inherent and virtually inevitable, assume greater risks of injury than nonparticipants or participants in noncontact sports." Pfister v. Shusta, 167 Ill. 2d 417, 425 (1995). As this Court has noted, "[i]njuries occur in athletic competition." Medina, supra at 367. The Claimant's experience in the activity in question is relevant to both his awareness of the risks involved in the activity and his ability to perform the activity safely. Id.

In Badali, supra at 341, the Claimant injured his shoulder while trying to become a walk-on player on a university baseball team. The Claimant had been participating in practices with the team for three weeks when the coach announced before a practice game that he had a mandatory headfirst slide rule. Id. The coach warned that a player who failed to slide headfirst would be penalized by running or cut from the team. Id. The Claimant had never done such a slide before and was scared by the prospect of sliding headfirst. Id.

In the course of the game, the coach signaled for the Claimant to steal second base. Id. When the Claimant attempted to do so by sliding headfirst, his arm struck the second baseman's left leg, twisted behind the Claimant, and his shoulder pulled from the socket. Id.

In denying the Claimant's subsequent negligence suit, the Badali Court noted that, in a contact sport, risks and dangers created by the activity are assumed. Id. at 343. The Court further noted that a college student has the ability to make decision, and that "the facts demonstrated that the Claimant understood and accepted the dangers of the sport of baseball. He knew and understood the dangers of sliding into a base. Claimant chose to play in a game in which physical contact among participants is inherent in the conduct of the game." Id. "To find [the coach] negligent we would have to ignore Claimant's decision to slide headfirst. This raises the standard of care to a degree not required by the law." Id.

In the instant case, Claimant made decisions indicating he was willing and able to play in the October 23 football game. The Claimant participated in the walk-through practice on the Friday before the game, where he received his assignments for Saturday's game. The Claimant did not tell the coaching staff that he was not going to play in the next day's game at any time during that practice.

On the morning of the October 23 football game, Claimant went to the training room and again obtained treatment. The Claimant suited up for the game, went through pre-game drills and at no time did Claimant say or indicate to Doyle in any way that he could not play in that game. Claimant did not tell Doyle that he did not want to play or that he was too injured to play. Further, Claimant testified that no one told him that he had to play in the October 23 football game and that no one pressured him to play in the game.

The Claimant testified that a football player has an obligation to tell his coach about an injury, and then report to the athletic trainer. Nonetheless, Doyle did not find out about the Claimant's complaints of radiating pain until after the game. During the game, the Claimant never told Doyle that he could no longer play and Doyle did not observe anything during the game that indicated to him that the Claimant was injured in such a way that he should not be playing any further. Further, Coach Wittke had no recollection of seeing the Claimant suffer an injury during the game. After the game, the Claimant told Doyle that he had pain radiating down one of his lower extremities. Doyle did not receive any information until after the game that, when the Claimant's foot would strike the ground, it would radiate pain into his lower extremities. Significantly, the Claimant testified that football was a violent game, that injuries happen in collegiate football, and that "[g]etting injured is a possibility in any game."

Football is a contact sport, and as the Badali Court noted, risks and dangers created by such activity are assumed. Just as the college student in Badali had the ability to make decisions, so, too, did the Claimant in the case at bar. The Claimant decided to play collegiate football as an offensive lineman; to practice after the October 21 fall in the dorm stairwell; to obtain his assignments for the October 23 football game; to suit up for the game; to go through pre-game drills; and to play the entire football game without ever telling an athletic trainer or coach that his pain was too great and that he could not go on, despite his testimony that pain progressively moved down his leg as he played.

As did the college student in Badali, the Claimant in the case at bar clearly understood and accepted the dangers of collegiate football, knowing it to be violent and that getting injured was always a possibility. He had, after all, suffered previous back injuries from football, including one earlier that month. Nonetheless, like the college student in Badali, the Claimant in this case knowingly chose to play anyway. As with Badali, the Claimant's assumption of risk negates his claim of negligence against the Respondent. See also 735 ILCS 5/2-1116.

In the instant case, Claimant focuses on the alleged negligence of athletic trainer Rob Doyle in allowing the Claimant to play in the October 23 football game, despite Dr. Rudert's alleged restriction. However, the circumstances surrounding the alleged restriction from playing in the game are not very clear. Joe Shober testified that he learned of the supposed restriction not after talking to Dr. Ruder, but after only speaking to a nurse at Dr. Rudert's office. Dr. Rudert himself said he talked to a nurse, not the Claimant or his father. Further, at one point Dr. Rudert testified that he did not recall talking to the Claimant's father on October 22 or expressing an opinion through his nurse to the Claimant's father whether the Claimant should play football. Dr. Rudert did not even recall restricting the Claimant from playing prior to October 23, 1999. The doctor's testimony demonstrates that Dr. Rudert lacked a vivid or clear memory of making and conveying the restrictions.

Doyle's memory of Joe Shober's call and of receiving word of Dr. Rudert's restriction was comparably lacking. Joe Shober testified that when he conveyed word of the restriction to Doyle, he did not do it directly to Doyle – he left a message on an answering machine. Doyle later called him back, and Doyle acknowledges that Joe Shober expressed to him that Dr. Rudert did not want the Claimant to play in the October 23 game. However, Doyle did not recall any conversation in which Dr. Rudert himself told him that the Claimant was so restricted. In fact, the only awareness Doyle had that Dr. Rudert had restricted the Claimant from playing in the October 23 football game was based solely upon his conversation with Claimant's father, Joe Shober, on October 22. Doyle and former Head Athletic trainer Bonnstetter testified that they had never before learned of a doctor's restriction of a player through the player's parent and Coach Wittke testified that he had never experienced a decision for a player not to play based upon information obtained that way.

Regardless of whether Doyle erred in handling the information concerning Dr. Rudert's restriction of the Claimant in the October 23 football game, Claimant has failed to meet his burden of proving that Respondent's alleged negligence proximately caused his injuries.

The evidence presented shows that Claimant suffered multiple lower back injuries prior to the October 23 football game, including the fall and injury to his back in his dorm stairwell two days earlier. The Claimant himself testified that he suffered a lower back injury during high school and hurt his back again during football practice in September 1998. Less than a month before the incidents that are the subject of this litigation, the Claimant again injured his lower back during pre-game drills on October 2, 1999 in Orlando, Florida. On October 13, Dr. Rudert thought the Claimant might have a degenerative disk or disk herniation, as the Claimant complained at an EIU clinic about low back pain while sitting, which is related to the Radicular pain of a herniated disk.

After the October 21 fall in the dorm stairwell, Claimant complained of injuring his lower back. Further, Claimant provided Dr. MacGregor with a history of developing pain that went right down his leg after the stairwell fall. Claimant attributed this same sort of pain to the injury he claims to have suffered in the October 23 football game.

In his testimony, Claimant did not identify any specific player who injured him, a specific play in which he was injured, or even the quarter or half of the game in which his injury occurred. In fact, there was evidence presented that the fact that Claimant experienced paresthesia or radicular pain during the October 23 football game did not necessarily mean it arose from an injury incurred in that game and that Claimant might have been feeling symptoms from something that occurred two days earlier, so that the pain he felt in the October 23 game could have been caused by the October 21 fall and not from playing in the game.

There was no concrete medical evidence presented by Claimant, within a reasonable degree of medical certainty, as to how much of the Claimant's injury could be attributed to the October 21 fall in the dorm stairwell, how much could be attributed to the October 23 football game, or how much could be attributed to any one of the other back injuries Claimant had suffered over his high school or football career.

Dr. Rudert testified that he thought the Claimant already had a disk injury on October 21 and that the slip and fall did not help with that, but he had no way of proving how much the slip and fall damaged the Claimant's disk. Dr. Rudert had no opinion whether playing in the October 23 game aggravated the Claimant's disk symptoms, as he didn't see the Claimant that day. Further, Dr. Rudert did not see the Claimant between his fall in the dorm and the football game and could not testify as to how much worse the Claimant's disk herniation may have gotten. Dr. Rudert testified that he could not differentiate between the fall in the dorm stairwell, the football game, and the prior pre-game drills as to when the Claimant suffered his disk herniation, and that he did not know how much damage or pain each caused.

While initially opining that the October 23 football game aggravated the Claimant's disk herniation suffered on October 21, Dr. MacGregor abandoned her initial opinion when presented with information about the Claimant's prior injuries and symptoms. No MRIs were taken after the Claimant's October 21 fall but before the October 23 football game. Ultimately, Dr. MacGregor testified that she had no opinion as to when the Claimant herniated the disks in his back and had no opinion whether playing in the October 23 game aggravated the Claimant's condition.

For the foregoing reasons, this Court cannot find Respondent University negligent in allowing Claimant to play in the October 23 football game or even that such conduct proximately caused his lower back disk injuries. As such, Claimant has failed to meet his burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that Respondent was negligent. Further, this Court finds that Claimant's assumption of risk in playing collegiate football negates any claim of negligence that he may have had against Respondent.

Accordingly, judgment in Claim No. 01-CC-3110 is entered against the Claimant and in favor of the Respondent and Claimant's claims are hereby denied.

(No. 04-CC-0845 – Claim denied)

MELVIN CHURN, Claimant v. THE STATE OF ILLINOIS, Respondent
Opinion filed November 21, 2012
MELVIN CHURN, pro se, Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (SCOTT SIEVERS, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Prisoners and Inmates-duty to provide reasonably safe conditions-users of smooth-surfaced floors must use caution. The State of Illinois owes a duty to inmates of penal institutions to provide reasonably safe conditions, but smooth surfaces on floors are necessary so that the premises can be cleaned and made sanitary, and users are expected to conduct themselves with awareness of conditions where terrazzo or other smooth-surfaced floors are encountered.

Same-slip and fall in prison shower-inmate was contributory negligent-claim denied. The evidence in an inmate's claim arising out of a slip and fall in a prison shower showed that the inmate was more than 50 percent contributory negligent in failing to proceed with due care on the wet shower floor, and his feet and legs were not shackled or restrained in any way, and on that basis his claim was denied.

Sprague, J.

The Claimant, an inmate with the Illinois Department of Corrections, seeks judgment against the Respondent, State of Illinois for injuries sustained by the Claimant due to a slip and fall in the shower area of the Danville Correction center facility on May 31, 2002.

The Claimant's Complaint alleges that there was standing water in the shower area and he slipped while exiting the shower and fell injuring his knee. The Claimant seeks $75,000.00 to compensate for permanent injuries and $10,000.00 for bodily pain and mental anguish. The Claimant subsequently filed an Amended Complaint which alleged that the Respondent was negligent by: (a) failing to properly maintain a shower drain; (b) failing to install ingress and egress devices in the shower; (c) installing a shower floor with a slippery surface; and, (d) failing to repair said shower after actual and constructive notice that many inmates over a period of years were slipping and falling in said shower.

The Claimant testified that he stepped outside the shower area over a lip (water containment wall) into a pool of standing water and slipped causing him to fall upon his knee. The Claimant alleges that his injuries occurred as a result of the fall. Medical records were submitted in the Department Report, but there was no specific support for the claimed permanent damages.

The Respondent filed is Departmental Report together with two (2) other documents for purposes of impeachment. These exhibits addressed the Claimant's testimony as to the date of the accident and the Claimant's certification as a nurse's aide. Also, the Departmental Report included a response to Claimant's grievance filed in this matter wherein the Respondent acknowledged in its recommendation that "the showers will be overhauled." This recommendation was in response to Claimant's concern about "standing water in the shower area."

Further, the Respondent called witness, Carl Erickson, a licensed plumber employed by the Danville Correctional Center, to testify in this case. Witness Erickson testified that standing water in a shower area is a priority problem which requires immediate care and attention. Further, witness Erickson testified that there had been no complaints or notices about standing water in the subject shower area prior to the Claimant's slip and fall. Although the Respondent's witness, Mr. Erickson, stated that some repair in the shower areas to repair the decks and shower basins to prevent water leakage had been initiated in 2003 as part of ongoing maintenance at the facility, he maintained that there had been no specific complaint about standing water at the location of the slip and fall.

This is a difficult case because it appears from the record that some improvements to the Danville shower drainage areas were planned and implemented after the Claimant's fall. At the same time, there is testimonial evidence that there had been no prior complaints about "standing water" outside the shower area. Based on these somewhat contradictory positions, it appears that the source of the conflict may be attributable to general ongoing, planned maintenance at the facility with respect to water drainage as opposed to specific non-routine problems which require immediate plumbing attention. Further, it appears that individuals may differ on what one defines as "standing water" or a "wet floor." Finally, a wet floor is inescapable in a shower area.

Weighing this evidence, we must return to the Complaint wherein Claimant stated that his "knee was injured as a result of falling in standing water." The Claimant also testified "and when I stepped out there was standing water and I thought maybe someone had used this bathroom and it may have flooded." The Claimant also testified that he wears glasses due to nearsightedness, but this vision issue does not detract from his ability to see near objects.

This Court has pointed to the factor of concealment or lack of knowledge in slip and fall cases as being an important element of proof. For example, in Duble v. State, 26 Ill. Ct. Cl. 87, 91 (1967), this Court indicated that recovery could not be had in a slip and fall situation if the danger was, or should have been, apparent to the Claimant. As in the Duble case, there is no proof in this case that the wet or standing water condition of the floor was in any way concealed from the Claimant; and, indeed, the evidence strongly suggests that the Claimant observed this condition as he stepped from the shower area. For this reason, it is the finding of this Court that though a dangerous condition existed and the State was aware of it, the Claimant was also aware of the condition and had a duty to proceed with due care. We find that the slip and fall was more than 50% the fault of the Claimant due to his special awareness of the situation. As the Claimant's negligence was more than 50% responsible for the accident, he may not recover. (735 ILCS 5/2-1116.)

It is therefore the order of this Court that this claim is DENIED.

MICHAEL J. SAMS, Claimant, v. BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF ILLINOIS STATE UNIVERSITY, Respondent

Opinion filed May 16, 2013

GARY GEISLER, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (HEIDI HILDEBRAND, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Contracts-Ambiguous Terms- extrinsic evidence- extrinsic evidence of terms not contained in the written instrument is not admissible unless the court determines that the written contract is ambiguous or that essential terms of the agreement were not embodied in the writing.

Contracts- Liability of University- Academic Judgment- what would make the university liable for breach of contract in that student university setting is not that the university exercised its academic judgment unwisely, by allegedly failing to comply with the Field Instruction Manual, but that it did to exercise its academic judgment at all, instead acting arbitrarily or in bad faith in its treatment of the Plaintiff.

ORDER

STEFFEN, J.

This claim arises as the result of an alleged breach of a contract between Claimant, Michael J. Sams, and the Respondent, Board of Trustees of Illinois State University (ISU). Claimant was recruited to play basketball on scholarship for Illinois State University. He alleges that Respondent breached an express contract contained in ISU's Student Athlete Handbook by not renewing his scholarship after his freshman year. Specifically, he alleges that ISU's Student Athlete Handbook and Tom Richardson and Kirk Sarff, who were the head the coach and assistant coach who recruited Claimant, promised that his scholarship would be renewed unless he was in academic trouble, engaged in misconduct or was a detriment to the team. Claimant seeks damages in the amount of $52,420.04. Respondent denies that any contract existed to renew Claimant's scholarship and that, as such, no contract was breached.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Claimant was a student athlete at Illinois State University where he played basketball on scholarship during the 2003-2004 season. At the conclusion of his freshman season (2003-2004), Claimant was advised by Coach Porter Moser that the coaching staff would recommend that his Financial Aid Package not be renewed. Illinois State University did then notify Claimant that his Financial Aid Package would not be renewed. The Financial Aid Package for which Claimant signed to participate on the ISU basketball team was for one year, and it is Claimant's position that the University breached an expressed contractual agreement to renew the financial package because he complied with the criteria to obtain a renewal of the scholarship. The University's position is that the scholarship was for one year, according to NCAA rules, and that the University had the option of renewing the scholarship or not renewing the scholarship based on many criteria, including the player's contribution to the success of the team.

At trial, the parties stipulated the following facts:

- Claimant was a student athlete who was recruited by Head Coach Tom Richardson and Assistant Coach Kirk Sarff to play for the Illinois State University Men's Basketball Team.
- After Claimant was recruited by Head Coach Richardson and Assistant Coach Sarff to play for the Illinois State University basketball team, he was provided with a copy of the ISU Student Athlete Handbook.
- After Claimant was recruited and agreed to attend ISU as a student athlete on the ISU Men's Basketball Team and had accepted the Student Athlete Financial Aid Package, Coaches Richardson and Sarff were terminated by the University and a new coaching staff led by Head Coach Porter Moser coached the ISU Men's Basketball Team for the 2003-2004 academic year.
- At the conclusion of the 2003-2004 basketball season, Coach Moser told Claimant that his Student Athlete Financial Aid Package would not be renewed for the coming academic year.
- The basis for the decision for the non-renewal was that the coaching staff determined that Claimant did not significantly contribute to the success of the team, and not his academic performance or his behavior off the court.
- A letter from Janna Albrecht was sent to Claimant on March 12, 2004, which advised Claimant that his Student Financial Aid Package would not be renewed.
- A hearing was requested on behalf of Claimant before the Athletic Appeals Committee and a hearing was held on March 29, 2004. On March 30, 2004, Claimant's appeal to the Athletic Appeals Committee was denied.

Coach Richardson and Assistant Coach Sarff recruited Claimant from Mt. Zion High School in 2002 to play basketball on scholarship at Illinois State University. Kirk Sarff testified that he was an Assistant Men's Basketball Coach at ISU under Head Coach Tom Richardson during the 2002-2003 season. He was involved in the recruiting of players for the ISU basketball team during the summer and fall of 2002, including Claimant Michael Sams. Sarff testified that the decisions by the University to offer student athlete scholarships for basketball players were made by the coach staff. Sarff testified that the Athletic Department and Administration, outside of the basketball coaching staff, played no role in the evaluation of players and would be involved in the scholarship process only as to compliance with NCAA academic requirements. Sarff testified that a student athlete scholarship was a one year renewable scholarship. Sarff testified, however, that there was a custom and practice across the country among Division I basketball coaches to not say that "this is a one year renewable scholarship" while recruiting. Sarff testified that, in order to obtain renewal, according to the ISU Student Athlete Handbook, a student athlete must demonstrate responsible team membership by (a) meeting academic standards, (b) demonstrating good citizenship, (c) maintaining a commitment to superior training and physical conditioning, and (d) contributing to team success. Coach Sarff testified that in his 16 years of coach Division I Men's basketball, he had never been involved in a single situation where the coaching staff made a decision that a player was not going to be renewed because they wanted a better player. Sarff testified that, while recruiting Claimant, there was a discussion with Claimant and his family about this being a one year renewable scholarship and that the discussion centered around the provisions of the Student Athlete Handbook terms for non-renewal. It should be noted that former Coach Sarff, at the time of trial, was employed by New Horizons Marketing in Decatur, Illinois, which is a company owned by Claimant's father.

Claimant testified that he chose to play basketball at ISU because it was close to his home, his friends and family would be able to watch him play, ISU was in the same conference as Indiana State (where his brother played basketball), he had watched ISU basketball while growing up, and that his mother, father, and sister all attended ISU. Claimant testified that he knew that his contribution to the team's success would be determined by the "coaching staff who worked with us every day" and that his athletic ability and performance would be factored into that determination. He also testified that he understood that there was no guarantee that Coaches Richardson and Starff would be the ones making the decision. In November, 2002, Claimant signed a one year Grant-in-Aid, which promised him free tuition, room and board, and books for his freshman year of playing basketball. However, the ISU basketball team won only 8 games during the 2002-2003 season and finished last in the conference and Coaches Richardson and Starff, who had recruited Claimant, as well as ISU's athletic director, were fired shortly after the season ended. Coach Porter Moser was hired to turn around the losing team.

Claimant did not play much during his freshman year. He testified though that he did get along well with Coach Moser. Although Claimant did not play much, he was on the scout team and practiced. During games, he saw his role as being to encourage and keep other players motivated. Claimant denied that he had any difficulty picking up what the scout team was doing and that at no time did Coach Moser or any other coach question his ability to pick up what the other team was doing. Claimant did recall that Coach Moser had asked him if he could raise his GPA higher to help the team's overall GPA average. According to Claimant, Coach Moser never said anything to him to indicate that he wasn't doing well in practice or as a scout player, and that none of the coaches ever questioned his conditioning, his effort, his attitude, his ability to help the team during practice, or his ability to pick up what the other team was doing. Claimant testified that he heard from his father, after the basketball season was over, that his scholarship was not going to be renewed and that he then met with Coach Moser. According to Claimant, Coach Moser gave him no clear reason for the non-renewal. Claimant testified that he previously received the Student Athlete Handbook and he was familiar with the wording in it about what the student athlete needed to do to obtain renewal of his scholarship.

Claimant's father, Jeffrey Sams, testified that during the recruiting process he was not only the Claimant's father but he was also his high school basketball coach. He testified that he was familiar with the recruiting process due to the fact that both he and Claimant's older brother played basketball in college. Mr. Sams testified that, as a fellow coach, he was allowed by Coach Moser to come to practice at ISU and would talk to him after the games. According to Mr. Sams, Coach Moser or his staff never gave indication that there was a problem, in any way, shape or form, involving Claimant; no coach ever questioned Claimant's conditioning, effort, attitude, ability to help the team during practice or his basketball smarts, or ability to pick up what the other team was doing. Mr. Sams testified that, after Claimant's freshman season, he received a call from Coach Moser who told him that Claimant's scholarship was not going to be renewed.

Coach Porter Moser testified by way of evidence deposition. Coach Moser was the ISU Men's Basketball Coach for four years commencing in the fall of 2003, which was Claimant's freshman year. Coach Moser identified NCAA Rule 15.3.3, which provides that the length of a student athlete's scholarship for Division I student athletes was for one year. Coach Moser testified that he decided who would play in the games based on the player's production during practice. Claimant was assigned to the "scout team" whose job it was to simulate the offense of their upcoming opponent during practice. Coach Moser testified that at the end of the 2003-2004 basketball season, he personally evaluated each player and decided not to renew Claimant's scholarship. According to Coach Moser, the players were evaluated based on off-the-court conduct, which includes being a good citizen, student, and teammate, as well as playing ability and performance. Specifically, Coach Moser testified that he evaluated whether the player would be able to succeed and make a substantial contribution to the team. Although a player can contribute to the team in ways other than playing in games, he wanted to see effort, focus and off-court conduct. He testified that Claimant did not have a negative attitude or a negative personality. However, he said that his assistant coaches told him of their frustration of Claimant not picking up what the other team was doing. Also, players who did not have scholarships out-played the claimant during practice. Claimant had trouble picking up what the opponent's offense was going to be and simulating it, and the assistant coaches in charge of the scout team sometimes had to "pull Michael." Moser also "didn't see a huge commitment to superior training." Additionally, in his opinion, Claimant was too small to be a power forward, and was not athletic enough and did not possess the ball-handling skills necessary to be a small forward or guard. Additionally, Coach Moser did not see evidence of potential for improvement in Claimant. In short, Moser chose "who I believed was going to give us the best chance to win," and he felt that Claimant had not and would not contribute to the team's success. His main reservation about Claimant was essentially the level of his playing ability. Coach Moser acknowledged that the ISU Student Athlete Handbook provided the criteria for non-renewal of scholarships, and to obtain renewal of a scholarship, the student athlete must demonstrate responsible team membership. The four things to demonstrate responsible team membership were: (1) meeting academic standards, (2) good citizenship, (3) maintaining a commitment to superior training and physical conditioning, and (4) contributing to team success. Coach Moser agreed that this was part of the understanding between the student athlete and the University in terms of the renewal of financial aid.

After deciding not to renew Claimant's scholarship, Coach Moser called Claimant's father to tell him that Claimant's scholarship would not be renewed. Coach Moser also offered to help Claimant find a school that would be better suited for Claimant and his abilities and where he could have a good basketball career.

Claimant appealed Coach Moser's decision to the Athletic Appeals Committee, to which a student may appeal if he believes the non-renewal decision did not comply with University policies. During a hearing before the Athletic Appeals Committee, Claimant admitted that he was told that the scholarship was for one year and subject to renewal, that he was not guaranteed a scholarship for four years, and that he understood that his playing ability would play a role in determining whether his scholarship would be renewed. At the hearing before that Athletic Appeals Committee, Coach Moser testified that Claimant's skills and playing abilities did not rise to the standards needed to play in the Missouri Valley Conference, that he had an obligation to the other players in addition to Claimant, and that allowing Claimant to renew his scholarship would not be fair to other players whose ability was greater but had no scholarship. Coach Moser also told the Appeals Committee that he notified Claimant in March that his scholarship would not be renewed, even though the deadline for doing so was July 1st, because he wanted to give Claimant more time to explore his options for the following year. The Athletic Appeals Committee upheld Coach Moser's decision.

Scholarships at all universities governed by the NCAA are one year contracts that can be renewed each year. ISU's basketball coach had no authority to waive that rule. Each player signs a one year grant-in-aid which stipulates that, in exchange for playing basketball for ISU that year, the player would get free tuition, room and board, and books. At the end of each season, the University's coaching staff evaluates each player and determines whose scholarship will be renewed. Cynthia Harris is the University's Associate Athletic Director, whose office is responsible for enforcing NCAA rules and recruiting at ISU. She testified that it is not unusual for a player not to have his or her scholarship renewed. Ms. Harris testified that she was familiar with the Student Athlete Handbook and that it was put out by the University and provided to all student athletes. The University issues a Student Athlete Handbook each year, which summarizes information that new student athletes might want to know about the University. Associate Athletic Director Harris testified that the Handbook is not part of the scholarship agreement and is not intended as a policy statement of the university but its contents are consistent with NCAA rules. The Handbook states that in order to have a scholarship renewed, a student athlete must "demonstrate responsible team membership" and then lists four broad areas on which the athletes will be evaluated. These include "(a) meeting academic standards; (b) demonstrating good citizenship; (c) maintaining a commitment to superior training and physical conditioning; and (d) contributing to team success". This language is not included in the grant-in-aid signed by the athlete. Coaches Starff and Moser and Associate Athletic Director Harris all testified that it is up to the coaching staff to determine whether each athlete has met those criteria and will have his or her scholarship renewed for the following season. All also agreed that "contributing to team success" includes athletic ability and production.

Other paragraphs contained in the same section of the Student Athlete Handbook state that a scholarship can be reduced or canceled if the athlete becomes ineligible for athletic competition, fraudulently misrepresents any information on an application, engages in serious misconduct, or voluntarily withdraws from sport participation for personal reasons. This language is contained in the grant-in-aid that the athletes sign. However, those paragraphs address the revocation or reduction of the scholarship during the period of the award, not renewal of the scholarship at the end of the year.

Ms. Harris described the appeal process for non-renewal of scholarship before the Athletic Appeals Committee. The Athletic Appeals Committee consists of a panel of people from the University that reviews the case and has the power to overrule the decision of the coach. Harris also testified that the athletic director also has the power to overrule the decision of the coach on non-renewal. Neither was done in Claimant's case.

The following fall after Claimant's non-renewal, Claimant attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (SIUE) on a full basketball scholarship. SIUE is a Division II

College, which meant that Claimant would not have to sit out a year before competing. However, after one season at SIUE, Claimant transferred to Millikin University where he chose not to play basketball. The cost of Claimant attending Millikin University for his junior and senior years was $52,420.00, which is the amount he seeks in damages.

ISSUES

Did an express contract exist between Claimant and Respondent to renew Claimant's scholarship beyond one year; and, if so, was said contract breached?

ANALYSIS

Under certain circumstances, courts have ruled that a university's catalog and bulletins create a contractual relationship with its students. Frederick v. Northwestern University Dental School, 247 Ill.App.3d 464 (1st Dist. 1993). However, extrinsic evidence of terms not contained in the written instrument is not admissible unless the court determines that the written contract is ambiguous or that essential terms of the agreement were not embodied in the writing. Moreover, even if the court determines that the evidence of additional terms is admissible, the evidence cannot contradict or vary the written instrument. Cochran v. Cochran, 27 Ill. 244 (1919); Tolbird v. Howard, 43 Ill.2d 357 (1969); K's Merchandise Mart, Inc. v. Northgate LP, 359 Ill.App.3d 1137 (4th Dist. 2005).

In the instant case, Claimant signed a one year grant-in-aid scholarship, which stipulated that in exchange for playing basketball for Illinois State University that year, Claimant would receive free tuition, room and board, and books. Scholarships at all universities governed by the NCAA are one year contracts that can be renewed each year. The Illinois State University Student Athlete Handbook stated that in order to have his scholarship renewed, Claimant must "demonstrate responsible tem membership," and then listed four broad areas on which the Claimant would be evaluated: (a) meeting academic standards, (b) demonstrating good citizenship, (c) maintaining a commitment to superior training and physical conditioning, and (d) contributing to team success, the last of which was relied upon by Coach Moser in not renewing Claimant's scholarship.

It is without question that Claimant met or exceeded in the other areas in which athletes are evaluated for renewal. Coach Moser considered many factors, including Claimant's athletic ability, in relying upon whether Claimant contributed to the team's success in making his decision not to renew Claimant's scholarship. Claimant alleges that the Student Athlete Handbook, as well as Coaches Richardson's and Sarff's promises that his scholarship would be renewed unless he got in academic trouble, engaged in misconduct or was detrimental to the team, is extrinsic evidence that comprises of additional terms of the contract. However, this Court cannot take such a leap.

The only language in the Handbook that refers to scholarship renewals contains no promise to renew Claimant's scholarship. The Handbook states that in order to have his scholarship renewed, the student athlete must "demonstrate responsible team membership by (a) meeting academic standards; (b) demonstrating good citizenship; (c) maintain a commitment to superior training and physical conditioning; and (d) contributing to team success." The promises allegedly made by Coaches Richardson and Sarff and the language that Claimant alleges guaranteed him renewal unless he got in academic trouble, engaged in misconduct, or was a detriment to the team, are contained in the area of the Student Athlete Handbook lists the reasons why an athlete's scholarship could be reduced or canceled during the period of the award. That language does not concern factors taken into consideration in the renewal of the scholarship. Consequently, the Student Athlete Handbook makes no promise to renew Claimant's scholarship. The language contained in the Student Athlete Handbook is not ambiguous to justify the promises allegedly made by the coaches during the recruitment process as additional terms of the one year scholarship contract.

This case involves a written contract, being the one year grant-in-aid, which stipulated that in exchange for playing basketball for the University for that year, Claimant would get free tuition, room and board, and books. At the end of each season, the coaching staff would evaluate Claimant and determine whether or not his scholarship would be renewed. Because the terms of said contract are not ambiguous, no alleged oral promise should be read into it. Moreover, Coach Sarff testified that he and Coach Richardson gave Claimant and his parents a copy of the Student Athlete handbook and advised them that the one year scholarship that was being offered was renewable based on the terms for renewal contained in the Handbook. That Handbook clearly states that in order to have his scholarship renewed, he must demonstrate responsible leadership by, inter alia, contributing to the success of the team (emphasis added). Claimant himself testified that he understood that whether he sufficiently demonstrated responsible team leadership would be decided by whomever coached the team during the season, and that his athletic ability and performance would be factors in that determination. Further, Claimant knew that whether he met the criteria in the Handbook would be determined by whoever coached the team during that season and that his athletic ability and performance would be a factor in that determination. Claimant cannot now claim otherwise. Finally, even if Coaches Richardson and Sarff made statements or promises to Claimant that his scholarship would be renewed unless he got in academic trouble, engaged in misconduct, or was a detriment to the team, such oral promises contradict the language contained in the written grant-in-aid scholarship, as well as the language contained in the Student Athlete Handbook. The language contained in the Student Athlete Handbook's scholarship section indicates that it is intended to give student athletes specific reasons why scholarships could be revoked during the seasons, while providing only broad categories on which they will be evaluated by the coaching staff in deciding whether a scholarship will be renewed for the following year. Accordingly, this Court cannot allow any statements made by Coaches Richardson and Sarff which contradict the terms of the written contract contained in the Handbook to become part of the contract. As such, this Court cannot find that Claimant's contract with Respondent University for a one year grant-in-aid scholarship to play basketball was breached.

Nonetheless, this Court is not able to review Coach Moser's decision not to renew Claimant's scholarship. Respondent rightfully analogizes the Claimant's situation to that of academic decisions, which are not reviewable by the Court. Although any contractual relationship between a university and its students can be judicially enforced, this Court cannot review Coach Moser's adverse decisions to renew Claimant's scholarship unless there was evidence that the decision was made arbitrarily, capriciously, and in bad faith. Frederick, supra at 471. However, to prove a breach of such contract, Claimant must show that the decision was "without any discernible rational basis" Id. at 471-2. Courts have adopted this deferential standard because they are reluctant to interfere with academic affairs and regulation of student conduct. Id. at 472. A Court may not override the academic decision of a university "unless it is such a substantial departure from accepted academic norms as to demonstrate that the person or committee responsible did not actually exercise professional judgment." Raethz v. Aurora University, 346 Ill.App.3d 728, 732 (2nd Dist. 2004). In Raethz, a student challenged her discharge from the school's master's program because she failed to successfully complete field instructions. The Appellate Court reversed the trial court's judgment because she had not established that the university's decision was arbitrary, capricious or in bad faith. In so ruling, the court concluded, "What would make the university liable for breach of contract in the student university setting is not that the university exercised its academic judgment unwisely, by allegedly failing to comply with the Field Instruction Manual, but that it did not exercise its academic judgment at all, instead acting arbitrarily or in bad faith in its treatment of plaintiff" Id. at 733.

In this case, ISU's contract with Claimant consisted of the grant-in-aid that Claimant signed and the Student Athlete Handbook. The terms of these documents clearly establish that the contract was for one year, and that it could be renewed each year. The terms, as well as Claimant's understand of the terms, also established that Claimant knew that the coaching staff during his freshman year would decide whether to renew his scholarship based on the criteria for scholarship renewal contained in the Student Athlete Handbook, and that his athletic ability and performance would be included in that evaluation. Claimant has not alleged or presented any evidence that would support a conclusion that Coach Moser's decision was "arbitrary, capricious or in bad faith."

Coach Moser was hired to turn around a basketball team that finished last in its conference and it is the coach's job to put the best players he can find on the team. At the end of the 2003-2004 season, Coach Moser evaluated each player to determine whether they sufficiently contributed to the team's success, and he decided that Claimant did not. Although Claimant was a good student and Coach Moser had no complaints about Claimants off-court performance, he was expected to contribute to the team's success in other ways. Coach Moser recited various reasons and factors that he used to determine that claimant's playing ability was not up to the level necessary to play for the University and saw no potential for improvement. Coach Moser's decision regarding the non-renewal of Claimant's scholarship was based on his evaluation of the areas contained in the Student Athlete Handbook, and it was made following a deliberative process. Additionally, the Athletic Appeals Committee, whose job it was to determine whether the non-renewal decision complied with University policies, upheld Coach Moser's decision. Consequently, Coach Moser's decision cannot be considered arbitrary, capricious, or in bad faith.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, this Court finds that Claimant has failed to meet his burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that there was a binding contract to renew Claimant's grant-in-aid scholarship beyond one year and, ergo, there was no breach of contract by Respondent.

Accordingly, judgment is entered in favor of Respondent and Claimant's Claim is hereby denied.

MICHAEL DORTCH, Claimant, v. STATE OF ILLINOIS, Respondent.

Opinion filed November 21, 2012

MICHAEL DORTCH, pro se
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (JAMIE KNODEL, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Summary Judgment- Standard- Summary judgment is properly granted where the pleadings, depositions, admissions on file and affidavits show that there are no genuine issues of material fact and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

Negligence- Duty of Care- Open and Obvious- When a condition is open and obvious, and should be recognized by the claimant, the state generally owes no duty to protect the claimant from dangers associated with that condition.

ORDER

BURNS, J.

This case comes before the Court on cross motions for summary judgment pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-1005. The Court having read the pleadings and being fully advised in the premises, finds:

The Claimant, MICHAEL DORTCH, filed this pro se claim against the Respondent, STATE OF ILLINOIS, seeking monetary damages as the result of personal injuries allegedly suffered while the Claimant was an inmate under the care of the Illinois Department of Corrections. Specifically, the Claimant alleges that sometime in early 2004 the staff at the Danville Correctional Center negligently failed to fix a leak in the roof which caused water to collect on the floor. The Claimant alleges that as a direct result of Respondent's negligence, he slipped and fell on the wet floor, causing him to hit his head on the floor. The Claimant alleges that he suffered headaches, memory loss, back pains and blurred vision, among other injuries, as a result of the fall. The Claimant seeks $100,000 in damages.

The Respondent filed a Motion for Summary Judgment on the sole grounds that the water on the floor was an open and obvious condition for which no duty was owed to the Claimant. The Respondent asserts that the Claimant knew of the collected water on the floor, and, therefore, the Respondent cannot be held liable. The Claimant did not respond to the Respondent's Motion for Summary Judgment, but rather filed his own Motion for Summary Judgment in which he argued essentially that the Respondent had prior knowledge of the dangerous condition caused by the leaky roof and, therefore, should be held liable.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

Summary judgment is properly granted where the pleadings, depositions, admissions on file and affidavits show that there are no genuine issues of material fact and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Freeman v. State, 55 Ill. Ct. Cl. 329, 334 (2003). While a plaintiff need not prove his case at this stage, he must present sufficient evidentiary facts to support the elements of his claim or present some factual basis which would arguably entitle him to judgment. Id.; see also Juwick v. Starmark Star Marketing & Admin. Inc., 2323 Ill.App.3d 8, 12 (2nd Dist. 1992).

ANALYSIS

The State owes a duty to inmates of penal institutions to provide reasonable, safe conditions. Dewitt v. State of Illinoi, 43 Ill. Ct. Cl. 254, 262 (1991). However, the State is not an insurer of all accidents or injuries that occur on its premises. Pinnick v. State, 50 Ill.Ct.Cl. 321, 326 (1997). To prevail in a negligence action, the Claimant must prove by a preponderance of evidence that the State had a duty to protect the Claimant from harm, that the State negligently breached that duty and that the negligence was the proximate cause of Claimant's injury. Additionally, the Claimant must also show that the State had actual or constructive notice of a dangerous condition to be held liable. Ratcliff v. State of Illinois, 48 Ill. Ct. Cl. 137, 140 (1995).

This Court has held that when a condition is open and obvious, and should be recognized by the claimant, the State generally owes no duty to protect the claimant from dangers associated with that condition. Hickman v. State, 55 Ill.Ct.Cl. 388 (2002), citing Sheilds v. State, 47 Ill.Ct.Cl. 313 (1994). In Sheilds, the claimant fell on spilled soda on the steps of a basketball arena. The Court ruled that because the presence of the soda on the floor was open and obvious, it should have been recognized by claimant, and as such, the State did not breach a duty in failing to clean up the soda prior to the claimant's fall.

Similarly, in the case at bar, the Claimant alleges that water on the floor from leaking roof caused his fall. The Claimant was aware of the dangerous condition, however, as he had previously complained of the water on the floor in a grievance filed just a few weeks before his alleged fall. The Claimant does not allege that the Respondent had reason to expect that the Claimant's attention would be distracted in any way or that the Claimant was forced by job requirements or other circumstances to make a deliberate choice to proceed in the face of the danger presented by the wet floor. Accordingly, the Court finds in this case that the presence of the water was open and obvious, and, therefore, should have been observed by the Claimant.

In his Motion for Summary Judgment, the Claimant argues that the mere fact that the Respondent knew of the dangerous condition is enough to establish liability. In support of his argument he cites to the case of Roberts v. State, 36 Ill.Ct.Cl. 74 (1984), in which this Court found the State negligent in failing to repair a broken chair that later collapsed when the claimant sat on it, causing injuries to the claimant. The Roberts case is clearly distinguishable; however, as the claimant in Roberts did not know the chair was broken before she sat down. Id. In the instant case, the Claimant knew the roof was leaking and that a dangerous condition existed in the form of water on the floor. The Respondent, therefore, cannot be held liable for the Claimant's own lack of due care.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED the Claimant's motion for Summary Judgment is DENIED, and the Respondent's Motion for Summary Judgment is GRANTED. The Claimant's complaint is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

LOZARO LOPEZ, Claimant, v. STATE OF ILLINOIS, Respondent.

Opinion filed April 17, 2013

NANCY HIRSCH, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (JESSIKA OSORIO Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Negligence- Elements- To prove a cause of action in negligence, claimant must establish the following facts by a preponderance of the evidence: the existence of a duty that respondent owed; respondent's breach of that duty; and that as a proximate result of the breach the claimant suffered damages.

Negligence- Duty of Care- Roads and Highways- Notice- The State has a duty to protect people on its roads from defective and dangerous conditions. This duty includes potentially dangerous conditions. However, the state does not have a duty to prevent all accidents due to the condition of the highways. Birnbaum, J.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. The Oct. 29, 2003 Incident and Claimant's Injuries

On the morning of Oct. 29, 2003 Claimant, Lozaro Lopez, was driving his vehicle at about 55 mph in one of the middle two lanes of I-80/94, a major thoroughfare in the State of Illinois. While driving under the Torrence Avenue bridge, soda-can sized pieces of concrete fell from the underside of the bridge, striking the front-end and hood of Claimant's car and piercing his windshield, pieces of which were all over Claimant, including his glasses and hair.

Claimant described the windshield shattering as an explosion. Upon its occurrence, Claimant jerked his head left to avoid the shattered glass from hitting him in the face. With moving traffic in the lanes on either side of him, Claimant clenched the steering wheel to control the car, eventually maneuvering it safely to the road's left shoulder. He recalled that his chest felt really tight and he had great difficulty breathing. He felt like he was going to be hit by traffic, so he braced himself by continuing to hold the steering wheel tightly right up until police arrived.

Claimant was transported via ambulance to The Community Hospital in Munster, Indiana, where, after conducting several types of examinations, including an EKG, doctors treated him for acute chest pain and anxiety. He was prescribed Naprosyn for the pain and Valium for the anxiety. Prior to that day, Claimant went to his regular physician, Dr. Bicek, complaining of pain in his neck, left shoulder, wrist, and elbow; numbness and tingling in his left hand; anxiety from constantly thinking about the incident; and sleeplessness due to anxiety.

On Nov. 11, 2003 he started physical therapy at Dupage Medical Group. He was prescribed the physical therapy to help with his physical ailments. On Dec. 23, 2003, Claimant was referred to orthopedic specialist, Dr. Marc Breslow at Dupage Medical Group, for a more in depth evaluation. Dr. Breslow diagnosed him as having cervical strain, left rotator cuff tendinitis, and left wrist and elbow strain. Dr. Breslow recommended that Claimant continue physical therapy. Claimant continued with physical therapy until Oct. 27, 2004.

Claimant saw several other specialists regarding his pain as well. During the course of about two years, Claimant received MRI's, x-rays, CT scans, and EMG's regarding his physical conditions. Claimant also received injections to alleviate the pain in his shoulder. Based on Dr. Breslow's Sept. 21, 2004 report, Claimant's physical ailments seem to have largely subsided by then, however he still reported numbness and tingling in his left hand.

Claimant testified that in the two year-period following his injuries – the period where he suffered the most anxiety and distress over the incident - he was unable to divert his attention through playing the violin or guitar (two of his hobbies) because the numbness and tingling in his left hand rendered him unable to put pressure on the strings with his left hand. Claimant further testified that, currently, his left arm is weaker than his right, and he is unable to carry heavy things with his left arm.

With respect to his anxiety related to the incident, Claimant was referred to Dr. Dorothy May, a clinical psychologist, on Dec. 4, 2003. Dr. May diagnosed Claimant as suffering from Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) related to the incident on Oct. 29, 2003 and treated him with cognitive behavioral therapy to reframe his thought process, self-hypnosis to retrain his emotions, and long-term integration. His treatment with Dr. May ended on Jan. 24, 2005. Claimant also was referred to Dr. Koeing, a psychiatrist at Riverside Clinic, on Dec. 31, 2005. Claimant also was referred to a Dr. Koeing, a psychiatrist at Riverside Clinic, on Dec. 31, 2003 to prescribe him antidepressants and anxiety medications in conjunction with therapy.

Claimant testified that when he had difficulty breathing at the scene of the incident, he thought he was going to die. Subsequently, he had a hard time sleeping or concentrating because he was always thinking about the incident. Then, when he was prescribed medication to help him sleep, he could finally sleep, but he kept having nightmares about the incident. The nightmares always changed; sometimes he hit a wall, sometimes he got hit by a truck. Consequently, he would have a hard time distinguishing if what he was perceiving was real or a dream. Also, the sleeping medication made him drowsy, rendering it hard to concentrate; so he had to be prescribed Ritalin to help him concentrate.

Dr. May, who received her doctorate degree in clinical psychology from Northwestern University and has been practicing for thirty years, noted in her deposition that Claimant complained of anxiety, depression, difficulty concentrating, and that for a long time he had to limit himself to working part-time. She also noted that he thought he could have died when the incident occurred and that he was frightened he would die or have another serious accident. Further, because he kept reliving the trauma from the incident in his head, he would perceive the trauma anytime he felt threatened, like if someone insulted him. In Dr. May's opinion, Claimant's symptoms were the result of the Oct. 29, 2003 incident. Based on Claimant's testimony, his PTSD symptoms seemed to have largely subsided.

B. Maintenance and Inspections of the Torrence Ave. Bridge

On Oct. 29, 2003, a few hours after Claimant's incident, IDOT civil engineer, Jawad Khalil, arrived at the scene to investigate the underside of the bridge. Khalil received his civil engineering degree in 1982 and had been working for IDOT since 1984. He determined that pieces of fillet (concrete on the underside of the bridge) had become loose and fallen below. He further determined that the bridge had not been struck by any vehicles.

According to Khalil, in order to detect whether a concrete fillet is compromised, a bucket truck must be used for close examinations. In a bucket truck, the employee is hoisted up in a bucket-like structure close to the underside of the bridge. He further stated that even up close visualization is inadequate for determining whether the concrete fillet is hollow inside, which is what causes the fillet to come loose and fall. To determine if the concrete fillet is hollow, he stated that a process known as scaling must be employed. Scaling is the process of gently hammering at the concrete to see if it is hollow.

Sarah Wilson, an IDOT bridge maintenance engineer, stated that in a lot of cases a visual inspection from the ground will not tell the whole story about the concrete fillets, but it is the first place to start. She explained that if the visual inspection reveals any problems, then IDOT calls for a more detailed inspection. However, neither Federal nor State guidelines require that the concrete fillets be inspected using a bucket truck or the scaling method. She agreed that concrete falling from the underside of the bridge constituted a safety hazard for drivers travelling under the bridge.

IDOT's records reveal that the bridge had been completely scaled in 1999, and that between 1999 and the date of Claimant's incident, IDOT had not received any complaints from travelers about concrete falling from the underside of the bridge. However, on September 22, 2001, bridge inspector Mike Valentine conducted a routine inspection of the Torrence Ave. bridge. This routine inspection was conducted every two years. In his report, Valentine stated, "removed chunk of concrete fillet that is sitting on the top of the diaphragm over Westbound Lane 3, made in line in Bay 4, No. 4. In the near future we might want to check all the fillets on this structure again."

Sarah Wilson testified that she thought that a maintenance crew had been sent out to address at least the specific concrete fillet on the top of the diaphragm soon after Valentine's report, but she was uncertain that all of the concrete fillets had been checked. There were no IDOT records indicating that a crew had been sent out, or that any of the concrete fillets were checked between the time of Valentine's inspection and the next inspection that occurred two years later.

The next inspection of the Torrence Avenue bridge occurred on September 20, 2003 – a little over a month prior to this incident. IDOT bridge inspector, Alexis Brown, conducted the full routine bi-annual inspection. She testified that the purpose of the inspection was to rate the bridge under specified guidelines and determine whether the bridge could continue carrying the load it was designed to carry and remain in service. A portion of that inspection involved inspecting the concrete fillets.

However, she stated several times that her inspection was not aimed at determining whether the concrete fillets posed a risk of falling onto oncoming traffic. She further testified that she did not remember whether she ever read Valentine's report. But later in her testimony, after agreeing that Valentine's report suggested that IDOT pay closer attention to the concrete fillets, she indicated that his report was the reason she ordered a lane closure when she inspected the concrete fillets.

Brown testified that she inspected the concrete fillets up close, hoisted near the underside of the bridge in bucket truck. However, in her 2005 deposition she stated that the bucket truck was used to facilitate a lane closure that she requested in order to visually inspect the bridge from the road. In her deposition she explicitly stated that she did a visual inspection of the concrete fillets, using only binoculars. In her testimony at the hearing, she did not remember if he scaled the concrete fillets.

To prove a cause of action in negligence, Claimant must establish the following facts by a preponderance of the evidence: the existence of a duty that Respondent owed; Respondent's breach of that duty; and that as a proximate result of the breach the Claimant suffered damages. See Estate of Johnson by Johnson v. Condell Memorial Hosp, 119 Ill.2d 496 (1988).

A. Respondent's Duty

The State has a duty to protect people on its roads from defective and dangerous conditions. Dixon v. State, 51 Ill.Ct.Cl. 10 (1988). This duty includes potentially dangerous conditions. See Kipping v. State, 52 Ill.Ct.Cl. 211 (1999). However, the state does not have a duty to prevent all accidents due to the condition of its highways. See Scroggins v. State, 43 Ill. Ct. Cl. 225, 226 (1991). The burden of imposing such a duty would be too great in magnitude, as would the consequences of placing this burden on the State. To that end, the State's duty is limited to using ordinary care in protecting Claimant from dangerous or defective conditions on its highways of which it had actual or constructive notice. See Dixon, supra.

B. Did respondent Breach its Duty to Claimant?

1. Actual or Constructive Notice

Thus, in determining whether Respondent breached its duty of ordinary care regarding a defect or dangerous condition on its highways, as a threshold matter, we must determine if the State had actual or constructive notice of the condition. Both Claimant and Respondent discuss notice in terms of Respondent's duty of ordinary care. However, determination of whether a duty exists is a question of law, and determination of whether Respondent had notice is a question of fact. See Hornacek v. 5th Ave. Property Management, 2011 IL App (1st) 103502, ¶ 27, ¶ 29. Thus, questions regarding notice are better suited in evaluating breach, which is also a question of fact. See Olivarius v. Tharaldson Property Management, Inc., 695 F.Supp.2d 824, 831-32 (N.D.Ill. 2010) (Citing Illinois Supreme Court in Marshall v. Burger King Corp., 222 Ill2d 422 (2006) for the proposition that, "the question [of duty] is one of law, it cannot rest on a 'fact-specific formulation,' but rather whether a duty was generally owed").

Most courts applying Illinois law take this position and analyze actual or constructive notice of a dangerous conditions a fact issue relevant to whether the defendant breached its duty of care. Olivarius, supra at 832. Indeed the Court of Claims analyzes notice in such a manner. See Scroggins, supra. (Holding that actual or constructive notice of dangerous condition or defect is required to establish breach of duty by State).

Here, the defect or dangerous condition Claimant came into contact with was the falling concrete fillets from the underside of the bridge. Valentine's report in 2001 expressed a clear concern about the concrete fillets. He stated in his report that he removed a chunk of concrete fillet from under the bridge. He further stated, "in the near future we might want to check all the fillets again." We find that these facts provided Respondent with actual notice that the concrete fillet on the underside of the bridge posed a potentially dangerous condition to traffic on the road below. See Gushes v. State 53 Ill.Ct.CL. 54 (2000). (Holding that Respondent had actual notice that an inspection of the expansion joints on a stretch of highway should be conducted where, five days before an expansion joint popped off and hit claimant's vehicle, another expansion joint 100 feet away from the one that hit the claimant had come loose, and the person repairing it told IDOT that a bridge crew should be notified).

2. Standard of Conduct

To determine whether Respondent breached its duty to Claimant, this Court must apply the appropriate standard of conduct, which in general negligence cases is the reasonable person standard. This is an objective test, based on the "failure to do something that a reasonable, careful person would do, or to do something that a reasonable careful person would not do under circumstances similar to those shown by the evidence." Dealers Service & Supply Co. v. St. Louis National Stockyards Co., 155 Ill.App.3d 1075, 1081 (5th Dist. 1987).

Here, Claimant argues that Respondent breached its duty of ordinary care in protecting him from a dangerous condition when it failed to conduct, within a reasonable time, a more detailed inspection of the concrete fillets after receiving Valentine's report. Under the reasonable person standard, we analyze whether Respondent breached it duty by asking: Would a reasonable, careful person have conducted a more detailed inspection of the concrete fillets on the underside of the bridge within a reasonable period of time after the bridge inspector reported that he just removed a chunk of fillet on the diaphragm that had broken off the underside of the bridge and recommended that all the concrete fillets be checked in the near future? Given the potential for danger to oncoming traffic that such a condition presented, which IDOT agreed constitutes a safety hazard, we find that Respondent breached its duty of ordinary care by failing to conduct an inspection of the concrete fillets within a reasonable time soon after notice of the potentially dangerous condition.

Nonetheless Respondent argues that it did not breach this duty to Claimant because its inspection of the concrete fillets in 2003 complied with Federal and State regulations for inspecting a bridge. In general negligence cases, experts are not needed to establish what a reasonable, careful person would or would not do under the facts. However, evidence regarding conformity to custom and usage may be considered and may suffice to establish the standard of care. Denniston v. Skelly Oil Co., 47 Ill.App.3d 1054, 1067-68 (3rd Dist. 1977). Here, we find that, based on Respondent's evidence regarding its compliance with Federal and State guidelines for inspecting a bridge, a reasonable, careful person would conduct a visual inspection of the concrete fillets when making a general bridge inspection.

However, based on Valentine's report, which Respondent should have ensured that Brown was aware of when making her inspection, a reasonable, careful person would have conducted a more detailed inspection of the concrete fillets – especially when nothing in the Respondent's records indicated that the concrete fillets had been repaired or inspected in the two years since Valentine's report. This is consistent with Respondent's own customs, because testimony from its employees indicated that, where a visual inspection revealed problems, a more detailed inspection should be conducted.

Further, through the testimony regarding Respondent's custom and usage, Claimant established that a reasonable, careful person would have conducted a detailed inspection of the concrete fillets by using a scaling method. Accordingly, we find that Respondent breached its duty of ordinary care to protect Claimant from dangerous conditions on its highways of which it had notice.

C. Was Respondent's Negligence the Proximate Cause of Claimant's Injuries?

1. Claimant's Physical Injuries

This takes us to the element of proximate cause. Proximate cause is any cause which, in natural or probable sequence, produced the injury complained of. Harry W. Kuhn Redi-Mix Concrete v. State, 45 Ill.Ct.Cl. 33 (1993). It need not be the only cause or the last cause or the nearest cause. It is sufficient if it concurs with some other cause acting at the same time, which, in combination with it, causes the injury. Id. The term "proximate cause" encompasses two distinct requirements:

"cause in fact" (or actual cause) and "legal cause." Lee v. Chicago Transit Authority, 152 Ill.2d 432, 455 (1992). Respondent's negligent conduct will be considered the "cause in fact" of an injury if it was a material element or substantial factor in bringing about the injury; but for the negligent conduct, the injury would not have occurred. Abrams v. City of Chicago, 211 Ill.2d 251, 258 (2004).

Legal cause is essentially a question of foreseeability; a negligent act is the legal cause of an injury if the injury is of a type that a reasonable person would see as a likely result of his conduct. Lee, supra at 456. Thus, the question of foreseeability regarding proximate cause hinges on the foreseeability of the particular injury, and should not be confused with the question of foreseeability of the particular injury, and should not be confused with the question of foreseeability in a duty analysis, which hinges on the foreseeability of an injury to the particular plaintiff. See Nelson by Tatum v. Commonwealth Edison Co., 124 Ill.App.3d 655, 660 (2nd Dist. 1984) (Noting that courts must keep duty and proximate cause analytically independent by differentiating between "two distinct problems in negligence theory"- the unforeseen plaintiff problem in a duty analysis and the problem of the foreseeable injury resulting from unforeseen means in a proximate cause analysis).

Here, had Respondent not been negligent, it would have reasonably conducted a detailed inspection of the concrete fillets and discovered that the concrete fillets were loose and presumably would have made necessary repairs. Because it takes a considerable length of time for the concrete fillets to become loose, had the concrete fillets been removed or repaired soon after Valentine's report, there would not have been any loose concrete fillets to fall on Claimant's car as he drove under the bridge. In the alternative, even if Respondent did not make an immediate inspection, it could have prevented the damage to Claimant by ensuring that Brown's 2003 inspection was conducted using the scaling method so that loose concrete fillets could have been detected and repaired.

We find that Claimant has established that while he was trying to avoid the concrete coming through his shattered windshield and maintain control of his car, he injured his neck, left shoulder, hand, and elbow. Accordingly, we find that Respondent's negligence was the actual cause of these injuries.

As for legal cause, we find that Claimant's physical injuries were a foreseeable consequence of Respondent's failing to conduct a reasonable inspection of the concrete fillets. In making this determination, our concern is the foreseeability of the type of injuries he suffered, not the foreseeability of the manner in which they occurred. Colonial Inn Motor Lodge, Inc., for use and benefit of Cincinnati Ins. Co v. Gay, 288 Ill.App.3d 32, 44 (2nd Dist. 1997). It was foreseeable that loose concrete fillets could fall through the windshield of a vehicle travelling on a major highway, and that the person struck would likely sustain bodily injury. Accordingly, we find that Respondent's negligence proximately caused Claimant's physical injuries. Respondent does not make any argument to the contrary regarding these injuries.

2. Claimant's PTSD

Respondent does, however, argue that its negligence did not proximately cause Claimant's PTSD. Respondent notes that Claimant's medical history indicates he had a preexisting condition of hypertension and anxiety. However, we must take the Claimant as we find him, thus even if the incident aggravated a preexisting condition, Respondent is liable for negligence. Gildehaus v. State, 46 Ill.Ct.Cl. 176 (1993). Further, although it is unclear if anxiety was a preexisting condition, it is perfectly clear that Claimant never received any medication for anxiety prior to the Oct. 23, 2003 incident.

Here, Claimant's inability to breathe, heart pounding, and chest tightness suffered at the scene of the incident, and the medical records and testimony presented by Dr. May, indicate that Claimant perceived the incident as a near death experience. His PTSD is based on the trauma he experienced as a result of this perceived near-death experience. Accordingly, we are satisfied that Respondent's negligence was the actual cause of Claimant's PTSD.

As for legal cause, we will only find that Respondent's negligence was not the legal cause of Claimant's PTSD if such an injury appears "highly extraordinary" that the breach of the duty should have caused the particular injury. Lee, supra at 456. A negligent defendant must take the plaintiff as he finds him, even if the plaintiff's "eggshell skull" results in his suffering an injury that ordinarily would not be reasonably foreseeable. Colonial Inn Motor Lodge, Inc., for Use and Benefit of Cincinnati Ins. Co., supra at 44. To that end, to be foreseeable for purposes of legal cause, the injury "need not be 'easily predicable' or 'highly probable.'" Id. Neither a high degree of contingency nor a substantial lapse of time between the negligent act and the injury establishes lack of legal cause. Id.

Here, based on Respondent's actual notice of a potentially dangerous condition, it was highly foreseeable that a concrete fillet could fall onto oncoming traffic if Respondent did not respond to the actual notice by carefully inspecting and repairing any damaged fillets the careful inspection disclosed. Even though it was less foreseeable that a driver would be traumatized as a result of a concrete fillet falling onto a car, and suffer PTSD, we do not find the possibility of such an injury arising from Respondent's negligence as highly extraordinary. Thus, we find that Claimant's PTSD was sufficiently foreseeable as a consequence of Respondent's negligent conduct.

D. For What Damages is Respondent Responsible

Claimant has established by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondent is liable to him for damages. The issue is what those damages are. Claimant seeks damages in two categories: 1. expenses and medical bills associated with Respondent's negligence; 2. pain and suffering.

1. Expenses and Bills Associated with Respondent's Negligence

Claimant erroneously asserts in his post-trial brief that he is entitled to $28,538.25 spent in medical expenses and a tow-truck bill. However, review of the total bills submitted by Claimant (Claimant's Group Exhibits 16 and 17), indicates that Claimant submitted a total of $18,756.25 in bills of which $5,315.00 were paid.

As for the remaining $13,441.25, these bills were unpaid at the time of the hearing, and Claimant submitted these bills with sworn affidavits from the Respective bill-keepers stating that these expenses were reasonable and necessary. Respondent stipulated that Claimant could submit these bills, but contested whether these bills were reasonable and necessary and argued that Claimant still had to meet its burden in establishing the bills were reasonable and necessary. Respondent made no argument as to why these bills were not reasonable or necessary. In any case, based on the relevant medical records introduced into evidence, we find that the bills incurred were reasonable and necessary, and Claimant is awarded $13,441.25 for his unpaid medical bills and $5,315.00 for paid bills for a total of $18,756.25 in medical bills and other expenses related to the incident.

2. Pain and Suffering Damages

With respect to Claimant's damages for pain and suffering related to his physical injuries, we find that the majority of Claimant's pain and suffering related to these injuries lasted a little over a year, and he is entitled to an award of $10,000. With respect to Claimant's pain and suffering resulting from his PTSD we find that, based on Dr. May's report and Claimant's testimony and demeanor at the hearing, Claimant did indeed suffer significant long-term mental and emotional trauma as a result of this incident. Prior to this incident he had never been on any medication for anxiety; after this incident he has been on several, and he continued to relive this incident, which he perceived as a near death experience, for a significant length of time. The angst and distress associated with reliving this trauma over and over again in his head negatively impacted the quality of his everyday life. He suffered from this PTSD for almost one-and-a-half years. Accordingly, we find Claimant is entitled to receive $25,000 for pain and suffering related to his PTSD.

THEREFORE, Respondent is hereby ordered to pay Claimant $18,756.25 for medical bills and other expenses related to the incident, $10,000 for pain and suffering related to Claimant's physical injuries, and $25,000 for pain and suffering related to Claimant's PTSD, for a total of $53,756.25.

Agency/Principle Relationship- it is well settled principle of Illinois law that in dealing with an agent of the State, one must ascertain at his peril the authority of the agent, and the mere assertions of the agent are not sufficient to bind the State.

Agency/Principle- Apparent Authority- In order to establish apparent authority, the following elements must be present: 1) the principle consented or knowingly acquiesced in the agent's exercise of authority; 2) a third party reasonably concluded, based on the actions of the principle and agent, that the party was an agent of the principal with authority to bind them; and 3) the third party justifiably relied on the agent's authority to his or her detriment.

Agency/Principle- Apparent Authority- State Entities- When dealing with the subject of apparent authority, this Court has noted that the ability of a person with apparent authority to bind the state to a contract is generally eschewed when dealing with State entities.

Birnbaum, Peter J.

THIS MATTER is before the Court following a hearing held before Commissioner Buford on March 13, 2012. On February 7, 2011, this Court denied Respondent's Motion to dismiss, concluding it would be premature, with the limited record, to rule as a matter of law whether the agent acting on behalf of Respondent lacked proper authority in this case. Following the March 13, 2012 hearing, Commissioner Buford allowed each party a period of sixty (60) days to file initial briefs and a period of thirty (30) days thereafter to file reply briefs in response.

Nature of the Claim

On August 16, 2002, Phoenix Event Services, LLC d/b/a Chicago Party Rental ("CPR") entered into a contract with the University of Illinois ("UIC") for the rental of one thousand (1,000) folding chairs for an event at the UIC Physical Education Building. The back side of the contract included its terms and conditions and called for the indemnification of CPR with the renter. Prior to the August 16, 2002 contract, CPR and UIC had entered into similar contracts at least one hundred (100) times and payment was promptly made on each contract. According to testimony at the hearing, the contracts were signed by numerous individuals at UIC, including Bill Bavirsha, the Assistant Athletic Director. Mr. Bavirsha has worked for UIC since 1991 and was the highest-ranking person responsible for the UIC Physical Education Building and the set-up of various athletic events. Mr. Bavirsha signed the instant contract on behalf of UIC, as he has done on multiple occasions. Importantly, Mr. Bavirsha was never told he was not authorized to sign on behalf of UIC nor was he given express authority to sign. The General Rules concerning University Organization and Procedures and the Bylaws of the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois give the Comptroller the authority to sign contracts requiring express contractual indemnity, unless otherwise ordered by the Board of Trustees. Specifically, Article II, Section 1 of the General Rules states that the Comptroller, "as an officer of the Board of Trustees, and in accordance with the Bylaws of the board," shall: "(d) Sign contracts to which the University is a party unless otherwise ordered by the board in specific cases." The Bylaws, in Article VI, Section 5, state similar language regarding the Comptroller's duties; "unless otherwise ordered by the board in specific cases, contracts to which the University is a party shall be signed by the Comptroller and attested to by the Secretary of the board." Mr. Bavirsha has never held the title of Comptroller of UIC. Additionally, Claimant did not present any evidence that Mr. Bavirsha was given express authority by the Comptroller or the Board of Trustees to enter into a contract on their behalf.

On or about August 20, 2002, the chairs were delivered and thereafter inspected by UIC. At this time, UIC did not identify any defects with the chairs. However, at a religious rally on August 20, 2002, a person was allegedly injured when a chair collapsed. The injured individual filed a personal injury lawsuit in the Circuit Court of Cook County against CPR to recover for personal injuries allegedly sustained. CPR sought to enforce UIC's indemnification obligations under the contract but UIC denied its alleged obligations, insisting that its Board of Trustees is the only entity empowered to bind UIC to a contract under section 1 of the University Of Illinois Act (110 ILCS 305/1) and Article II, subsections 3(a) and 4(c) of the "General Rules". UIC also denied that the Board of Trustees had instilled Mr. Bavirsha with authority to contract with CPR. Ultimately, CPR was defended in the suit by its insurer, the Insurance Corporation of Hannover ("Hannover"), and the claim was eventually settled by Hannover for the sum of $45,000.00. Subsequently, Hannover, as subrogee of CPR, filed an amended verified Complaint in this Court seeking damages for alleged breach of contract/indemnity in Count I and seeking contribution in Count II. Specifically, in Count I Claimant asserts that UIC, through its purported agent Bill Bavirsha, entered into a binding contract in which it undertook to indemnify CPR for any losses arising out of delivery of chairs to UIC. In Count II, Claimant alleges UIC was negligent in the operation of its facility by failing to recognize that a purportedly defective chair had been provided by CPR.

Respondent argues the contract between CPR and UIC is void because Mr. Bavirsha lacked the authority to bind UIC. Additionally, they allege the indemnity provision within the contract violates State law because it does not provide for the proper appropriation of State funds, which they argue is a condition precedent to any agreement with the State calling for the expenditure of funds. In contrast, Claimant argues the irregular exercise of UIC's contracting power in the 2002 Rental Agreement would only make the contract voidable, and the contract could still be enforced under the doctrine of equitable estoppel, ratification and quantum meruit. Specifically, Claimant argues that the Board of Trustees ratified its contract with CPR through its history of nine (9) years paying for contracts with CPR.

Analysis

It is a well-settled principle of Illinois law that "in dealing with an agent of the State one must ascertain at his peril the authority of the agent, and the mere assertions of the agent are not sufficient to bind the State." Further, it is well settled that the theory of quantum meruit does not apply against the State. Melvin v. State of Illinois, 41 Ill. Ct. Cl. 88 (1989). Based on the testimony at trial, this Court concludes that Mr. Bavirsha signed what he believed to be a Bill of Lading, without the University and the Board of Trustee's knowledge of an agreement for express contractual indemnity. However, Claimant argues the Board of Trustees knowingly acquiesced to Mr. Bavirsha entering the 2002 agreement because the Board of Trustees honored the contracts by paying CPR over a period of nine (9) years. As such, Claimant argues CPR was justified in believing the Board of Trustees authorized Mr. Bavirsha to enter into the agreement and that Mr. Bavirsha had apparent authority to bind Respondent in the agreement with CPR, including the indemnification and hold harmless provisions

This Court finds that Claimant failed to establish Mr. Bavirsha had apparent authority to bind Respondent. In order to establish apparent authority, the following elements must be present: 1) the principal consented or knowingly acquiesced in the agent's exercise of authority; 2) a third party reasonably concluded, based on the actions of the principal and agent, that the party was an agent of the principal with authority to bind them; and 3) the third party justifiably relied on the agent's authority to his or her detriment. Northern Trust Co. v. St. Francis Hospital, 168 Ill.App.3d 270, 278, 119 Ill.Dec. 37, 42, 522 N.E. 2d 699, 704 (1st Dist. 1988). When dealing with the subject of apparent authority, this Court has noted that the ability of a person with apparent authority to bind the state to a contract is generally eschewed when dealing with State entities. Agles v. State, Ill. Ct. Cl. 134 (1984). Specifically, no evidence was presented establishing that Respondent "vested" Mr. Bavirsha with authority to bind them to the indemnification and hold harmless provision of the 2002 agreement. Regardless, Claimant argues that UIC's past practice of paying for the chair rentals "ratifies" the agreement in question, including the indemnity and hold harmless provision. This Court disagrees and concludes that the Board of Trustees never consented or knowingly agreed to be bound to an agreement for express contractual indemnity.

As a side-note, Claimant asserts that Respondent is merely reiterating the arguments in its Motion to Dismiss, which Claimant believes this Court has already found to be without merit. However, this Court denied Respondent's Motion to dismiss on February 7, 2011 merely because it concluded it would be premature, with the limited record, to rule as a matter of law whether the agent acting on behalf of Respondent lacked proper authority in this case. As such, Respondent's arguments in its supporting briefs following trial are appropriate.

The Court of Claims has consistently held that a purchase order emanating from an office or official authorized to obligate State funds is a prerequisite to the establishment of an obligation against the State. Central Office Equipment Co. v. State, 33 Ill. Ct. Cl. 90, 91 (1979); Black Knight Productions, Inc. v. University of Illinois at Chicago, 50 Ill. Ct. Cl. 406 (1998). As previously stated, the UIC General Rules regarding procedure hold that "No financial obligation shall be entered into except on authority of the board and after general or specific appropriation has been made by the board allocating funds therefore." Article II, Section 3(a). In this case, there was never proper appropriation or authority of the board to enter into an agreement containing an indemnification and hold harmless provision. As such, this Court concludes that this 2002 agreement is not enforceable against Respondent based upon the theories advanced by Claimant.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant's claim is DENIED and DISMISSED with prejudice.

VIVIAN EVANS, Claimant v. STATE OF ILLINOIS, Respondent.

Opinion filed June 28, 2013

MICHAEL FISHER, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (MARTIN BURZAWA, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Negligence- Respondeat Superior- When an action is brought against a respondent based solely on the allegedly negligent acts of its purported employee, liability is entirely derivative and is found upon the doctrine of respondeat superior.

Negligence- Respondeat Superior- elements- To invoke the doctrine of respondeat superior, Claimant must establish a relationship of principle and agent, master and servant, or employer and employee, as well as that the wrongdoer is either the employee, the agent, or the servant.

Negligence- Respondeat Superior- factors to consider for employees- Whether a person is considered an employee of the State of Illinois depends on several factors: 1) whether the purported employer has a right to control the actions of the employee; 2) whether the nature of the work performed by the alleged employee in relation to the general business of the employer; 3) the method of payment; 4) the right to discharge; 5) the skill the work requires; 6) which party provides the needed instrumentalities; 7) whether income tax has been withheld; 8) the label the parties place upon their relationship.

ORDER

BURNS, J.

Vivian Evans, a 53-year-old recipient of home personal assistant services through the Illinois Department of Human services, Division of Rehabilitation Services, alleges that her personal assistant, Brenda Martin, negligently caused Evans to fall backward in her wheelchair on March 21, 2003, resulting in injuries and a permanent scar on the back of Evan's neck. Claimant argues that the State of Illinois is liable for her damages because Martin was acting as the Department's agent/employee when the incident occurred.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The Claimant, Vivian Evans, has Multiple Sclerosis, causing her to be immobile and have difficulty with daily tasks, and has been on disability since 1991. Evans was informed about a personal assistant program called the Home Services Program carried out by the Illinois Department of Human Services (DHS), Division of Rehabilitative Services (DRS) through a social worker at Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago (RIC). Since 1991, Evans has had approximately 50 personal assistants through the Home Services Program.

The Home Services Program is a Medicaid waiver program. Medicaid is funded jointly by the states and the federal government and provides medical assistance to disabled and certain poor individuals. Each state participating in the Medicaid program must submit for approval to the U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services (HHS) a plan setting forth the services that the State will provide in its Medicaid program. In addition to the services outlined in a state's basic Medicaid plans, states may, pursuant to the HHS Secretary's exercise of "waiver" authority, seek to provide home and community-based services to individuals who would otherwise require institutional care.

The Illinois Home Services Program is such a Medicare waiver program. It is administered through the DRS division of the DHS. To receive federal approval for the Home Services Program and matching federal funds, the state must certify that the home services are provided pursuant to a written plan of care to individuals based on a determination that but for these services they would be institutionalized. Federal compliance also requires that the personal assistants (PAs) paid to assist the individuals at home must be legally allowed to work in the U.S. and federal taxes must be withheld from the PA's paychecks.

Consistent with federal regulations, individuals seeking to participate in the Home Services Program are evaluated by a DRS counselor based on their degree of impairment and need for medical care and assigned a Determination of Need (DON) score reflecting their risk of institutionalization. Assuming a person has an eligible DON score to participate in the program, the DON score corresponds with a Service Cost Maximum (SCM). The SCM is the maximum amount of benefits a person will receive, and it cannot exceed what it would cost to provide nursing care to the recipient in an institutional setting.

Once the counselor has determined that the individual qualifies for the Home Services Program, the individual and counselor develop a service plan that must be approved by the individual's doctor. The service plan questionnaire contains fifteen areas in an individual's daily life that she might need assistance with, like leaving the house, bathing, eating, managing money. The individual and the counselor would then determine which of those areas the individual needed assistance with from the Home Services Program to avoid institutionalization, and how many hours a day the individual would need assistance in each of those areas

The counselor also determines if a personal assistant service or a homemaker service is more appropriate for the individual. If the individual has normal cognitive functioning and seems able to direct and supervise the services of a PA then the PA service is appropriate. If the individual is deemed unable to direct and supervise the services of a PA, then the homemaker service is appropriate, because it provides trained and professionally supervised personnel to the individual.

In Evan's case, she was deemed able to have a PA. Her service plan determined that she would require 7 hours of assistance a day, excluding weekends. The service plan also indicated the rate of pay the PA would receive for assisting Evans in the areas designated in the Service Plan. Individuals in the Home Services Program were reevaluated every year to determine if any modifications needed to be made to their Service Plans.

Evans could have different PAs to assist with different areas if she chose. For instance, she could have one PA who came to make her meals and drive her places, and another PA for everything else. It was her sole discretion when the PA assisted her with the different areas she needed assistance with and the manner in which the PA assisted her. She could even have the PA perform tasks that were not on the Service Plan, but she would have to pay the PA herself, because Respondent was only going to pay the PA to perform activities related to areas designated in the service plan.

With respect to hiring the PA, that was Evans' sole discretion as well. She was responsible for interviewing the PA and determining if he or she was right for the job. There were no special skills or qualifications that the PA was mandated to have by the Respondent. Quite literally, almost anyone could be a PA. The sole determining factor was whether Evans wanted to hire him or her. Once Evans determined she wanted to hire someone, that person would have to be processed by the Respondent. Processing basically consisted of filing federal tax paperwork and requiring proof that the individual she wished to hire was legally allowed to work in the U.S.

At Evans' request, Respondent would pay for a criminal background check, but none was required. Likewise, all participants in the program were encouraged to get three letters of reference from their prospective PAs but it was not required. Respondent also had a list of people who were interested in becoming PAs in case an individual was having a hard time finding one, but Respondent would make sure that the program participant knew that Respondent did not know anything about the qualifications or character about any of the people on that list.

The last part of the processing consisted of an employment contract between Evans and the PA that both parties had to sign. Among other things the agreement stated that Evans was the PA's employer and had the following responsibilities: recruitment, interviewing and selection of the PA; training of the PA; directing the work of the PA; setting the hours of the PA; evaluation of the performance of the PA; and disciplining the PA (including right to counsel suspend and/or discharge). Respondent characterized its role in the relationship between Evans and her PAs as that of pay agent. However, if there were any allegations of abuse, neglect, or exploitation made to Respondent, it could also discharge the PA. There was also a responsibility under the contract that Evans obtain an insurance policy to insure her against any injury arising out of the negligence of her personal assistant. Evans never obtained this insurance policy.

Once the PA was hired, she was responsible for keeping her own time sheets and submitting them to Evans to verify. To PA would then submit the verified timesheets to DRS, who would issue her a check bi-weekly. Respondent did not provide any equipment to PAs to perform any of their duties indicated in the service plan. However, for sanitary reasons, Respondent did provide them with latex gloves upon request. Pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement with a union that PAs were allowed to join, PAs could claim worker's compensation and unemployment benefits against Respondent.

Around November of 2002, Evans hired Brenda Martin to be her PA, Martin was recommended to Evans by Martin's sister. On March 21, 2003, Martin accompanied Evans to the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago (RIC). Martin had been Evans personal assistant for five months at this point and was used to accompanying Evans to the RIC for two hours a day, five days a week. Evans required assistance on the MotorMed, a type of exercise bike for people in a wheelchair. Martin would push Evans up to the bike in her wheelchair, put her legs on the bike, strap her down, and then the bike would move itself. When Evan's was finished, Martin would remove Evans' feet from the MotorMed, put them back on the wheelchair, and then pull Evans away from the machine.

Before working with Evans, Martin had not used this exercise equipment with previous customers. DRS does not provide any training to the PAs. Martin was shown how to assist Evans through staff at RIC. The staff would continue to show Martin how to assist Evans until Martin caught on. At the time of March 21, 2003, Martin had helped Evans with the machine numerous times.

This particular time, Martin took Evan's feet off the bike before locking her wheelchair. While Martin was handling Evans's feet, she tripped over a bar on the bike, pushing Evan's arm rail on her wheelchair, knocking Evans back. Evans could not avoid the fall or brace herself, and fell straight back, striking the back of her head on the floor. Evans lost consciousness for a couple of seconds. She then complained of dizziness and her head hurting/throbbing. Evan's head was bleeding in the back.

An ambulance arrived, and the paramedics bandaged Evans's head, as well as put on a neck brace. The paramedics put her on a stretcher and took her to Northwestern Memorial Hospital ER. Martin rode in the ambulance with Evan. Once seen, doctors numbed Evans's head and inserted four staples. Evans was also administered a tetanus shot in her left arm. She was discharged the same day. Evans's head still hurt afterwards and she was left with a 1 ½ inch scar on the back of her head, her hair now covering it. She also complained of pain in her left arm due to the tetanus shot for several months afterword.

Claimant filed the instant complaint on February 28, 2005 seeking damages. Respondent does not contest that Martin's negligence proximately caused Claimant's injuries. Respondent does contest that it is vicariously liable for her negligence, asserting that she was not Respondent's employee or agent, as clearly indicated by the employment agreement made between Claimant and Martin. Claimant, however, counters that the agreement is not dispositive and that the surrounding circumstances establish that there was an employer/employee or principal/agent relationship between Martin and Respondent, and accordingly, Respondent is liable for Claimant's damages.

When an action is brought against a respondent based solely on the allegedly negligent acts of its purported employee, liability is entirely derivative and is founded upon the doctrine of respondeat superior. Marek v. O.B. Gyne Specialists II, S.C., 319 Ill. App. 3d 690, 253 Ill. Dec. 759, 746 N.E.2d 1 (1st Dist. 2001). To invoke the doctrine of respondeat superior, Claimant must establish a relationship of principal and agent, master and servant, or employer and employee, as well as that the wrongdoer is either the employee, the agent, or the servant. Williams ex rel. Beaton v. Ingalls Memorial Hosp., 408 Ill.App.3d 360, 369, 944 N.E.2d 421, 431, 348 Ill.Dec. 468.468 478 (1st Dist. 2011) (since overruled on other grounds).

Whether a person is considered an employee of the Respondent depends on several factors: 1. whether the purported employer has a right to control the actions of the employee; 2. whether the nature of the work performed by the alleged employee in relation to the general business of the employer; 3. the method of payment; 4. the right to discharge; 5. the skill the work requires; 6. which party provides the needed instrumentalities; 7. whether income tax has been withheld; and 8. the label the parties place upon their relationship. Skuzbel v. Illinois Workers Compensation Com'n Div., 401 Ill.App.3d 263, 267, 927 N.E.2d 1247, 1250, 340 Ill.Dec. 236, 239 (1st Dist. 2010).

Here, method of payment and withholding of taxes goes in favor of finding that Martin was Respondent's employee. Respondent, on a bi-weekly basis, paid Martin based on an hourly rate set by federal regulations and set the amount of hours per week for which Martin was authorized to be paid. Respondent also required Martin to fill out time sheets, which Evans had to verify, and Respondent then issued her a check, from which federal income tax was withheld. However, these activities alone establish little more than the fact that Respondent was acting as Martin's pay agent.

Further, there are several factors that strongly support a finding that no employment or agency relationship existed. Despite Respondent's ability to terminate Martin under certain specified circumstances, Claimant had complete discretion to terminate her employment, and more importantly, notwithstanding Resondent's minimal requirement that Martin be legally allowed to work in the United States, Claimant had sole discretion to hire Martin. Further supporting a finding that Respondent was not Martin's employer are the facts that the agreement between Martin and Respondent clearly delineated Claimant as her employer, and not Respondent; and Respondent did not provide PAs with the equipment needed to carry out their daily duties, despite Claimant's attempt at arguing that providing latex gloves satisfied this factor.

The most compelling factor in favor of finding there was no employee or agent relationship is control. Both Claimant and Respondent agree that the essential and generally decisive consideration is the right to control. Moy. County of Cook, 159 Ill.2d 519, 526; 640 N.E.2d 926, 928; 203 Ill.Dec. 776, 778 (Ill. 1994). It is undisputed that Claimant – and not Respondent – directed the time and place that Martin performed her daily duties and was responsible for training her. Claimant was also responsible for disciplining Martin, and was responsible for interviewing her and determining that she wanted to hire her.

Nonetheless, Claimant argues that Respondent controlled Martin's activities through the establishment of its service plan, because the service plan established the activities that Martin performed and how much time she was supposed to spend on those activities daily. Review of the service plan indicates, however, that its purpose is not to dictate the actual everyday activities that a PA will perform; but instead it establishes the parameters of Respondent's payment for the PA's services rendered to the customer. To that end, the service plan lists general areas where a person might need assistance like eating, bathing, going out, or managing money and then, based on the customer's input, limits compensation based on the hours it will take for PA to render assistance in those specific areas.

In the instant case, for example, after meeting with Claimant the counselor determined that she needed about 1.5 hours of assistance daily (excluding weekends) with going out. Respondent's service plan establishes that if Martin instead spent that 1.5 hours daily organizing Claimant's stamp collection (assuming she had one), Respondent would not pay her for that 1.5 hours. That does not mean that Claimant is precluded from paying Martin to organize her stamp collection though. Moreover, although the service plan designates that Martin will be paid for 1.5 hours helping Claimant leave the home, Claimant determines if they are taking a car or bus, which route they are taking, where they are going, when they are going, and when they are coming back.

We find that Respondent did not exercise any meaningful control over Martin. Because the factor of control weighs heavily against a finding that Martin was an employee or agent of the Respondent, and there were several other factors also strongly weighing against such a finding, we find that Claimant has failed to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that Brenda Martin was the Respondent's employee or agent when she negligently transported Claimant off the MotorMed. It would undercut the principals of equity and justice were we to find Respondent liable for Martin's actions when it did not dictate to her the specific activities she was to perform, the manner in which she was to perform them, train her on how to perform them, or make any determinations regarding whether she was able to perform them.

Accordingly, Claimant's claim is DENIED.

Survival Act-Lack of a Cause of Action- The Survival Act does not create a statutory cause of action. It merely allows a representative of the decedent to maintain those statutory or common law actions which had already accrued to the decedent before he died.

ORDER

BURNS, J.

This matter coming before the Court on Respondent's Motion to Dismiss Claimant's Amended Complaint, the Court having read the pleadings and being fully advised in the premises finds that:

I. INTRODUCTION

Claimant Joseph De'Andre Hall ("Claimant Hall") was a former inmate incarcerated with Respondent, the Illinois Department of Corrections ("IDOC"), from October 1, 1999 to November 2002. On October 18, 2002, while incarcerated with IDOC, Claimant Hall was diagnosed with an Extraskeletal Ewings Sarcoma/Primitive Neuroectodermal Tumor. On March 21, 2005, Claimant Hall, by and through his mother, Claimant Elizabeth Hall-Moten ("Claimant Hall-Moten") filed the instant Court of Claims case. Claimant Hall died of cancer on April 9, 2005. On June 2, 2006, Claimant Hall-Moten filed the amended complaint, which has two counts. Count I is a claim for Wrongful Death, and Count II is Survival Action.

Respondent now moves to dismiss this claim based on the statute of limitations set forth in the Illinois Court of Claims Act, 705 ILCS 505/22(h).

II. CLAIMANT HALL-MOTEN'S AMENDED COMPLAINT

Claimant Hall was sentenced to IDOC on October 1, 1999. On August 1, 2001, while incarcerated at Logan Correctional Center ("Logan"), Claimant Hall began to experience back pain and a small lump appeared on his back. While at Logan, Claimant Hall sought medical treatment, which included a muscle rub and ibuprofen, an anti-inflammatory drug. On September 1, 2001, Claimant Hall was transferred to Pontiac Correctional Center ("Pontiac"). As the size of the lump increased, and his pain continued, Claimant Hall sought medical treatment on various dates from December 2, 2001, to August 18, 2002, at Pontiac. His medical treatment consisted of muscle rubs and ibuprofen. On February 8, 2002, a fellow inmate, James Smith, #B52266, wrote to Pontiac's Medical Center Director to obtain medical treatment for Claimant Hall. On May 1, 2002, Claimant Hall was transferred to Stateville Correctional Center ("Stateville"), where he continued to seek medical treatment. On August 5, 2002, Claimant Hall sought medical care, and he was not allowed to see a doctor. On August 18, 2002, Claimant Hall filed a grievance in an effort to get appropriate medical treatment, and that grievance was denied.

On September 4, 2002, Claimant Hall was admitted to the University of Illinois-Chicago Medical Center. On October 18, 2002, approximately 15 months from when he first began to seek medical treatment, Claimant Hall was diagnosed with an Extraskeletal Ewings Sarcoma/Primitive Neuroectodermal Tumor. Claimant Hall-Moten alleges that Claimant Hall suffered as damages: violation of his constitutional rights, loss of life, and physical pain and suffering and emotional trauma and suffering, requiring the expenditure of money for treatment.

III. CLAIMANT HALL-MOTEN'S LITIGATION IN U.S. DISTRICT COURT

(Elizabeth Hall-Moten v. Kevin Smith, M.D., et al., 05 C 5510)

On September 23, 2005, Claimant Hall-Moten filed an action in United States District Court, Northern District, Case no. 05 C 5510 ("Federal Case") that arose out of the same set of facts as alleged herein. The named defendants in the Federal Case were Kevin Smith, M.D., Arthur D. Funk, M.D., Vicki Hetman, Addus Healthcare, Inc. ("Addus"), and Wexford Health Sources, Inc. ("Wexford"). Claimant Hall-Moten's Fourth Amended Complaint in her Federal Case had the following Counts: 1) Deliberate indifference to serious medical condition: II) Wrongful Death; II) Survival; IV) Third-party Breach of Contract claim against Defendant Wexford; V) Third-party Breach of Contract against Defendant Addus. On April 17, 2009, the U.S. District Court issued its opinion in this matter at: Elizabeth Hall-Moten v. Kevin Smith, M.D., et al., 2009 WL 1033361 (N.D. Ill.).

During the relevant time period, Dr. Arthur D. Funk was the medical director at Pontiac, and Dr. Kevin Smith, M.D., was a staff physician at Pontiac. Both Drs. Funk and Smith were at that time employed by Wexford. Sometime, in late 2001 or early 2002, Dr. Smith became the medical director at Stateville, where he was employed by Addus. Dr. Smith was the medical director at Stateville until May 2004.

On April 17, 2009, the U.S. District Court granted the defendants various motions for summary judgment in whole or in part, with the exception that the federal court denied defendant Addus' motion for summary judgment on Count V.

The U.S. District Court made the following findings of fact:

- On October 18, 2002, Hall was diagnosed with Extraskeletal Ewings Sarcoma/Primitive Neuroectodermal Tumor. At that time, a Dr. Snow informed Hall-Moten of Hall's diagnosis over the phone. Dr. Snow also told Hall-Moten during the same October 2002 phone call that Hall's prognosis would have been better if he had been brought in earlier, as the doctors could have eradicated the mass before it got so big. Hall was released from the Illinois Department of Corrections in November 2002, and died of cancer on April 9, 2005. As stated earlier, this lawsuit was filed on September 23, 2005.

Hall-Moten, 2009 WL 1033361, p. 3.

- At the time of Hall's death on April 9, 2005, the two-year statute of limitations on any personal injury claim Hall might have brought against the defendants has already expired.FN5. Accordingly, Hall-Moten "cannot now maintain this action for wrongful death" under Illinois law absent the application of equitable tolling principles."

Hall-Moten, 2009 WL 1033361, p. 4 (footnote and citations omitted).

- Similarly, the Illinois Survival Act "allows a representative of the decedent to maintain those statutory or common law actions which had already accrued to the decedent before he died." As with claims brought pursuant to the Wrongful Death Act, the right to bring a cause of action under the Survival Act is extinguished if the applicable statute of limitations would have barred the decedent from asserting the same cause of action during his lifetime. Because Hall's underlying personal injury claims had run at the time of his death, his claim for survival (Count III) cannot succeed on the basis of these claims absent the application of equitable tolling principles.

Hall-Moten, 2009 WL 1033361, p.5 (Citations omitted)

- The record demonstrates that Hall was clearly able to understand and communicate his decisions while incarcerated and, as far as the court can discern, the only change in Hall's condition upon his release was his experience of depression, pain, and illness associated with chemotherapy. These types of experiences are not normally or necessarily associated with an inability to comprehend, make, or communicate personal decisions. Without more, a fact finder cannot reasonably infer that Hall lost this ability and became legally disabled after his release from prison. The court understands that it may have been inconvenient, or even quite difficult, for Hall to file his claims while he battled a variety of medical problems. However, there is simply no evidence that these problems impacted his ability to proceed as a legally competent adult. Illinois' provision for tolling in the case of a legal disability cannot be applied to Hall's claims.

- Finally, Hall-Moten cannot prevail on her fraudulent concealment argument because Hall's ability to file within the two-year statutory period was not impacted by the defendant's conduct. Illinois courts have held that "if the plaintiff discovers the fraudulent concealment and a reasonable time remains within the relevant limitations period, section 13-215 of the Code will not apply to lengthen the limitations period." Hall-Moten does not suggest that either she or hall discovered the defendant's conduct after > October 19, 2002. For all of these reasons, the court declines to toll the applicable statutes of limitations on the basis of fraudulent concealment.

IV. ANALYSIS

Both Claimant Hall-Moten's actions for Wrongful Death and Survival are barred by the two year statute of limitations set forth in the Court of Claims Act, 705 ILCS 505/22(h).

On October 18, 2002, approximately 15 months from when he first began to seek medical treatment, Claimant hall was diagnosed with an Extraskeletal Ewings Sarcoma/Primitive Neuroectodermal Tumor. At the time, Dr. Snow informed Claimant Hall of the diagnosis over the telephone. On March 21, 2005, Claimant Hall filed his initial action in this Court alleging improper medical care while incarcerated at IDOC. On June 2, 2006, Claimant Hall-Moten filed an amended complaint that included a count for Wrongful Death and Survival Action.

Illinois Courts interpreting the Wrongful Death Act, 740 ILCS 180/1 et seq., have long found that a wrongful death action will lie only where the deceased had a claim that was not time-barred on or before his death. Beetle v. Wal-Mart Associates, Inc., et al., 326 Ill.App.3d 528, 533, 761 N.E. 2d 364, 369 (2nd Dist. 2001).

The Survival Act, 755 ILCS 5/27-6, does not create a statutory cause of action. Advincula v. United Blood Services, 176 Ill.2d 1, 42, 678 N.E.2d 1009, 1029 (1996). It merely allows a representative of the decedent to maintain those statutory or common law actions which had already accrued to the decedent before he died. Id. As such, a Survival Act claim is a derivative action based on injury to the decedent, but brought by the representative of a deceased's estate in that capacity. Id. Hence, for purposes of triggering the statutory limitations period, it is the date the deceased learns of his injury which is controlling. Id.

Claimant's initial cause of actions for deliberate indifference to his serious medical condition was filed on March 21, 2005, which was more than two years from October 18, 2002, the date Dr. Snow informed Claimant that Claimant had an Extraskeletal Ewings Sarcoma/Primitive Neuroectodermal tumor. Dr. Snow's diagnosis put Claimant on notice that he may have received improper medical care while incarcerated at IDOC. The date Claimant Hall was informed of Dr. Snow's diagnosis, October 18, 2002, was established in Elizabeth Hall-Moten v. Kevin Smith, M.D., et al., and is raised herein as collateral estoppel as to the date on which Claimant became informed of his tumor. Elizabeth Hall-Moten, 2009 WL 1033361. Since Claimant hall had been informed of his tumor on October 18, 2002, and did not file his initial claim for improper medical care until March 21, 2005, the Claimant's initial cause of action is barred by the statute of limitations at 705 ILCS 505/22(h).

Since the Claimant's initial cause of action is barred by the statute of limitations, based on Beetle and Advincula, Claimant Hall-Moten's subsequent actions for Wrongful Death and Survival are also barred by the statute of limitations at 705 ILCS 505/22(h).

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Respondent's Motion to Dismiss Claimant's Amended Complaint he, and the same is hereby, GRANTED, and the Claimant's Amended Complaint is dismissed with prejudice.

Opinion filed September 7, 2012

BRIAN DUGAN, pro se
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (JULIE MORGAN, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Court of Claims- Deference given to Illinois Department of Corrections for Review of Administrative Policies- The Court of Claims grants deference to the Illinois Department of Corrections, as it is charged with the administration and enforcement of Administrative Code. The Court of Claims routinely denies review of the disciplinary and administrative policies and decisions of the Illinois Department of Corrections.

Damages- Compensation Damages- Compensatory damages are damages that are awarded to a person as compensation, indemnity or restitution for a wrong or injury sustained by him and are to make the injured party whole by restoring him to the position before the loss; not to enable him to make a windfall or profit.

Authorization of Payment of Party's Cost- State of Illinois- In order for a party's costs to be paid, a statute must authorize payment of costs in order for a party to recover costs. Costs include filing fees, witness fees, deposition fees and expenses. The State of Illinois is liable for costs only if the statute awarding the costs specifically and clearly names the State of Illinois as liable for those Costs.

ORDER

Steffen, J.

The Claimant, Brian Dugan, filed suit seeking $140 for medical co-payment that he alleges have been improperly debited against his inmate trust fund account. The Claimant asks the Court of Claims to compensate him for administrative decisions the Respondent made in deciding who are indigent inmates within the Illinois Department of Corrections ('IDOC'), whether the Claimant is indigent, whether the Respondent can charge the Claimant a $2 co-payment for medical care, and when the $2 co-payment is deducted from the Claimant's trust fund account. Claimant seeks injunctive relief and additionally requests reimbursement for costs, postage, photocopying costs, filing fees, and his time in prosecuting this action at a rate of the minimum wage, totaling $559.28. For the reasons stated below, Claimant's claim is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part.

I. BACKGROUND

A case, addressing the same issue raised by Claimant, was decided by the Illinois Supreme Court, during the pendency of Claimant's claim. See Hadley v. IDOC, 224 Ill. 2d 365; 864 N.E.2d 162 (2007). The Illinois Supreme Court found fault with IDOC's administrative policy, because IDOC failed to take action on the statutory exemption for indigents until an inmate was discharged, a day that the Court recognized would never arrive for those inmates serving life sentences or sentenced to death. Id. The Court takes judicial notice that Claimant falls into the former of the two categories of inmates, serving multiple life sentences.

Even after a review of the legislative history, the Illinois Supreme Court in Hadley was unable to clarify how the indigence determination should be made. One thing was sure, though, that for a statute mandating exemption from a $2 co-payments for indigence, there was no authorization for a system under which an inmate's trust fund account is debited for the co-payment irrespective of whether the inmate is "financially able to afford the co-payment." Id. citing 730 ILCS 5/3-6-2(f) (West 2004). The Court envisioned that the IDOC could implement a system, such as was done, for example, in Massachusetts, which left open the possibility that some inmates could, at some point, have a negative balance in their trust fund accounts after a debit was made for the $2 co-payments.

Ruling that the IDOC was under no compulsion to adopt a regulatory scheme similar to the one adopted by the Massachusetts Department of Correction, the Court merely provided an example of a "type of regulation that could allow for the creation of negative balances, yet still focus on an inmate's current financial ability to afford the co-payment." Id.

II. EVIDENCE PRESENTED

Claimant and Respondent agreed that pursuant to 20 Ill. Admin. Code §415.30(g), (f)(3), the Claimant is required to pay a $2 co-pay for non-emergency medical care, unless he is indigent. What has classified an inmate as indigent by IDOC was introduced at the hearing. A survey of the indigence classifications reflects the adoption of a regulatory scheme such as Massachusetts' by IDOC in July of 2007, shortly after the Hadley decision.

From May 1, 1997, to July 1, 2007, an inmate was considered indigent by IDOC if during the entire term of his or her incarceration the offender is without funds to pay the $2 co-pay. Starting July 1, 2007, an inmate was considered indigent if at the time of service, the inmate's trust fund balance is under $2 and no time 60 days preceding the service has the inmate's trust fund account contained more than $2, regardless of the source of funds.

Claimant testified that he has had a negative balance in his trust account since 2000. Respondent impeached Claimant's claim of indigence. The Claimant admitted to receiving payroll, i.e. state pay, from 2004 to the present and that said funds have been applied to his trust fund account. From January 24, 2007, through November 6, 2009, Claimant received no payroll, because Claimant has not otherwise been indigent since he received state pay and his trust fund account reflected a positive balance.

Beginning March 16, 2010, Claimant's medical co-pays, totaling $14, started being deducted. The dates of each of the $2 invoices, corresponding to the $14 of medical co-pays are as follows: September 29, 2003, October 9, 2003, October 21, 2003, November 12, 2003, November 20, 2003, December 23, 2003, and January 8, 2004. Claimant has additional restrictions listed that total $126 in medical co-pays, which have not been deducted from his trust fund account. There is no guarantee of whether or when those $126 in medical co-pay restrictions will be debited.

Since the hearing date, Claimant notified the Court of Claims by letter that, "As it stands…Pontiac C.C, ceased making their questionable co-pay deductions from my trust account."

III. COURT OF CLAIMS HAS THE AUTHORITY TO OVERRIDE THE ADMINISTRATIVE DECISIONS OF THE ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS THAT CONFLICT WITH THE STATUTE.

The Court of Claims routinely denies review of the disciplinary and administrative policies and decisions of the Illinois Department of Corrections. White v. State, 49 Ill. Ct. Cl. 187, 189 (1996), citing, Holmes v. State, 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 275 (1978), Brady v. State, 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 240, 241 (1977), and Tedder v. State, 40 Ill. Ct. Cl. 201, 203 (1988). The Court of Claims grants deference to the Illinois Department of Corrections, as it is charged with the administration and enforcement of the statute, and is given great administrative discretion. Id; Church v. State of Illinois, 164 Ill. 2d 153, 162, 646 N.E.2d 572, 207 Ill. Dec. 6 (1995), citing Chevron, U.S.A., Inc, v. Natural resources Defense Council, Inc., 467 U.S. 837, 81 L. Ed. 2d 694, 104 S. Ct. 2778 (1984). Courts, however, are not bound by an agency's interpretation that conflicts with the statute, is unreasonable, or is otherwise erroneous. Taddeo v. Board of Trustees of the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, 216 Ill. 2d 590, 595, 837 N.E.2d 876, 297 Ill. Dec. 425 (2005); Press v. Code Enforcement Board of Appeals, 149 Ill. 2d 281, 285, 595 N.E.2d 1068, 172 Ill. Dec. 298 (1992); Carson Pirie Scott &Co. v. State of Illinois Department of Employment Security, 131 Ill. 2d 23, 34, 544 N.E.2d 772, 136 Ill. Dec. 86 (1989).

Here, as was pointed out in Hadley, the IDOC's approach, in an effort to remove any possibility of abuse by inmates, has the effect of swallowing up the $2 exemption.

> Under DOC's rules, the statutory co-payment requirement is imposed on all inmates regardless of whether they are 'financially able to afford the co-payment.' 730 ILCS 5/3-6-2(f) (West 2004). DOC's rules cannot be reconciled with the statute. Where an administrative rule conflicts with the statute under which it was adopted, the rules is invalid. See Carson Pirie Scott, 131 Ill. 2d at 34 (recognizing that agency action that is inconsistent with the statute must be overturned); Ruby Chevrolet, Inc. v. Department of Revenue, 6 Ill. 2d 147, 151, 126 N.E.2d 617 (1955) (declining to uphold agency rule that was 'in clear contravention of the day specific wording of the statute' under which the rule was adopted); Greaney v. Industrial Comm'n, 358 Ill. App. 3d 1002, 1026, 832 N.E.2d 331, 295 Ill. Dec. 180 (2005) (noting that '[w]henever an administrative rule conflicts with a statute, the rule will be held invalid').

Hadley, 224 Ill. 2d at 384-85.

The actual deduction of $14 of medical co-pays, for payment by the Claimant to Respondent, beginning March 16, 2010, correspond to medical co-pay restrictions that were placed on Claimant's account and were invoiced on the following dates: September 29, 2003, October 9, 2003, November 12, 2003, November 20, 2003, December 23, 2003, and January 8, 2004. Because the administrative rule conflicted in 2003 and 2004 with the statute under which it was adopted, the $2 medical co-pay restrictions for the seven instances outlined above must be overturned, and Claimant is to be awarded the $14 which was deducted from his account.

IV. CLAIMANT HAS FAILED TO PROVE DAMAGES FOR HIS CLAIM FOR THE REMAINING $126

With respect to the remaining $126 in medical co-pays restrictions, Claimant failed to present any competent evidence of when, if ever, Claimant's remaining $126 medical co-pays restriction will actually be debited from his account. And since the hearing date, Claimant has affirmatively notified the Court of Claims by letter that, "As it stands…Pontiac C.C, ceased making their questionable co-pay deductions from my trust account." Each claimant has the burden of proving his or her damages and in the absence of such proof, the claim will be denied. Harris v. State, 41 Ill. Ct. Cl. 184 (1989); Jackson v. State, 45 Ill. Ct. Cl. 314 (1992). Compensatory damages are damages that are awarded to a person as compensation, indemnity or restitution for a wrong or injury sustained by him and are to make the injured party whole by restoring him to the position before the loss; not enable him to make a windfall or profit. Harris v. Peters, 274 Ill.App.3d 206, 207, 653 N.E.2d 1274, 1275 (1st Dist. 1995) citing Dial v. City of O'Fallon, 81 Ill.2d 548, 558, 44 Ill.Dec. 248, 411 N.E.2d 217 (1980), Rittenhouse v. Tabor Grain Co. 203 Ill.App.3d 639, 650, 148 Ill. Dec. 958, 561 N.E.2d 264 (4th Dist. 1990), Restatement (Second) of Torts §901, comment a, at 452 (1979), McLane v. Russell, 131 Ill.2d 509, 523, 137 Ill.Dec. 554, 546 N.E.2d 499 (1989). Therefore, Claimant's claim for the remaining $126 medical co-pay restrictions which have not actually debited from his account, because he has not suffered an injury and damage, is DENIED.

V. CLAIMANT'S INJUNCTIVE RELIEF IS DENIED AND MOOT

Claimant sought injunctive relief in the form of having the Respondent being prohibited from charging him any medical co-pay until he has a positive balance in trust fund account. This Court lacks equitable power to grant an injunction. The Illinois Municipal League v. State, 47 Ill. Ct. Cl. 43, 47 (1994); Garimella v. Board of Trustees of the Univ. of Illinois, 50 Ill. Ct. Cl. 350, 353 (1996); Gass and Eckermann v. State, 44 Ill. Ct. Cl. 186,, 196 (1992). Since this Court cannot grant injunctive relief, the Claimant is not entitled to the same. Furthermore, since the hearing, Claimant has notified the Court of Claims that, 'As it stands…Pontiac C.C, ceased making their questionable co-pay deductions from my trust account,' making, therefore Claimant's prior request for injunctive relief, moot. Therefore, the Claimant's request for injunctive relief is DENIED.

VI. CLAIMANT REQUEST FOR COSTS REIMBURSEMENT, IN THE AMOUNT OF $559.28, IS DENIED.

Claimant sought to be compensated $559.28 for his costs in this matter, to wit, $44.45 copying, $39.58 postage, $15 filing fees, and $475.25 for his time/labor. The Claimant is not entitled to this compensation. The Court held in Lucien v. State, 47 Ill. Ct. Cl. 221, 225-226 (1994), that in order for a party's costs to be paid, a statute must authorize payment of costs in order for a party to recover costs. Costs include filing fees, witness fees, deposition fees and expenses. Parker v. State, 52 Ill. Ct. Cl. 378 (2000). Postage and copying are not costs. Id. The State of Illinois is liable for costs only if the statute awarding the costs specifically and clearly names the State of Illinois as liable for those costs. I & D Pharmacy, Inc. v. State, 37 Ill. Ct. Cl. 7, 42 (1984), Cayman Associates Ltd. v. State, 33 Ill. Ct. Cl. 301 (1980), Parker v. State, 52 Ill. Ct. Cl. 378 (2000). The general statute that allows the awarding of costs to plaintiffs who recover damages, 735 ILCS5/5-108 (West 2011), does not name the State of Illinois as being subject to the payment of costs under that statute.

Claimant failed to cite to any Illinois statute that allows for the recovery of his costs in this matter. Since the Claimant has not alleged authority for an award of costs and since the general statute that allows the awarding of costs to plaintiffs who recover damages does not name the State of Illinois as being subject to the payment of costs, the Claimant's request for costs is DENIED.

IT IS THEREFORE HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant is granted $14.00 as full satisfaction of this claim.

OPINION

Storino, J.

This claim is before this Court upon a recommendation from the assigned commissioner following an evidentiary hearing this matter is a premises liability claim asserted by Claimant, Derek DeJohn Dow (hereinafter "Claimant"), against Respondent, Chicago State University (hereinafter "CSU"), for injuries and damages that the Claimant sustained on August 10, 2004, after falling through an allegedly defective window on CSU's premises. The following witnesses and evidence were presented at trial:

FACTS

Claimant Derek DeJohn Dow:

Claimant testified that he attended CSU from 2000 until 2006. Claimant further testified that during the summer of 2004 he was employed as a counselor at CSU's summer camp for theater and media arts. As a counselor, Claimant often stayed beyond the normal 7:00a.m. to 3:00p.m. camp hours in order to ensure that the children, ranging in ages from eight to fourteen years old, were picked up by a parent or guardian.

Claimant testified that at approximately 4:00p.m. on August 10, 2004, Claimant was standing in the hallway of the Douglas Hall library monitoring a group of children that were awaiting their rides. The hallway was lined with plate glass windows on each side and Claimant was standing with his back to one of those windows. Claimant further testified that on August 10, 2004, he was twenty-two years old, approximately 5'7" and approximately 150-160 pounds. Claimant testified that he was talking and joking with the children. In response to his joking, one of the children playfully pushed the Claimant. Claimant testified that the child who pushed him was a little girl who was approximately ten to twelve years old, 4'6" tall, and approximately 70 pounds. The push caused the Claimant to take a step back, whereupon his back touched the glass of one of the windows. Claimant testified that it was not a heavy push, but he stepped back so that his back gently touched the window. The window shattered, and Claimant fell straight through the window. The upper half of his body was lying outside of the building, and the lower half of his body was inside the building.

Claimant testified that he sustained the following injuries as a result of the accident: a laceration to his left wrist; a laceration to his left forearm; a laceration to his left thumb; a laceration to his right middle finger; and a severe laceration of the tip of his right ring finger which required reattachment. A group of CSU nursing students who were in the vicinity of the incident provided Claimant with immediate first aid to control some of his bleeding, and he was subsequently transported by paramedics to Roseland Community Hospital where he received further medical treatment. Claimant's injuries required fifteen staples in his left forearm, staples in his left thumb, and further stitching for his other lacerations, including the reattachment of the tip of his ring finger.

Claimant testified regarding the physical extent and impact of his injuries. Due to the injuries he sustained in his right arms, Claimant was unable to perform many daily life activities, such as opening doors, opening medicine bottles, driving, etc. While healing, Claimant was also instructed to keep his wounds dry. Therefore, he needed assistance with bathing and other grooming activities. Claimant had also suffered an injury to his left hand which further impaired his ability to take care of himself. Claimant testified that he had the staples in for approximately one month, and the stitches were kept intact for approximately two months. Claimant further testified that one month after the incident, he was able to extend the fingers of his right hand, but that doing so was painful. His left hand became pain-free approximately two months after the incident and his right hand became pain-free approximately four to five months after the incident. After the staples were removed, the scar on his left forearm became infected and required some antibiotic treatment. Claimant testified that approximately four months after the incident he still experienced numbness in his fingers, and had difficulty shaking hands with people. He further stated that he had difficulty holding a video camera, which prevented him from taking his freelance film shooting assignments, which he previously had done. Claimant stated that he was not able to resume video shooting until the summer of 2005.

As to scarring, Claimant testified that he has a raised scar on his left forearm in the area where the staples had been placed, approximately one and a half inches to two inches in length. Claimant testified that the point where his ring finger tip was reattached is still misshapen, bent and bulky. His right middle finger also has an area of skin that is harder than the rest of the skin due to the way it healed. Claimant further testified that he feels self-conscious about his scars, but has learned to get past it.

As to condition of the windows, Claimant testified that prior to the incident, he had passed through the Douglas Hall corridor many times, and had often heard the windows rattle and shake when the wind was blowing. He further testified that at some point in 2004, prior to his own incident, he had seen one of the corridor windows boarded up. Claimant testified that he had not inspected the window he fell through prior to his fall.

Claimant seeks to recover $2,160.00 for the medical bills he incurred from his injuries. He requests a further sum of $10,000.00 for his pain and suffering. Claimant also seeks $10,000.00 for the loss of a normal life suffered, and $20,000 for the permanent disfigurement he sustained. In total, Claimant seeks to recover $42,160.00.

Wendell Tucker

Wendell Tucker ("Tucker") testified that he was a student at CSU from 2001 until 2006. He was Claimant's classmate, and was also employed by CSU as a camp counselor during its summer 2004 theater and media arts camp. Tucker testified that he had passed through the Douglas Hall corridor on numerous occasions, and had heard the windows rattle on windy days. On August 10, 2004, Tucker was in a classroom with his summer camp students when a child informed him that someone was hurt. He went to see what happened and observed the broken window that the Claimant had fallen through. Tucker further testified that he had observed this same window boarded up on a previous occasion in 2004, and had knowledge about prior incidents of windows breaking in the Douglas Hall corridor.

Tucker testified that in the spring of 2004, prior to Claimant's incident, there was a town hall meeting led by Dr. Daniels, CSU's president at the time. Tucker testified that he was present at this meeting, and that one of the students had voiced concern that the windows rattled when it was windy. Another individual at the meeting also mentioned that a student had fallen through a window. Tucker further testified that Dr. Daniels' response was that she would have the maintenance people look into any issues with the windows.

Arthur G. Stiers:

Arthur Stiers ("Stiers") testified that he is an architect who was employed by CSU as the director of physical facilities planning and management from 2002 until approximately 2010. Stiers testified that upon his arrival at CSU in 2002, he found the University to be poorly maintained. He stated that he had noticed a significant amount of maintenance and repairs that needed to be made. Stiers stated that the windows in the corridor of Douglas Hall were made of tinted plate glass, and were in compliance with the industry and government standards of the 1970s when Douglas Hall was originally built. Stiers further testified that if DouglasHall had been built in 2004, tempered glass would have been required in conformance with updated industry and government standards. To his knowledge, no major changes or renovations, other than repairing broken windows with the same type of plate glass, had been made to the window prior to his arrival in 2002.

While serving as a facilities director at CSU, Stiers testified that there were multiple incidents of windows breaking as a result of individuals coming into contact with them. He also testified that everyone that was involved in an incident with windows had been injured in some way. Stiers stated that the protocol after an incident of broken glass usually required the campus police to immediately respond to the scene of the incident. Subsequently, workers under his supervision were responsible for going out to an incident site to clean up debris and secure the area until a contractor could be contacted to replace the windows.

As a potential remedy to the window incidents, Stiers testified that he had recommended the installation of a wooden handrail along the interior corridor of Douglas Hall, near the windows, in order to provide some barrier between individuals and the glass. Stiers stated that this proposal was ultimately rejected because in order to install the rails, CSU would have had to also upgrade the preexisting aluminum window frames. The total cost of the upgrades was prohibitive in light of CSU's budget. After the first incident of a student falling through the Douglas Hall windows, total window replacement (upgrades to tempered glass) had also been considered, but again ultimately rejected due to cost considerations.

Although Stiers could not testify as to the exact dimensions and specifications of the plate glass windows used in Douglas Hall at the time of Claimant's incident, he did testify that the proposed temper-glazed window replacements were significantly stronger than the plate glass, and could withstand incidental contact to a greater degree. Stiers further testified that he did not have knowledge of any warning signs having been placed on or near the windows.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

This is a negligence claim brought by Claimant Dow against Respondent CSU for injuries that he sustained when he fell through an allegedly defective window on the Respondent's premises. In a negligence action, a claimant must establish the existence of a duty, a breach of that duty, and an injury proximately resulting from the breach of that duty. Holloway v. Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, 45 Ill. Ct. Cl. 255 (1992).

Claimant is alleging that CSU's windows were defective because they were prone to breaking upon incidental contact. Thus, Claimant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that: (1) CSU had actual knowledge that there was a defect in the glass and failed to remedy that defect, or (2) the defect existed for a sufficient length of time so that it should have been discovered through reasonable diligence, thereby charging the University with constructive notice of the defect. Id at 258.

The case of Ondes v. State of Illinois is highly dispositive of the matter at hand. 43 Ill. Ct. Cl. 272 (1991). In Ondes, the claimant was a Southern Illinois University student who brought a premises liability claim against the State for injuries he sustained from gymnasium light fixtures which he alleged were defective and prone to breaking. Id. On the date of his incident, claimant went to the gymnasium and decided to stretch out before playing basketball. Id. at 274. He chose to hang on one of the light fixtures in order to stretch, because he had seen other students stretch in the same manner on previous occasions. When claimant went to grab the light fixture bar it broke, whereupon claimant fell on his back and the bar fell on his face. Id. at 275. Even though Claimant was not able to allege a precise defect in the fixtures, he presented evidence of similar prior incidents of which the University had notice. Specifically, University maintenance crews had to go to the gymnasium on at least seven different occasions prior to the claimant's incident in order to repair and replace broken light fixtures. Id. The Ondes court found that these incidents provided the University with notice that the gymnasium light fixtures were defective. The University's failure to warn of the danger was a breach of the duty it owed to gymnasium users. Id. at 278. Thus, the Ondes Court held that there was sufficient evidence that the gymnasium light fixtures were defective even though a specific defect was not identified.

Similar to Ondes, CSU had notice of a potential defect in the Douglas Hall corridor windows. Stiers' testimony is especially instructive because he was in charge of maintaining CSU's facilities. Stiers' testimony established that in addition to the Claimant's incident there had been previous incidents of individuals becoming injured after incidental contact with the windows. In fact, he stated that there had been a proposal to install a guardrail, or upgrade the windows in light of the frequency of individuals becoming hurt upon incidental contact with the windows. These proposals were considered prior to Claimant being injured. Even if the cost of these measures exceeded CSU's budget, CSU could have still implemented less expensive safety precautions. However, CSU never publicly addressed the potential danger with a school bulletin signs, or otherwise. There is convincing evidence that CSU knew of the defective windows yet failed to take any reasonable measures to protect its students and others on the premises.

Respondent contends that it is not liable to the Claimant. In support of this position, Respondent cites case law where the claimants' negligence claims, stemming from injuries they sustained from broken glass, were dismissed. However, all of these cases are distinguishable. First, Respondent cites Zonta v. Village of Bensenville, in support of its position that the Douglas Hall windows were not defective. 167 Ill. App. 3d 354, 521 N.E.2d 274 (2nd Dist. 1988). In Zonta, the plaintiff was injured when he was about to enter defendant's village hall. He stopped to tie his shoe and as he learned his arm against the plate glass window next to the entrance doors, it shattered, injuring him. Id. at 275. The plaintiff was not able to specify how the plate glass was defective, so the defendant moved for summary judgment. Id. Plaintiff was not able to present any evidence in opposition to defendant's motion. Id. at 276. He did not have any witnesses, or any other evidence to show that the Defendant had any prior notice or knowledge of a potential defect. Thus, defendant's motion was granted. Id. at 277. Unlike the plaintiff in Zonta, Claimant in the case at hand has presented evidence that CSU had knowledge of prior incidents involving Douglas Hall windows breaking due to incidental contact.

Respondent next cites Holloway v. Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, 45 Ill. Ct. Cl. 255 (1991). Similarly, the claimant in Holloway was injured when a glass door on respondent University of Illinois' premises shattered, injuring her. Id. at 256. Claimant admitted that she could not specify how the glass door may have been defective. Id. Further, she was not able to offer evidence of any other similar prior incidents that would have put the respondent on notice that the glass door was defective. Id. at 266. Again, this case is distinguishable from the case at hand because Claimant has presented evidence that supports his allegation that CSU had knowledge that the Douglas Hall corridor windows were prone to breaking upon incidental contact.

Respondent asserts that it did not have a duty to replace the windows with safer, glazed glass because the windows were in compliance with the industry and government standards of the 1970s, when Douglas Hall was built. Respondent cites case law where the Illinois Court of Claims dismissed Claimants' negligence claims that arose from allegations of defective highway construction. See Fejes v. State, 46 Ill. Ct. Cl. 109 (1994); Hodge v. State, 35 Ill. Ct. Cl. 50 (1981); Nass v. State, 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 487 (1979). The dismissals were partly based on the fact that the roadways were in compliance with the accepted safety standards at the time the roads were constructed, rather than the safety standards in effect at the time of the incidents. Id. However, all of these cited cases are distinguishable because none of the fact patterns involved evidence of a defect demonstrated by prior similar incidents that would have given the State notice of a dangerous defect. Id. Compliance with standards and regulations at the time of construction, alone, will not dispose of a claim where there is sufficient evidence to show that the State has notice of a defect. See Fejes, 46 Ill. Ct. Cl. 109 at 119; Hodge, 35 Ill. Ct. Cl. 50 at 54-56; Nass, 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 487 at 494-495.

While CSU's plate glass windows complied with the 1970's industry standards and regulations, the numerous incidents involving broken glass with incidental contact put the State on notice of a defective condition. Further, CSU failed to take any reasonable measures to warn its students of the defect. While cost is always a consideration for any institution which tries to maintain a budget, warning signs would have been a minimal, cost effective, temporary step for warning individuals to stay away from the windows. Respondent's compliance with standards at the time of construction, and budget considerations will not completely bar a claimant from recovering for injuries that result from a defect if the State knew about the defective condition. The evidence shows that CSU had notice of the potential danger that the windows posed to individuals, and it had a duty to mitigate the danger in some reasonable manner. Therefore, the Respondent should be held liable for Claimant's injuries.

DAMAGES

The Claimant seeks a total of $42,160.00 in damages. In evaluating the damages to be awarded in a personal injury action, the Court of Claims must consider the Claimant's medical expenses, lost income, pain and suffering, and disability. Giovanetto v. State of Illinois, 42 Ill. Ct. Cl. 106 (1990). The Claimant's medical bills total $2,160.00. Claimant further seeks $10,000 for his pain and suffering endured, as well as $10,000 for the loss of normal life suffered. Claimant finally seeks $20,000 for the permanent disfigurement he sustained.

A Claimant has the burden of proving his damages with certainty. Gildehaus v. State of Illinois, 46 Ill. Ct. Cl. 176 (1993). Claimant also has the burden of proving his medical damages by a preponderance of the evidence. See Davis v. State of Illinois, 51 Ill. Ct. Cl. 214 (1998).

As to medical expenses, Claimant has presented medical bills from Roseland Community Hospital for charges he incurred on August 10, 2004. Claimant's visits are well documented, and clearly stem from the injuries he sustained when he fell through the Douglas Hall window. The charges for these hospital visits total $2,160, so Claimant is entitled to this full amount claimed for his medical bills.

Claimant seeks $10,000 for his pain and suffering. Claimant testified that he was experiencing pain and dexterity issues for several months following his incident. However, he has not presented medical documentation to support these claims. Claimant's testimony as to the extent of his suffering contradicts his medical records which show that he had some stitches removed on August 17, 2004, but had all the remaining staples and stitches removed on August 21, 2004, which was eleven days following his incident on August 10, 2004. The emergency room record of August 10, 2004, indicates that following his treatment, Claimant was prescribed Keflex (an antibiotic), Motrin (for his pain), and a topical antibiotic ointment. However, on his August 13, 2004 visit to Roseland Community Hospital, Claimant's hospital record indicates that he denied experiencing any pain. Further, no additional pain medication was prescribed. On August 17, 2004, Claimant's record indicated that he was still taking Motrin and antibiotics, but the record further showed that he denied experiencing pain. On August 17, 2004, Claimant also had some of his stitches removed, which is contrary to Claimant's testimony that his stitches were kept intact for approximately two months. Claimant's remaining staples and stitches were removed from his right hand and left arm on August 21, 2004, approximately eleven days after his incident. The August 21, 2004 discharge notes instruct Claimant to keep his wounds clean, but fail to include any prescription renewals for pain medication. Further, this final hospital record of August 21, 2004 does not maintain Claimant experiencing any pain or disability in his hands. As no medical testimony was presented, nor were there any medical records presented at trial to establish that Claimant experienced pain from his injuries beyond August 21, 2004, Claimant's entire request for damages for pain and suffering has not been proven.

Nevertheless, Claimant clearly experienced some pain and suffering from the day of his incident on August 10, 2004 until the final removal of his staples and stitches, eleven days later, on August 21, 2004. In addition to any physical pain which required Motrin, Claimant did not have use of his right hand and his stapled thumb on his left hand prevented him from having use of his left hand. Based upon the record, Claimant's injuries resulted in pain and suffering for eleven days in the reasonable amount of $1,000.

As to the loss of normal life suffered, the Claimant seeks $10,000. The Claimant's medical records support the fact that Claimant's daily activities were impaired for eleven days from the date of his incident on August 10, 2004, until the final removal of all of his staples and stitches on August 21, 2004. Within that time period, Claimant did not have use of either of his hands and required assistance to carry out normal life activities like bathing. Claimant also proved that he would not have been able to hold his video camera during these eleven days. Nevertheless, there was no medical evidence presented that Claimant was experiencing loss of normal life beyond the eleven days between August 10, 2004 and August 21, 2004. Based upon the evidence, Claimant's injuries resulted in a loss of normal life suffered in the amount of $1,925.

Finally, Claimant seeks $20,000 for the permanent disfigurement he sustained on his right hand and left forearm. Claimant testified that the area where his right fingertip was reattached is still misshapen, bent and bulky. His right middle finger also has an area of skin that is harder than the rest of the finger's skin due to the way it healed. Claimant further testified that he has a slightly raised, one and a half to two inch length scar on his left forearm which is slightly darker than the rest of his skin. This scar marks the spot where the staples had been placed, and appears to be permanent. Claimant also testified that all of his scars sometimes cause him to feel self-conscious, but he himself stated that he gets past it. Based upon the evidence, Claimant suffered permanent scarring in the amount of $8,640.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant is hereby awarded $13,825.00.

Attorney Fees- Burden of Proof- A Claimant in a matter brought pursuant to 5 ILCS 100/10-55(a) bear the burden of strict proof and persuasion on each element to recover.

ORDER

Burns, J.

This case comes before the Court on the Complaint of the Claimant, PHILLIP ZEZULAK, and against the respondent, STATE OF ILLINOIS, DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES ("DHS"). Claimant contends that the charges brought against him by DHS through the Office of the Inspector General ("OIG"), alleging "egregious neglect" while he was employed as a Qualified Mental Retardation Professional, ("QMRP"), failed to sustain a preponderance of the evidence, and therefore pursuant to 5 ILCS 100/10-55(a)[1], the claimant seeks reimbursement for his associated attorney's fees and litigation expenses.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 23, 2003 OIG received a report from the Ray Graham Association for People with Disabilities, that a disabled resident, identified in this Order only as "IK", had choked while eating her dinner and died as a result. The matter was then investigated.

[1] in any contested cause initiated by any agency that does not proceed to court for judicial review and on any issue where a court does not have jurisdiction to make an award of litigation expenses under Section 2-611 of the Civil Practice Law, any allegation made by the agency without reasonable cause and found to be untrue shall subject that agency making the allegation to the payment of the reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, actually incurred in defending against that allegation by the party against whom the cause was initiated.

After an investigation, OIG concluded that the Claimant, who had been assigned to provide IK's care, had demonstrated "egregious neglect," resulting in IK's death. On February 15, 2005, OIG sent the Claimant a "Notice of Intent to file a Report of the Finding" of "Egregious Neglect" to the Nurse Aide Registry, pursuant to 50 Ill. Adm. Code 50.10.

Claimant filed a timely Notice of Appeal.

On April 11, 2006, a hearing was held before Administrative Law Judge Susan Bradshaw. On June 25, 2005, Judge Bradshaw issued a written opinion finding that DHS failed to demonstrate, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the finding of "egregious neglect" warranted reporting to the Nurse's Aide Registry.

On October 2, 2005, the Claimant filed his complaint in the Court of Claims, seeking reimbursement for attorney's fees and litigation expenses.

FACTS

On March 23, 2003, IK was a seventy-seven year-old female resident of The Starling Home ("Starling"). Starling is a residential placement facility providing mental health and developmental disability services, and was run by the Ray Graham Association for People with Disabilities. IK had been diagnosed with severe mental retardation, Tourette syndrome, Tardive dyskinesia, depression with psychotic features, and hypertension. IK had resided at Starling since December 2002, when she was transferred from another Ray Graham facility.

Claimant, a QMRP, had been employed at various Ray Graham facilities since 1987. A QMRP degree requires a bachelor's level college degree, plus one year's experience with persons with disabilities. In addition, Claimant also had first aid and CPR training.

The Claimant was the staff member who was charged with coordinating delivery of services to IK. An initial staffing took place when IK was transferred to Starling. Claimant testified that he attempted to obtain IK's prior records, but they could not be located. Claimant did not receive a clinical order for IK's dietary restriction.

IK's "face sheet," which was maintained at the front of her record binder and intended to highlight important patient issues, indicated "soft food, prune juice daily, no sweets, low caffeine intake" under the heading "Special Medical Instructions." At that time, the ray Graham Facility policy, as set forth in its training manual, stated that a "soft food diet" may be a general diet that is changed in consistency, meaning that foods may be "chopped or ground."

On March 23, 2003, Claimant reported for work as a replacement for another employee. At that time, Claimant was the only staff member on duty, and was responsible for six residents, including IK. The staff on the earlier shift had prepared pot roast for the resident's dinner, which Claimant served the residents at approximately 4:30 p.m. Claimant claims that he cut the pot roast into pieces of approximately one by one-half inches, and put some on each plate and the residents sat down to eat.

Claimant admitted that the meat had to be cut into smaller pieces, but he claimed that he was attempting to teach the residents to cut their own meat. Claimant also acknowledged knowing that IK had a history of eating too quickly. Claimant claims he was assisting the residents at the opposite end of the table from where IK was sitting. Claimant observed IK sit at the table briefly and then took her glass of juice and left the table to sit in the living room. Claimant testified that he did not observe IK take any meat from the plate. Claimant finished serving the residents their meal and proceeded to clean the kitchen.

Claimant then noticed that IK was unnaturally quiet. Claimant continued to be concerned about IK and observed that "she did not look right" and was taking deep, gasping breaths. Then IK's head dropped to the side and she became unresponsive. Claimant called 911 and the Naperville paramedics responded within minutes to find IK unresponsive with no pulse or spontaneous breathing.

The paramedics' initial attempts to incubate IK were not successful. The paramedics then cleared IK's airway be removing a piece of meat from her throat with long forceps. Paramedics continued resuscitation, but lifesaving efforts were unsuccessful. IK was transported to the hospital, where she was declared dead by Dr. Suail Mathews. Dr. Matthews declared the cause of death to be "fatal cardiopulmonary arrest."

Upon notice of IK's death, OIG initiated and completed an investigation into the circumstances of IK's death and determined Claimant failed to observe the proper dietary restrictions of the deceased, and thus a finding of "egregious neglect" was warranted.

Claimant filed a timely appeal of the finding. At the administrative law hearing, Claimant contended that he was not aware of, or properly notified of, any special dietary restrictions of IK. Claimant further asserted that the medical evidence, including the expert testimony of Claimant's expert witness, Dr. James Taylor, suggested that IK's cause of death could not be determined with a reasonable degree of certainty because no autopsy had been performed. Dr. Taylor testified that at least two causes of death other than choking (including, but not limited to, stroke or heart attack) were consistent with the circumstances.

The Administrative Law Judge found that OIG had substituted its own judgment in the absence of expert testimony and, therefore, had deprived the claimant from having the opportunity to challenge its conclusions with cross examination. The Judge concluded that OIG failed to demonstrate Claimant's "egregious neglect" by a preponderance of the evidence, and therefore the matter would not be reported to the Nurse Aide Registry.

This section for recovery of attorney fees is brought pursuant to 5 ILCS 100/10-55. The statute at issue, and under which the Claimant seeks relief, has the following requirements:

1. There must be a contested case initiated by an agency that does not proceed to the court of judicial review;
2. There must be an allegation made by the agency without reasonable cause;
3. That allegation must be found to be untrue;
4. There must be no stipulation by the Claimant, which requires the Claimant to take corrective action or pay a monetary sum. That a demand for fees was made of the agency and denied.

A claimant in a matter brought pursuant to 10-55(a) bears the burden of strict proof and persuasion on each element to recover. There is no dispute between the parties that Claimant's burden has been met as to elements 1, 3, and 4. The issue before this Court is whether the Claimant has met his burden in establishing that the allegation made by the agency was without reasonable cause.

The law is clear that the "reasonableness of the agency's charges is to be determined as of the date of those charges, and not retrospectively with the advantage of hindsight."

Lake Environmental, Inc. v. State, 54 Ill. Ct. Cl. 408, 414 (2001). The court also found that the determination of the "reasonable cause" issue shall not be made by the administrative law judge, but is rather within the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims. Id. at 415.

> The OIG investigation revealed the following information:
> Community Connector Lisa Kriller stated that she had been at a staffing meeting with claimant on December 16, 2002, during which she informed Claimant of IK's dietary restrictions of mechanical soft diet. Her statements were corroborated by Summer Home Manager Tabitha Moore. The Starling Home Clinical Record Face Sheet documented that IK was to be on a "soft food diet."
> The investigation revealed that on March 23, 2003 Claimant was the only staff member on duty at Starling Home, and that he served IK, and other residents, a meal of pot roast.
> OIG's investigation further revealed that Claimant gave two conflicting versions of the events that took place. First, he stated that he cut the pot roast into bite-sized pieces and placed the meat on each resident's plate. At about 4:30 p.m., Claimant observed IK run into the kitchen, take a piece of meat and gulp it down with prune juice. He stated that he was aware of IK's habit of grabbing and gobbling her food. She left the dining room to watch television, and Claimant continued to check on her. Claimant stated that IK made eye contact; she did not speak to him. At about 6:30 IK began to breathe strangely and her head rolled to the side and her eyes closed. Claimant called 911.
> In the second version, Claimant stated that he was in the kitchen at 6:00 p.m. and placed the meat on the plates of the residents. He noticed IK go from the kitchen table into the living room, he went to check on her and she grabbed his arm and began to perspire and then became unresponsive. He called 911 at 6:30 p.m.
> The report of the responding paramedics indicated they received the call at 6:04 p.m., and they arrived at 6:07 p.m. When paramedics arrived, they observed IK sitting on the couch with her eyes open and she was unresponsive. While attempting to incubate her, they noted an airway obstruction. A check of her throat revealed a blockage and they used forceps to remove a piece of meat "one and a half inch by one and half inch." The life-saving efforts were unsuccessful, and IK was pronounced dead at 6:45 p.m. at Edwards Hospital. The report of the DuPage County Coroner determined IK's cause of death to be the result of asphyxia, due to airway obstruction.
> The OIG reported concluded that specific dietary restrictions for IK had been established and communicated and that the meal IK served was not compliant with the requirements. OIG concluded that Claimant's failure to provide proper diet result in her death. OI made a finding of "egregious neglect" against claimant.

IK's family chose not to have an autopsy. Therefore, the exact cause of her death was never officially established by a medical examiner. On appeal, Claimant presented testimony of Dr. James Taylor, a doctor of internal medicine. Dr. Taylor testified that he reviewed the records from the facility, the hospital, and the coroner. In sum, Dr. Taylor disputed the coroner's finding and testified that in absence of an autopsy, IK's cause of death could not be conclusively determined. Dr. Taylor testified that he could not exclude asphyxia as the cause of death, but absent evidence of IK having demonstrated a gag reflex, he did not consider asphyxia to be the most likely cause of death. He testified that the other causes of death including a coronary or stroke were consistent with the circumstances as detailed in the reports.

It was based on the testimony of Dr. Taylor, and the totality of the evidence presented, that the Administrative Law Judge determined that the Respondent had failed to demonstrate "egregious neglect" by a preponderance of the evidence.

The relevant code defines "egregious neglect" as follows:

> "the substantive failure by an employee to provide adequate medical or personal care of maintenance that results in the death, serious medical condition, or serious deterioration of an individual's physical or mental condition, as determined by the Inspector General. 59 Ill. Adm. Code 50.10.

Further, it defines "credible evidence" this way:

> "Any evidence that relates to the allegation or incident and that is considered believable and reliable." 50 Ill. Adm. Code 50.10.

In McBride v. State of Illinois, 59 Ill.Ct.Cl. 268 (2007), this Court considered a similar claim for 10-55(a) attorney fees. There, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (the "IEPA") had charged the Claimant with "gross misconduct" in connection with the alleged dumping of waste into the environment. An administrative hearing officer dismissed the claims due to lack of evidence, and the claimant sought recovery of his fees in this Court. In denying the Claimant's claim, the Court found that the Claimant had not met his burden of proof to show that the IEPA had acted without reasonable cause in alleging "gross misconduct" in the first place. "[T]he hearing officer found that there was a discharge…, but that the discharge was 'essential maintenance' allowed by the State…" the Court wrote, "It cannot be said that the allegations made in the Amended Complaint were without reasonable cause." Id.

In the instant case, the OIG, in making its finding, relied on interviews with Claimant, the facility staff, the responding emergency medical personnel, in addition to the coroner's report, and the resident's records. It is undisputed that IK's records reflect that she was to receive a "soft" diet. Claimant claims distinction between "soft" diet and "mechanical soft" diet. However, the OIG reasonably relied on the facility's policy which states that soft foods be chopped or ground.

OIG also reasonably relied on the testimony of a staff member, confirmed by another staff member, which indicated that Claimant was orally advised of IK's mechanical soft diet requirement. Further, it was proper for OIG to consider the report of the paramedics, which indicated that they removed a one and one-half inch, by one and one-half inch, piece of meat from IK's throat while attempting to resuscitate her.

Based on all the facts and evidence that were available to OIG at the time of its investigation, it was not unreasonable for OIG to conclude that Claimant had committed egregious neglect. Claimant has failed to establish that the allegation made by the agency was without reasonable cause. The Claimant, therefore, is unable to sustain his burden of proof, and his clam for attorney's fees is denied.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that this Claim be denied.

ORDER

This cause comes before the court on the Claimant's Motion to Reconsider. The Respondent filed an answer, and the Claimant filed a response. The Court having read the briefs and being fully advised in the premises finds:

On October 5, 2011, the Court found that Claimant failed to meet his burden to prove that the Office Inspector General's (OIG) allegation of egregious neglect against Claimant was without reasonable cause, a necessary element of an attorney's fee claim brought under 5 ILCS 100/10-55, and denied his attorney's fee claim. Claimant argues this decision was in error because the Court failed to adequately take into account that the OIG had conducted an incompetent investigation. Specifically, Claimant cites the OIG's alleged failure to identify, preserve and consider pertinent evidence that was required and that would have, Claimant argues, made it clear that no reasonable cause existed to warrant OIG's finding of egregious neglect.

The Court fully considered all the evidence and arguments in this matter. Among the evidence that was not in dispute was that the Claimant served a dinner consisting of chopped-up pieces of pot roast to a 77-year-old patient with severe mental retardation, Tourette syndrome and various other health issues. The patient later became unresponsive and died. When the Paramedics arrived, they removed a piece of meat that was 1 ½ by 1 ½ inches from the patient's throat. The Court does not believe that the missing evidence cited by the Claimant in his petition would have necessarily overcome these facts in terms of the finding of egregious neglect by a state agency charged with investigating claims at a pre-administrative level.

The Court is certainly sympathetic to a claimant who, as here, must pay for his own defense against charges that are later found to be unsubstantiated. The Claimant also raises valid points regarding the quality of the OIG investigation and the public interest served by requiring state agencies to proceed carefully in these endeavors. However, the OIG's duty to follow certain evidentiary and procedural rules, and whether it breached same, was not at trial in this matter. This Court was to determine solely whether the Claimant could prove that OIG lacked reasonable cause, at the time, to initiate an allegation of egregious neglect. The evidence adduced at trial did not support such a finding.

For the reasons set forth herein, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant's motion to reconsider is DENIED.

OPINION

Storino, J.

This claim is before the Court following evidentiary hearings on April 20, 2012, May 7, 2012, September 27, 2012, upon a recommendation from a Commissioner.

Sharon Smalarz ("Claimant") brings this negligence action against the Respondent, State of Illinois, for injuries she sustained on October 15, 2005, due to the alleged negligence of Respondent. Claimant filed the present Complaint with the Court of Claims on October 15, 2007.

FACTS

Claimant filed her claim seeking an award of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00) for injuries sustained after falling at a State of Illinois facility known as Tinely Park Mental Health Center ("TPMHC"). TPMHC is comprised of several buildings. After Hurricane Katrina, many of the victims became displaced from their homes and TPMHC, located at 183rd and Harlem in Tinley Park, was being used to house between one hundred and one hundred twenty survivors of Hurricane Katrina.

Claimant is an avid crocheter and called TPMHC to donate some of the afghans that she had crocheted to Hurricane Katrina victims. Claimant received a call back and was asked to bring two of her afghans for two little girls celebrating their birthdays at Spruce Hall located at TPMHC. After receiving the request, Claimant packed up two afghans and went to Walmart to pick up and outfit for each of the girls. On October 15, 2005, at approximately 12:30 p.m. Claimant arrived at Spruce Hall for the girls' birthday parties. The weather on that day and at that time was clear. This was Claimant's first visit to Spruce Hall and she used the main entrance to enter the building.

Upon leaving the building, Claimant exited from the same door that she used to enter the building. Two other women and one maintenance man stood near the exit as Claimant exited the building. Unbeknownst and unnoticed to Claimant upon entering the building there is a two and three fourths inch (2 ¾") change of elevation from Spruce Hall's foundation to the sidewalk/walkway which leads to the building. There is no significant color contrast in the cement walkway leading up to Spruce Hall. Photo images introduced at the hearing differ from the date of the incident only in that a paint stripe has since been added to demarcate the foundation of the building from the walkway.

As Claimant approached the area where the foundation of the building met the walkway it looked like flat cement. However, as she walked towards her car, her foot went over the edge, and she fell, hitting her breastbone and popping ribs on both sides. The fall also caused Claimant to break her left hand. At the time Claimant fell, there was no warning, marking, or signage to notify Claimant that there was such a great change of elevation in that area.

Immediately after her fall, Claimant drove herself to the hospital and sought medical treatment. Claimant's undisputed medical records reflect that Claimant suffered a broken left hand and two fractured ribs. Claimant incurred medical expenses in the amount of $7,653.85 as a result of her emergency room treatment, follow up visits with her orthopedic doctor, and medical supplies and prescription medications which she required during her six week recovery.

During her recovery, Claimant was physically incapable of living her normal life. She was unable to clean, cook, or even get out of her chair, she had to sleep in a recliner, she needed a lift to use the toilet, and she could not care for her young granddaughters. In addition, she was unable to work her data entry job resulting in lost wages of $2,415.00. Claimant has since made a full recovery.

Sergio Cappello, the station engineer chief of TPMHC testified that Spruce Hall was constructed in 1965, and that Claimant fell where the foundation of the building and the sidewalk meet. Furthermore, Cappello testified that the concrete at issue has always been part of the building. Respondent offered testimony that the foundation of Spruce Hall could not be changed to meet the sidewalk, but did not offer any testimony of why the sidewalk/walkway leading up to the foundation of Spruce Hall could not be altered to meet the foundation of the building to eliminate the drastic change in elevation at the point where Claimant fell.

Cappello further testified that there has never been an incident regarding the "step" at issue in the past and that he was unaware of any state or municipal building violations for Spruce Hall. Likewise, Cappello is unaware of any ordinance or rule that would require Respondent to paint the concrete for the change of elevation between the building and the sidewalk.

Cappello further testified that at the time of Claimant's fall, Spruce Hall was being used as a shelter for between one hundred and one hundred twenty survivors of Hurricane Katrina, and that everyone used the entrance at issue to enter and exit Spruce Hall unless a ramp was needed to enter the building. Those requiring a ramp used the entry at the back breezeway of Spruce Hall.

Rennie R. Smith, III, is the public service administrator and directs administrative services for the Department of Human Services. He worked at TPMHC and testified that the main entrance to Spruce Hall was a high volume entrance during the time at issue. He confirmed that there were no other records of anyone else ever falling at Spruce Hall.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

A. Duty of Reasonable Care to Maintain Property.

The State owes a duty of reasonable care in maintaining its property. Stewart v. State, 47 Ill. Ct. Cl. 324 (1995). For Claimant to be successful in negligence claims, she must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondent breached its duty of reasonable care in maintaining its property, and that the negligence of Respondent was the proximate cause of both Claimant's injury and Claimant's damages. Noonan v. State, 36 Ill. Ct. Cl. 200 (1983). In order to establish a breach of such a duty, Claimant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that: (1) a dangerous condition existed; (2) the State had actual or constructive notice of the condition; and (3) that the State's negligence was the proximate cause of Claimant's injury. Ewing v. State, 59 Ill. Ct. Cl. 302 (2007).

B. Respondent Had Actual or Constructive Notice of a Dangerous Condition.

To prevail, Claimant has the burden of proving that Respondent had actual or constructive notice of the dangerous condition, and a failure by the state to remedy the condition effectively and efficiently. Carlson v. Board of Regents, 47 Ill. Ct. Cl. 173 (1994). The very fact that Spruce Hall contained a separate entrance for handicapped invitees reflects that Respondent had both actual and constructive knowledge of the change in elevation from the sidewalk to the foundation of Spruce Hall. The requirement for the ramp was born from the dangerously uneven surface leading up to Spruce Hall. But for such a dramatic change in elevation, Respondent would have no reason to construct an entrance wholly separate from the main door.

C. Respondent Failed to Warn Invitees of the Dangerous Condition which was not Open and Obvious

A landowner is subject to liability for physical harm caused to his invitees by a condition on the land where he: (a) knows or by exercise of reasonable care would discover the condition, and should realize that it involves an unreasonable risk of harm to invitees, (b) should expect that they will not discover or realize the danger or will fail to protect themselves against it, and (c) fails to exercise reasonable care to protect them against danger. Premises Liability Act (740 ILCS 1302); Waters v. City of Chicago, 966 N.E. 2d 560 (App. Ct. 1st Dist. 2012). Furthermore, a landowner such as Respondent owes invitees on the premises such as Claimant, a duty to warn them of any danger of which it knows, or should know of, and of which invitees are not aware. Geraghty v. Burr Oaks Lanes, 5 Ill. 2d 153 (1955); Burns v. Addison Golf Club, Inc., 161 Ill. App. 3d 127 (2nd Dist. 1987). The factors used to determine the existence of a duty include: (1) the likelihood of injury; (2) the reasonable foreseeability of such injury; (3) the magnitude of the burden of guarding against injury and (4) the consequences of placing that burden on the defendant. Bucheleres v. Chicago Park Dist., 171 Ill. 2d. 435, 456 (1996). The duty to warn will be imposed where the landowner has unequal knowledge of the hazard and only if it knows or should know that an injury may occur if no warning is given. Hodges v. St. Clair County, 263 Ill. App. 3d 490 (5th Dist. 1994). The landowner need not anticipate every conceivable distraction that invitees may succumb to, and has a duty to warn against a hazard only where he or she should reasonably anticipate injury to patrons on the premises who are generally exercising reasonable care for their own safety. Id.

The open and obvious doctrine is an exception to the general duty of care owed by a landowner in Illinois. Persons who own, occupy or control and maintain land are not ordinarily required to foresee and protect against injuries from potentially dangerous conditions that are open and obvious. Bucheleres, at 447-48. For a condition to be open and obvious, an invitee must reasonably be expected to discover it and protect herself against it. Deibert v. Bauer Brothers Construction Co., 141 Ill. 2d 430, 434-35 (1990). The term "obvious" has been held to denote that both the condition and the risk are apparent to and would be recognized by a reasonable person in the position of Claimant, exercising ordinary perception, intelligence, and judgment. See Prostran v. City of Chicago, 349 Ill. App. 3d 81, 85-86 (1st Dist. 2004). Whether a condition is open and obvious depends on the objective knowledge of a reasonable person, not the claimant's subjective knowledge. Id.

The color images of the area where Claimant fell in front of Spruce Hall, which were introduced at the hearing, depict an area that is of the same color and material and also appears to be even from the direction in which Claimant was approaching moments before her fall. Claimant testified that as she walked towards her car, she was unable to appreciate the change in elevation from the building's foundation to the sidewalk below. Claimant did not know there was a "step"; otherwise, as she credibly testified, she would have stepped over the "step."

The change in elevation from the sidewalk in front of Spruce Hall to the foundation of Spruce Hall is not an open and obvious danger. The evidence contained in the record reflects that the almost three inch drop off was difficult to discover due to its lack of visibility. There was no significant color contrast in the cement walkway leading up to Spruce Hall, making the drop off difficult to see until a person exiting the building was directly above the change of elevation. Claimant testified that she did not notice the defect when entering Spruce Hall. In fact, she did not observe the defect until after her fall. As a result of the defect not being open and obvious, Respondent had a duty to warn those entering Spruce Hall of the abrupt change in elevation. The Respondent breached this duty by failing to post any warning of the dangerous condition of the premises prior to Claimant's accident. Claimant's injuries could have been avoided by Respondent having employed a simple technique to distinguish the elevation change or to warn of the elevation change, i.e. paint or signs. Either of these methods would have been minimal in effort and cost to Respondent, especially when compared to Claimant's injuries.

D. Claimant Proved by a Preponderance of the Evidence that her Injuries were Proximately Caused by Respondent's Actions.

No liability can exist unless Claimant can establish that the State's negligence was a proximate cause of her injuries. Ewing v. State, 59 Ill. Ct. Cl. 302 (1997). The facts of this case reflect that the State's negligence was the proximate cause of Claimant's injuries. Before Claimant's visit to Spruce Hall on October 15, 2005, she had never sustained any injuries to her ribs or left arm. When she exited Spruce Hall after dropping off the birthday gifts, Claimant could not see the dangerous change in elevation from the building's foundation to the sidewalk/walkway that caused her to fall, break her left hand, and fracture two ribs. Claimant's injuries were a direct result of Respondent's negligent failure to warn her of the precarious condition that existed on the path from Spruce Hall to its parking lot.

There is no dispute to the reasonableness of Claimant's medical care, her wage loss of $2,415.00 or her medical expenses of $7,653.85. As a result of the foregoing, Claimant has proven by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondent is liable for her injuries. As such, Claimant's six week incapacitation and loss of normal life entitle her to a judgment in the amount of $30,500.00.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that this claim is granted in the amount stated above.

LORI D. TRIBBLE, Claimant, v. STATE OF ILLINOIS, ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF CENTRAL MANAGEMENT SERVICES, Respondent.
Opinion Filed September 22, 2011
Rehearing Denied August 22, 2012

JAMES BAKER, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (Julie Morgan, Assistant Attorney General, of Counsel), for Respondent

Jurisdiction-Administrative Decisions, no jurisdiction to review- Claimant sought review of the Benefits Appeal Committee's denial of coverage of services for medical expenses, which is a final administrative decision as defined by statute. The Court does not have jurisdiction to review administrative decisions where a statute provides that review must be in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court, 705 ILCS 505/8(a)(ii).

MEMORANDUM OF OPINION AND ORDER

Burns, J.

Before the Court is the motion for Summary Judgment of The Illinois Department of Central Management Services ("CMS or Respondent") and Maureen T. O'Donnell, in her capacity as Acting Director of The Illinois Department of Central Management Services ("the Acting Director") (or sometimes collectively "the Respondents"). For the reasons stated below, the Court grants Summary Judgment in favor of the Respondent.

I. Summary Judgment Standard

Summary Judgment is proper if the pleadings, depositions, admissions, affidavits and other relevant matters on file show that there is no genuine issue of material fact and that the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. 735 ILCS 5/2-1005(c); Freeman v. State, 55 Ill. Ct. Cl. 329, 334 (2003). While a claimant need not prove his case at this stage, he must present sufficient evidentiary facts to support the elements of his claim or present some factual basis which would arguably entitle him to judgment. Id. See also Kuwik v. Starmark Star Marketing & Admin. Inc., 232 Ill. App. 3d 8, 12 (2nd Dist. 1992); Barber-Coleman Co. v. A&K Midwest Insulation Co., 236 Ill. App. 3d 1065, 1071 (5th Dist. 1992).

II. Facts

Lori D. Tribble, ("Claimant"), brings this case in her capacity as Administrator with the Will Annexed of the Estate of Delores Keyes. During her lifetime Dolores Keyes, a retired employee of the State of Illinois, was a member of the Quality Care Health Plan ("QCHP") created pursuant to the terms of "State Employees Group Insurance Act of 1971" ("Act") (5 ILCS 375/1 et. al.). The Claimant seeks recovery of benefits for medical expenses incurred during Ms. Keyes's lifetime which were purportedly covered under the QCHP created and administered pursuant to the Act.

Ms. Keyes retired in 1984 and was enrolled in the QCHP since July 1, 1988. During the relevant time frame, the administrator for QCHP was CIGNA.

In April 2004, Ms. Keyes fractured a hip, experienced other medical issues, and as a result, was hospitalized at Memorial Medical Center. Ms. Keyes remained at Memorial Medical Center until April 14, 2004, whereupon she was transferred to the Lewis Memorial Christian Village. The Claimant, Ms. Keyes' daughter with power of attorney at the time, chose Lewis Memorial Christian Village to provide care for Ms. Keyes. Ms. Keyes remained at Lewis Memorial Christian Village from April 14, 2004 until her death on March 19, 2006. The Claimant is not seeking compensation for the medical bills incurred prior to July 9, 2004 since they were paid by Medicare.

The Claimant received documents from Medicare stating that the bills incurred after July 9, 2004 were being denied. CIGNA representatives informed the Respondent that Medicare denied said medical bills because no skilled care was provided after July 9, 2004. Ms. Keyes and/or the Claimant did not file an appeal of the Medicare denial or inquire why Medicare was denying benefits. Ms. Keyes' medical bills incurred after July 9, 2004 were then submitted to CIGNA, which denied coverage.

An appeal of the denial of coverage for the medical bills incurred during the period July 9, 2004 to October 19, 2004 was submitted to CIGNA. On October 19, 2005, CIGNA denied the appeal on the basis that the QCHP did not cover custodial care. Based on the clinical information provided to CIGNA, it concluded that the services rendered after July 9, 2004 to Ms. Keyes were custodial in nature, with no ongoing skilled care services rendered after July 9, 2004. After this denial, the Claimant did not ask any of Ms. Keyes' physicians to contact CIGNA to discuss the services performed. However, a second level appeal was filed with CIGNA. On June 22, 2006, CIGNA denied the appeal for the same reasons given in the first appeal, i.e., that the services provided were custodial in nature and the treatment did not require a skilled nursing facility level of care.

The Claimant then made a request for an external independent review of the denial of coverage. The external independent reviewer, CIMRO, also determined that the services provided to Ms. Keyes from July 9, 2004 onward were custodial in nature.

A request for a final Claim Determination was then submitted to the Department of Central Management Services ("CMS"), Group Insurance Division. On September 1, 2006, after a review of all supporting documentation, the Group Insurance Division decided to uphold CIGNA's determination and denied coverage for inpatient services rendered at Lewis Memorial Christian Village after July 9, 2004.

An appeal was then submitted to the Benefits Appeal Committee of CMS. On February 24, 2007 the Benefits Appeal Committee upheld the denial of coverage of services rendered to Ms. Keyes from July 9, 2004 onward. The Claimant did not ask any of Ms. Keyes' physicians to contact CMS to discuss the services performed. On November 14, 2007, the Claimant filed suit seeking $94,837.87 for medical expenses incurred by Ms. Delores Keyes from July 9, 2004 through March 19, 2006, while she was living at the Lewis Memorial Christian Village in Springfield, Illinois.

III. Analysis

The decision sought to be reviewed by Claimant relating to Delores Keyes's rights as a participant in QCHP is plainly a final "administrative decision" as defined by statute. 735

ILCS 5/3-101.[1] Moreover, the "administrative decision" on appeal here resulted from a complete and thorough administrative process. It is equally plain that the Court of Claims does not have jurisdiction to review administrative decisions where a statute provides that review must be in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court, 705 ILCS 505/8(a)(ii).

The State Employees Group Insurance Act, which created and governs the insurance plan at issue, expressly provides that any final order, decision or other determination of the Director of The Illinois Department of Central Management Services, including here those that relate to the rights of the Claimant as a participant in QCHP, "shall be subject to review in accordance with the provisions of the Administrative Review Law." 5 ILCS 375/15(h). The administrative Review law, in turn, mandates that "[J]urisdiction to review final administrative decisions is vested in the Circuit Courts…," 735 ILCS 5/3-104.f

Claimant suggests that her claim is one founded in contract, as well as statute, and thus can be brought under the purview of this Court. However, the dispute here did not involve the terms of any contract – only whether the care provided Ms. Keyes was "custodial" in nature or whether it was "skilled nursing." As such, the Claimant here is seeking review of an administrative decision. Accordingly, the Court of Claims lacks jurisdiction to adjudicate the instant claims raised by the Claimant. 735 ILCS 505/8(a)(ii).

The Court also notes that Maureen T. O'Donnel, then Acting Director of CMS, was named as a Respondent for informational purposes only. In this Court, the State is the ultimate and sole Respondent. 705 ILCS 505/8; Brustin, Ltd. V. State of Illinois, 50 Ill. Ct. Cl. 336 (1998); Alencastro v. State of Illinois, 54 Ill. Ct. Cl. 457 (2001).

IV. Conclusion

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED AND ADJUDGED that the Motion of the Respondent, The Illinois Department of Central Management Services, for Summary Judgment is hereby granted and the claim of Lori D. Tribble, in her capacity as Administrator with the Will Annexed of the Estate of Delores Keyes, is dismissed, with prejudice, each party to bear its own costs.

ORDER

Burns, J.

This cause comes on to be heard on the Claimant's petition for rehearing following our opinion entered on September 22, 2011. The Respondent filed a response.

The Claimant requests this Court to reconsider its decision to grant summary judgment to the Respondent due to this Court's lack of subject matter jurisdiction over the claim. The Claimant offers three reasons to support its argument for a re-hearing: 1) neither party had an opportunity to brief the issue of subject matter jurisdiction; 2) the Administrative review Law does not apply in this matter because the Director of Central Management Services ("CMS") was not involved in any decision concerning the Claimant's claim, and the Benefit Appeals Committee (the "BAC") is not an administrative agency; and

[1] "Administrative decision" or "decision" means any decision, order or determination of any administrative agency rendered in a particular case, which affects the legal rights, duties or privileges of parties and which terminates the proceedings before the administrative agency…" 735 ILCS 5/3-101.

3) the Claimant's case is a contract claim, and not one seeking review of an agency's administrative decision.

We have carefully considered the Claimant's petition and the record herein. The Claimant has raised no issue which was not previously considered by the Court.

First, the issue of subject matter jurisdiction can be raised at any time and by any means, including the court's own motion. Conley v. State, 35 Ill.Ct.Cl. 275 (1982). Indeed, the Court has an affirmative obligation to examine its subject matter jurisdiction. Id. The Claimant's arguments regarding subject matter jurisdiction are incorporated in its petition, so there is no need for the parties to brief the issue.

Second, the Administrative Review Law defines an "administrative agency" as "a person, body of persons, group, officer, board, bureau, commission or department (other than a court or judge) of the State, or of any political subdivision of the State or municipal corporation in the State, having power under the law to make administrative decisions." 735 ILCS 5/3-101. An "administrative decision" is defined as "any decision, order or determination of any administrative agency rendered in a particular case, which affects the legal rights, duties or privileges of parties and which terminates the proceedings before the administrative agency." Id. The Court finds that the BAC in this case would qualify as an administrative agency under this definition since it is a body of persons and/or a group of the State having the power under law to make administrative decisions. Moreover, the BAC's decision was a final decision that affected the legal rights, duties or privileges of the parties and terminated the proceedings before CMS. As such, the Administrative Review Law applied to the Claimant's cause of action.

Finally, this Court finds unavailing the Claimant's argument that her claim here is one based on contract, not one seeking review of an administrative decision. This Court has previously determined that the State Employees Group Insurance Act does not create an enforceable contractual right on behalf of any employee seeking to enforce the Act. Gendel v. State, 38 Ill.Ct.Cl. 76, 81 (1985). Therefore, the claimant here had no enforceable contract right under the Act and, thus, could not bring this claim under a contract theory.

Wherefore, we must affirm our prior opinion denying the Claimant's claim and Claimant's petition for rehearing is hereby DENIED.

CHRISTI TURPIN, Claimant, v. BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY, Respondent.

Opinion filed January 14, 2013
Rehearing denied May 20, 2013

CHRISTI TURPIN, pro se
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (PHYLECEIA REED COLE, Special Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Breach of Contract- Elements Alleged- In order to plead a cause of action for breach of contract, claimant must allege: 1) the existence of a valid and enforceable contract; 2) substantial performance by claimant; 3) a breach by respondent; and 4) damages resulting from the breach.

Tortious Interference With a Business Expectancy- Elements- The elements for a claim for tortious interference with a business expectancy are: 1) the existence of a valid business expectancy; 2) knowledge of the expectancy on the part of the interferer; 3) an intentional interference inducing or causing a termination of the business expectancy; 4) resulting damages.

Tortious Interference With a Business Expectancy- Burden of Proof- Claimant must prove each element of the tort by a preponderance of the evidence.

Jurisdiction- Lack of Jurisdiction to Consider Equities- The Court of Claims is not a court of general jurisdiction where it is empowered to consider the equities of a dispute. Instead, the Court of Claims is a creature of statute and its jurisdiction is controlled by §505/8 of the Court of Claims Act.

OPINION

Birnbaum, Peter J.

Nature of the Claim

Claimant filed a complaint for breach of contract, injunctive relief, specific performance, tortious interference with a business expectancy and promissory estoppel against the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale ("SIUC"). Claimant alleges SIUC failed to post her Ph.D. degree in 1999 after she purportedly fulfilled all the degree requirements. Claimant argues the Dissertation Committee Chair John Deichmann's approval of the final revisions. Claimant further asserts that Deichmann approved the final revisions on April 8, 1999. In contrast, Respondent argues Claimant failed to complete revisions required by two members of the Dissertation Committee following her March 11, 1999 oral defense. As a result of SIUC's failure to post Claimant's Ph.D., Claimant asserts she has been damaged due to loss of employment and lost earning capacity.

The substantive requirements of a Ph.D. degree from SIUC are: 1) complete the requirement of coursework; 2) pass preliminary examinations; 3) have a Dissertation Committee comprised of University faculty approved by the Graduate School; 4) have dissertation thesis approved by the Graduate School; 5) pass the oral defense of the dissertation before the Dissertation Committee; and 6) have approval of the written dissertation by the Dissertation Committee. To evidence completion of these requirements, SIUC supplies a number of forms for completion by the candidate. Specifically, there is an "Oral Defense Form" establishing that the candidate has successfully defended his/her dissertation. Secondly, there is a "Dissertation Approval Form," which must be signed to prove that the Dissertation Committee approved the final draft of the written dissertation. Lastly, there is a "Departmental Clearance Form," which is an internal Graduate School from that must be signed to demonstrate a candidate has completed all requirements and shall graduate.

On March 11, 1999, Claimant defended her Ph.D. dissertation before a Dissertation Committee. The Committee was comprised of Dr. John Deichmann as Chairman, Dr. William Coscarelli, Dr. John Evans and Dr. Nancy Mundschenk. Claimant claims that all Dissertation Committee members approved the dissertation on March 11, 1999 and signed five Dissertation Approval Form, subject to Chairman Deichmann's final approval. Dr. Mundschenk unequivocally denies she ever signed the Dissertation Approval Forms and alleges Claimant has forged her name on documents. Claimant asserts she personally witnessed Dr. Mundschenk sign the Dissertation Approval Forms on March 11, 1999. In addition to challenging the veracity of Mundschenk's signature, Respondent alleges Claimant presented other forged documents including an April 1999 email and a May 13, 1999 memo allegedly sent from Dean John Pohlmann. Respondent argues the memo came from a facsimile number and on letterhead that do not belong to Dean Pohlmann.

The first witness at the hearing was Dr. William Coscarelli. Dr. Coscarelli served on Claimant's Ph.D. Dissertation Committee and testified that Claimant's Ph.D. dissertation subject was vocational rehabilitation counselors and the utilization of performance technologies. Prior to March 1999, Dr. Coscarelli served on sixteen Dissertation Committees. He chaired eight of those committees. Dr. Coscarelli testified that a typical Ph.D. program involves 64 hours of course work plus preliminary exams before a Dissertation Committee is formed. The Ph.D. candidate then presents an oral defense of his/her dissertation in front of the Dissertation Committee. Pending approval from the Dissertation Committee, the dissertation is sent to the SIUC Graduate School for final review and editing. Dr. Coscarelli testified that Claimant's dissertation oral defense took place on March 11, 1999, with John Deichmann serving as the Chairman of the committee. Dr. Coscarelli testified that he, Dr. Deichmann and Dr. Nancy Mundschenk were physically present during the oral defense. According to Dr. Coscarelli, the other committee member, Dr. John Evans, was not physically present at the oral defense but participated via teleconference.

Following the oral defense, Claimant was excused from the room for the Dissertation Committee's final discussion. During this discussion, Dr. Coscarelli recalled that Mundschenk and Evans desired revisions to the dissertation. According to Coscarelli's testimony, Dissertation Committee members always request some written revisions. He further testified he did not personally request any changes and he signed the Dissertation Approval Forms at the March 11, 1999 oral defense. Dr. Coscarelli stated that he could not recall Mundschenk refusing to sign the forms and testified that Evans orally authorized Claimant to sign his name to the Dissertation Approval Forms. At that time, Coscarelli stated he expected Claimant had her Ph.D. degree and would graduate in the summer of 1999. Following the oral defense, Coscarelli testified it is the Committee Chair's responsibility to ensure the candidate completes the requested revisions. He further stated that he had experienced situations in which a Dissertation Committee member refused to sign the Dissertation Approval Form pending the requested revisions. Coscarelli testified he met in 2007 with the Chair of Education Psychology, Lyle White, and Dr. Nancy Mundschenk. At that time, Mundschenk denied ever signing the Dissertation Approval Forms. At a subsequent meeting with the Dean of the Graduate School, John Koropchak, Coscarelli stated that his understanding for the denial of Claimant's Ph.D. was because Claimant didn't have the required signatures and the revisions were never satisfactorily completed.

On cross examination, Coscarelli stated that the final form and a copy of the dissertation must be turned into the Graduate School for processing of the Ph.D. Additionally, he testified that the March 1999 revisions were to be completed in conjunction with Committee Chair Deichmann. Coscarelli conceded that during a deposition in this case he stated that both Mundschenk and Deichmann were to work on the final revisions. He acknowledged that this is contrary to his testimony that if a Dissertation Committee member signs the Dissertation Approval Form that only the Chair of the Dissertation Committee ensures the revisions are completed. Following March 1999, Coscarelli stated he did notice some "date changes" to Claimant's dissertation but he was unsure what the revisions were and does not know if the requested revisions were completed. Coscarelli also identified two of Claimant's Exhibits as the Departmental Clearance Form utilized to ensure completion of all the degree requirements. Lastly, Coscarelli testified that it is up to the Department to verify the completion of a Ph.D.

Also testify before the Commissioner was the Dissertation Committee Chair, Dr. John Deichmann. Deichmann retired from SIUC in 2001 after serving on 30-40 Dissertation Committees and Chairing 20-30 of those committees. He described the role of a Dissertation Committee Chair as working with the candidate in approving and developing the dissertation subject and assisting the student in finding faculty members to serve on the Dissertation Committee. Deichmann testified that it is common for a committee member to sign the Dissertation Approval Form while still desiring revisions to the final project. When this occurs, the Committee Chair withholds signature until the requested revisions are satisfactorily completed. Deichmann could not recall if he signed the Dissertation Approval Forms on March 11, 1999 or at a later date. Deichmann testified that he has never experienced a situation wherein a Dissertation Committee member prevented the issuance of Ph.

D. after signing the Departmental Clearance Form, requiring only the Committee Chair's signature, was for the graduate Department to process the student's degree. Deichmann testified he sent Claimant a letter on October 3, 2007 indicating she had completed all of the requirements for the issuance of the Ph. D. degree.

On cross examination, Deichmann conceded that Dissertation Committee members requested revisions to Claimant's dissertation. Further, He acknowledged sometimes a student would not obtain the Ph.D. degree in the expected term because he/she failed to complete the dissertation revisions. Additionally, Deichmann identified the April 1, 1999 Departmental Clearance Form which states that Claimant was not expected to complete the program requirements at that time. Deichmann testified he signed another Departmental Clearance Form on April 8, 1999 stating that all degree requirements were completed. After April 8, 1999, Deichmann acknowledged he signed yet additional Departmental Clearance Forms, on April 1, 2000 and June 30, 2000, stating that to the contrary, Claimant had not completed the degree requirements. In his testimony, he was unable to reconcile the conflicting Departmental Clearance Forms.

The next witness was Claimant, Christi Turpin. She testified she received an undergraduate degree and a Master's degree in Psychology from Southeast Missouri State. She stated she enrolled in the SIUC Ph.D. program in the summer of 1988 and completed her Ph.D. course work in 1999. At that time, Claimant proceeded with an initial dissertation topic which was delayed because of a lingering illness affecting her dissertation advisor. In 1995 the dissertation advisor released his students and Claimant then pursued the dissertation topic which is the subject of this claim under the authority of Dr. Deichmann and the Dissertation Committee. On March 11, 1999, Claimant presented her oral defense to her Dissertation Committee and received suggested revisions from the Committee with Mundschenk requesting to see the revisions. Specifically, Claimant stated she witnessed Coscarelli and Mundschenk sign the Dissertation Approval Forms but Chairman Deichmann did not sign because he had to ensure the requested revisions were satisfactorily completed. She testified that Committee Member Evans (participating via teleconference) agreed that someone could sign his name. Following the oral defense, Claimant stated she completed the required revisions and returned the revised dissertation to Deichmann and Mundschenk on March 15, 1999. As of April 1, 1999, Deichmann had not signed the Departmental Clearance Form because Deichmann wanted to give Mundschenk another week to respond to the revised dissertation. According to Claimant, on April 8, 1999, Deichmann agreed to move forward by signing the Dissertation Approval Forms and the Departmental Clearance Form. At this time, Claimant testified she went to the Graduate School office with two copies of her dissertation, the five Dissertation Approval Forms and the Departmental Clearance Forms, wherein Dean Hillkirk signed three of the Dissertation Approval Forms. Following Hillkirks's signatures, Claimant left a fully executed Dissertation Approval Form and two Departmental Clearance Forms with Diechmnn. Additionally, Claimant testified she left two copies of the dissertation and two signed Dissertation Approval Forms with the Graduate School. At this point, Claimant stated she believed she had obtained her Ph. D. degree.

Subsequently, on December 2002 an issue arose with Claimant's employment with the Parkway School District when their Human Resources Department could not verify her Ph.D. degree. In response Claimant contacted David Wilson, the Associate Dean of the Graduate School who said he would look into the issue. On December 13, 2002, Associate Dean Wilson emailed Claimant indicating she had completed the Ph.D. requirements. Subsequently, on January 23, 2003, Wilson again emailed Claimant and sent a letter to the Parkway School District indicating Claimant had completed the Ph.D. requirements but paperwork had not been completed in order to process the degree. It was at this time that Wilson checked SIUC files and discovered that there was an Oral Defense Form and Graduate Clearance Form indicating that Claimant had not completed her degree requirements. At the hearing, Wilson testified that he sent the January 23, 2003 letter to Parkway School District indicating that all requirements of Claimant's degree had been completed even though he was not able to discuss the situation with all the Dissertation Committee members. Because Parkway School District could not verify Claimant's Ph.D., Claimant's employment was terminated.

Around this time, Claimant testified a meeting was held with the Graduate School wherein she was informed the Graduate School did not have the required Dissertation Approval Form or the Departmental Clearance Form. At this meeting, Claimant testified she also learned that there were issues raised by Mundschenk indicating Claimant never satisfactorily completed the required revisions following the March 11, 1999 oral defense. Claimant stated she began to work on these revisions to appease Mundschenk because Claimant did not have a copy of the original, allegedly signed Dissertation Approval Form. Claimant testified she was under the misconception that her original copies of the form had been destroyed in a 2001 fire in her home. In 2007 Claimant applied for a job at McCarthy Construction but the process was halted because McCarthy could not verify her Ph.D. In September 2007, Claimant called SIUC and set up a meeting with Dean Korochak. Claimant testified that at this point she had found her copies of the Dissertation Approval Form containing the various committee members' signatures which she gave to Dean Koropchak along with a memory stick containing the 2003 version of her dissertation. Associate Dean Wilson testified that in the fall of 2007, he informed Dean Koropchak that the Dissertation Approval Forms presented by Claimant were fraudulent because Mundschenk told him that she had not signed them. Wilson testified that in December 2007 he had a conversation with Harry Steen from McCarthy Construction wherein he said to Mr. Steen that Claimant had not completed her Ph.D. degree.

On Cross examination, Claimant acknowledged she did not receive a diploma but stated she requested not to be sent a diploma. Claimant conceded she does not have a final transcript. Claimant also conceded that at some point in time she declined to follow and complete the revisions requested from Mundschenk. Additionally, Dr. Ratna Sinha, the Associate Director from the Graduate School, requested formatting changes in 2003 that Sinha testified were never completed. On November 12, 2007, Phyleccia Cole, counsel for SIUC sent Claimant a letter from Dean Teitelbaum and Dean White outlining what Claimant needed to complete to receive her Ph.D. degree. Instead, Claimant refused to make the requested revisions and initiated this lawsuit. Throughout the cross examinations Claimant reiterated that she relied on the January 2003 letter from Wilson indicating she had completed her degree requirements.

The next witness was Professor Nancy Mundschenk. She testified that she was present at Claimant's March 11, 1999 dissertation oral defense and she did not sign the Dissertation Approval Forms knowing that her signature was required in order for Claimant to obtain her Ph.D. Mundschenk stated that she required substantive revisions to the dissertation before he would approve it and because of this she did not sign the Dissertation approval Forms. She stated that if she had signed the Dissertation Approval Forms her signature would indicate she either approved the required revisions or she was entrusting that the required revisions would be accomplished. She conceded that the signature on the Dissertation Approval Forms presented by Claimant did look like her signature but maintained that she did not sign the form. She testified that her understanding after the oral defense was that Dr. Coscarelli and Dr. Deichmann were satisfied but that she and Dr. Evans required revisions. Mundschenk testified that in 2003 she received revisions but cannot remember what the revisions were and does not remember the method of contact at that time. However, Mundschenk did reference an April 2003 memo, Respondent's Exhibit 7, wherein she contacted Claimant outlining the specific revisions Claimant needed to complete in order to obtain her signature on the Dissertation Approval Form. Following the April 2003 memo, Mundschenk testified she never received the requested revisions. In September 2007, Mundschenk as contacted by Professor White who wanted to know the status of Claimant's dissertation. During this time, Claimant's updated dissertation did not satisfy her requested revisions and because of this she never signed the Dissertation Approval Form. On cross examination, Mundschenk testified that Claimant's case is the only time in her career that she refused to sign a Dissertation Approval Form.

The Dean of the SIUC Graduate School, John Koropchak, also testified. Dr. Koropchak stated that his involvement began in the fall of 2007 when he initiated an investigation to resolve Claimant's Ph.D. issues. He stated that Claimant provided him with a copy of a Dissertation Approval Form on September 21, 2007. He held a meeting on October 30, 2007 with Dean Wilson, Professor Coscarelli, Professor Mundschenk and others. At this meeting, he testified Mundschenk unequivocally stated that she did not sign the Dissertation Approval Form and the ultimate conclusion of the meeting was that SIUC would not award the Ph.D. to Claimant without revisions to the dissertation. Koropchak said he did not independently seek to verify Mundschenk's signature on the Dissertation Approval Form. However, he testified that at the time of the meeting, his main focus was figuring out a way for Claimant to fulfill the remaining requirements to receive her Ph.D. On cross examination, Koropchak testified that in addition to the lack of a signed Dissertation Approval Form, the Graduate School had no records indicating that Claimant had completed her degree. Koropchak stated that the Graduate School was satisfied that Claimant completed the oral defense but that she had not completed the required revisions to the dissertation. Further, he stated that if a Dissertation Committee member wanted to see revisions to the dissertation that the Chair of the Committee and the student must provide the member with the revisions.

Another witness at the hearing before the Commissioner was Dr. John Evans, a member of the Dissertation Committee. Evans served at the request of Committee Chair Deichmann. During his time on the Committee, Evans met Claimant a few times regarding data concerns and voiced concerns to the Committee Chair regarding the dissertation's statistics. Contrary to testimony presented by other witnesses, Evans stated he was present in person at the March 11, 1999 oral defense of Claimant's Dissertation and testified that Claimant's performance was incomplete because of a lack of supporting statistics. Further, Evans stated he requested revisions and did not sign the Dissertation Approval Forms and never authorized anyone to sign on his behalf. His understanding was that the revisions would be made and presented to him and if found acceptable he would then sign off on the Dissertation Approval Form. However, according to Evans, Claimant never provided him with the required revisions to his satisfaction. In 2003, Claimant contacted Evans regarding the Ph.D. but the dissertation continued to lack his requested revisions. When contacted again in 2007, Evans stated he did not believe that he had standing to serve on the Dissertation Committee because he was no longer a SIUC faculty member.

Finally, Claimant provided rebuttal testimony asserting she did in fact make the revisions suggested by the Committee in 1999. She stated that she never notified SIUC that she was no longer seeking her Ph.D. degree at any point between 1999 and 2007 and that she had taken numerous steps to resolve the issues but nothing has ever been resolved. On cross examination, she conceded that the only proof that she has submitted the revisions of her dissertation is her testimony.

Analysis

The question for this Court is whether Claimant completed all of the SIUC Ph.D. requirements and obtained the necessary signatures on the required forms. The required forms have signature blocks for the Chief of the Dissertation Committee, the Dissertation Committee members and the Head of the Department. The Parties agree that all signatures are required in order for a candidate to receive his/her Ph. D. It is undisputed that Chairman Deichmann and Dr. Coscarelli signed the Dissertation Approval Forms. The signatures of Committee members Dr. Nancy Mundschenk and Dr. John Evans are disputed. Mundschenk signed the Dissertation Approval Forms in person and alleges Evans authorized Claimant to sign his name.

The first and second counts of Claimant's Complaint are breach of contract claims. Claimant asserts that by enrolling in the SIUC Ph.D. program a contractual relationship between Claimant and SIUC was created, whereby Claimant agreed to perform all of the responsibilities and duties of enrollment and SIUC agreed to confer a degree upon Claimant's successful completion of the degree requirements. Claimant argues that she performed all of her duties under the educational agreement but that SIUC breached that agreement by failing to confer upon her the Ph.D. degree. As a remedy, Claimant seeks an order compelling SIUC to confer the Ph.D. degree and to pay her damages resulting from SIUC's breach.

In order to plead a cause of action for breach of contract, Claimant must allege: 1) the existence of a valid and enforceable contract; 2) substantial performance by Claimant; 3) a breach by Respondent; and 4) damages resulting from the breach. W.W. Vincent and Company, et al. v. First Colony Life Insurance Co., 351 Ill. App. 3d 752, 789, 814 N.E. 2d 960, 967, 286 Ill. Dec. 734 (1st Dist. 2004); Wagner v. State of Illinois, 60 Ill. Ct. Cl. 248 (2008). In a breach of contract claim, the Claimant bears the burden of proving each element of the claim by a preponderance of the evidence. Weidmann v. State of Illinois, 57 Ill. Ct. Cl. 209 (2005).

In a breach of contract claim involving a State University, the Court must defer to the judgment of the University Faculty and Board of Trustees in determining a student's performance within academic standards. Specifically, the issue of whether a dissertation meets the academic requirement qualifying it for Ph.D. approval involves the subjective assessment of the student by the faculty of the University. As such, this Court will only find a breach of contract in the University context when the faculty "maliciously or in bad faith by arbitrarily and capriciously refusing to award a degree to a student who fills the requirements for a degree." Tanner v. Board of Trustees, 48 Ill. App. 3d 680, 363 N.E.2d 208, 6 Ill. Dec. 679 (1977); see also Lewis v. State of Illinois, 51 Ill. Ct. Cl. 224 (1999).

This Court finds the allegations of forgery in this claim troublesome. But those allegations are irrelevant to our analysis whether Claimant performed the required revisions to her dissertation. As stated, the only issue of contention in this case is whether Claimant satisfactorily completed the required revisions of her dissertation and whether she obtained the necessary signatures from her Dissertation Committee approving the dissertation. Both parties agree that all the other Ph.D. degree requirements were satisfied. Thus, this Court must consider whether Claimant fulfilled her dissertation requirement to the satisfaction of the Dissertation Committee members and whether SIUC's faculty maliciously, arbitrarily and capriciously denied Claimant her Ph.D. degree. After reviewing the record, this Court finds that following the March 11, 1999 oral defense, Claimant was required to provide Mundschenk and Evans with revisions to her dissertation and neither Mundschenk nor Evans ever approved these revisions. Regardless of whether Mundschenk and Evans signed the Dissertation Approval Forms on March 11, 1999, all witnesses agreed that Mundchenk and Evans insisted on reviewing the revisions and neither approved the final form of the written dissertation. Evans had specific statistical data concerns yet Claimant failed to present Evans with his required revisions at any point from the 1999 Oral Defense to the present proceedings. Despite all of the testimony and presented evidence, no one in this case was able to produce a Dissertation Approval Form with all required signatures, including the head of the Department signature. Because Claimant did not fulfill her degree requirements in ensuring the Dissertation Committee received and approved the required revisions to the dissertation, this Court finds that SIUC did not maliciously, arbitrarily and capriciously deny Claimant a Ph.D. degree. Thus, Counts I and II of Claimant's complaint are denied.

In Count III of Claimant's complaint, Claimant seeks damages for tortious interference with a business expectancy. The elements for a claim for tortious interference with a business expectancy are: 1) the existence of a valid business expectancy; 2) knowledge of the expectancy on the part of the interferer; 3) an intentional interference inducing or causing a termination of the business expectancy; 4) resulting damages. Fryman v. Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, 42 Ill. Ct. Cl. 132 (1989). Claimant must prove each element of the tort by a preponderance of the evidence. Specifically, Claimant argues that in 2007 SIUC was aware that her employment with McCarthy construction was dependent upon her acquisition of a Ph.D. degree and yet SIUC refused to post her degree resulting in losing her position with McCarthy. In contrast, Respondent argues that Claimant never completed the degree requirements and thus, SIUC did not wrongfully refuse to award her a Ph.D. degree. This Court agrees with Respondent. In order to prevail on a tortious interference with a business expectancy claim, the Claimant must prove the interference was intended, unjustified and malicious. In contrast, if the interference was justified or within just cause, the interference is not actionable. Id. In this case, Respondent did not award Claimant her Ph.D. because she failed to complete the degree requirements. As such, it was Claimant who must accept culpability for the McCarthy termination in 2007 since she was aware SIUC disputed her Ph.D. completion, yet she continued to advertise herself as successfully completing a Ph.D. to McCarthy personnel. Thus, Count III of Claimant's complaint is denied.

Lastly, Count IV of Claimant's Complaint is a promissory estoppel claim. The doctrine of promissory estoppel is a common law doctrine and has been incorporated into the Restatement (Second) of Contracts as section 90. That section provides in relevant part:

> Promise Reasonably Inducing Action or Forbearance:
> A promise which the Promisor should reasonably expect to induce action or forbearance on the part of the promise or a third person and which does induce such action or forbearance is binding if injustice can be avoided only by enforcement of the promise. The remedy granted for breach may be limited as justice requires.
> Restatement (Second) of Contracts §901(1), at 242 (1981).

Courts have held that to establish a claim under the doctrine of promissory estoppel, a plaintiff must prove that 1) defendant made an unambiguous promise to plaintiff, 2) plaintiff relied on such promise, 3) plaintiff's reliance was expected and foreseeable by defendants and 4) plaintiff justifiably relied on the promise to its detriment. Quake Construction, Inc. v. American Airlines, Inc., 141 Ill. 2d 281, 565 N.E. 2d 990, 152 Ill. Dec. 308 (1990).

Promissory estoppel is an equitable doctrine offering relief where no legal remedy may be available. The Court of Claims has consistently held that it lacks jurisdiction over claims sounding in equity. Ace Coffee Bar, Inc. v. the University of Illinois, 51 Ill. Ct. Cl. 395 (1999) Garimella v. Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, 50 Ill. Ct. Cl. 350 (1996). This Court is not a court of general jurisdiction where it is empowered to consider the equities of a dispute. Instead, the Court of Claims is a creature of statute and its jurisdiction is controlled by §505/8 of the Court of Claims Act. 705 ILCS 505/8. As such, a promissory estoppel claim may be beyond our jurisdiction.

Even assuming arguendo that this Court did have jurisdiction to entertain Claimant's promissory estoppel claim. Claimant's Count IV fails to satisfy the doctrine's elements. Specifically, Claimant asserts that she relied upon the January 23, 2003 letter from Dean Wilson stating that she had completed the degree requirements and that SIUC would be posting her Ph.D. degree. Claimant argues she relied on this representation to her detriment forming a claim for promissory estoppel. If the January 23, 2003 letter from Dean Wilson stood alone perhaps Claimant could argue that at that time she justifiably relied on Dean Wilson's letter. However, Claimant's own testimony establishes that Claimant clearly knew, at the time of Dean Wilson's letter, SIUC was asserting that she had to finish the revisions before posting her Ph.D. degree. In fact, at that time, Claimant testified she was submitting revisions to Dissertation Committee members, Mundschenk and Evans, while attempting to get their approval on the Dissertation Approval Form. The core of any promissory estoppel claim is justifiable reliance on the assertions from Respondent. In this case, Claimant had no justifiable reason to rely on Dean Wilson's letter, knowing that the Dissertation Committee was waiting on her revisions. Further, Claimant's testimony that she was attempting revisions proves Claimant failed to rely on Dean Wilson's 2003 letter. Claimant is seeking damages under the doctrine of promissory estoppel for losses that arose nearly four years after she was fully informed on SIUC's position regarding the incompleteness of her Ph.D. degree. Thus, Claimant cannot sustain a promissory estoppel claim and Count IV is denied.

The Court notes that following the hearing the Commissioner granted leave for the Parties to submit simultaneous Post-Hearing Briefs on November 22, 2010. On July 17, 2012, Claimant filed an additional Post-Hearing Brief asserting its content as a "correction to the Respondent's summary to correct the many false and inflammatory comments it contained." On or around August 3, 2012, Respondent filed a Motion to Strike Claimant's Additional Post-Hearing Brief. This Court agrees with Respondent that it did not grant Claimant leave, nearly two years following Respondent's Post-Hearing Brief, to file an Additional Post-Hearing Brief responding to Respondent's Post-Hearing Brief. IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Respondent's Motion to Strike Claimant's Additional Post-hearing Brief is GRANTED and Claimant's Additional Post-hearing Brief will be stricken from the record.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant's claim is DENIED.

Petition for Rehearing- Elements- The rules of the Court of Claims provide that a Petition for Rehearing must set forth points that were allegedly overlooked or misapprehended by the Court together with supporting authorities and suggestions. New trials are addressed at the sound discretion of the trial court.

ORDER

This matter is before the Court on Claimant's Petition for Rehearing filed on February 11, 2013 as well as her Motions to Strike the Testimony of David Wilson and Nancy Mundschenk and a Motion to Strike Respondent's Answer to Rehearing.

These motions were filed on March 29, 2013. For purposes of this Order we consolidate and rule on all four motions.

Section 790/220 of the Rules of the Court of Claims provides that a Petition for Rehearing must set forth points that were allegedly overlooked or misapprehended by the Court together with supporting authorities and suggestions. In a motion or petition for rehearing, the motion or petition is to state the points supposed to have been overlooked or misapprehended by the court, with authorities and suggestions stated in support thereof. 74 Ill.Admin.Code 790.220. New trials are addressed at the sound discretion of the trial court. Wells v. State, 38 Ill.Ct.Cl. 142, 148 (1985), citing in re Marriage Hopkins, 106 Ill.App. 3d 135 (1982). Generally, motions for a rehearing include reconsideration by the trial court for a "misapprehension" of the law. Wells at 148. At other times, such motions allege that there is "newly discovered" evidence for the court's consideration. Id. citing Drury v. Catholic Home Bureau, 34 Ill.2d 84 (1996).

Claimant has not provided the Court with any case law that would alter the decision in any way, nor any evidence that the Court's decision was based upon any misapprehension of the law. This Court has consistently held that in the absence of a showing in support of these points that Motion for Rehearing must be denied. Vargas v. State, 42 Ill.Ct.Cl. 168 (1990).

On March 4, 2013, Respondent filed an Answer to Claimant's Petition for Rehearing. On March 8, 2013, Claimant filed a Reply to No Response from Respondent for the Petition for Rehearing. Regardless of whether this Court or Claimant received Respondent's Answer in a timely manner, Claimant's Petition for rehearing and subsequent Motions to Strike fail to make a showing that a rehearing is warranted. As such, the Petition for Rehearing is DENIED. Claimant's Motion to Strike Respondent's Answer and the Motion to Strike the testimony of Wilson and Mundschenk are DENIED.

ORDER

Judge Peter J. Birnbaum

THIS MATTER is before the Court on Claimant's July 24, 2009 Motion for Summary Judgment against the Respondent, the State of Illinois, Department of Central Management Services ("CMS"). On August 6, 2009, Respondent responded to Claimant's Motion for Summary Judgment. Subsequently, on December 12, 2011, this Court entertained oral argument regarding the Motion for Summary Judgment.

Nature of the Claim

Claimant, 59th & Ashland LLC, was formed on July 2, 2002 and its members were Samih Jaber, Fysl Mohamed, and Ali Ata. The ownership interest of these three members was accurately disclosed to Respondent, CMS, upon entering Lease Number 5833 to use Claimant's 40,000 square foot building located at 1642 W. 59th Street, Chicago IL. Claimant alleges Respondent failed to pay rent and occupancy charges since June 2008 for the Illinois Department of Human Services' use of this property.

In the fall of 2008, Claimant unsuccessfully attempted to evict Respondent from the property based on a service of a 5-day notice for non-payment of rent in a 2008 Eviction Action (08 M1 726697). That case was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction and was the subject of appeal as to the issue of possession (2008 Appeal: 08-3633). The Lease between the parties had a ten-year term, which was cancelable by Respondent after five years. During the 2008 Eviction Action, Respondent served Claimant with a notice terminating the Lease at the end of its first five-year term beginning on February 1, 2009. The Illinois Department of Human Services, however, continued to occupy the space. In 2009, Claimant filed a second eviction action against the State in the Circuit Court of Cook County (09 M1 704534). Claimant's Petition was granted, but the Circuit Court gave the Illinois Department of Human Services until August 31, 2009 to vacate the property. The Illinois Department of Human Services and Respondent, CMS, filed a Notice of Appeal (09-1612) on jurisdictional grounds which is pending before the First District Appellate Court. The Illinois Department of Human Services vacated the property on August 31, 2009.

In the case filed with this Court, Claimant seeks monetary relief of $1,522,833.18 for rent from June 2008 through August 31, 2009. Under the Lease, rent was scheduled to be paid on June 2008 at $67,666.67; July 2008-June 2009 at $69,033.33; and July 2009-June 2010 at $70,400.00. The $1,522,833.18 amount calculated from the lease schedule and Claimant multiplied the amounts due in accord with the Illinois Forcible Entry and Detainer Act, holding that a tenant may be liable for double the amount of rent scheduled to be paid under the lease. 735 ILCS 5/9-203. Section 9-203 states in pertinent part:

> Holding over after notice. If any tenant gives notice of his or her intention to quit the premises which are held by him or her, at a time mentioned in such notice, at which time the tenant would have right to quit by the lease, and does not accordingly deliver up possession thereof, such tenant shall pay to the landlord or lessor double the rent or sum which would otherwise be due, to be collected in the same manner as the rent otherwise due should have been collected.

Lastly, Claimant seeks permission to withdraw its claim for additional consequential damages as a result of a mortgage foreclosure action instituted against Claimant without prejudice to its right to pursue those alleged damages in the future.

Respondent contends that double rent is not recoverable from the State and in support cites Illinois State Trust Company v. Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University, 39 Ill.Ct.Cl. 1 (1986).

On the issue of damages, Respondent argues that the liquidated damages clause of the Lease provides for a 25% reduction in the amount of rent owed as a stipulated amount. The pertinent clause states in part:

> It is acknowledged that in the event of such a material breach by the Lessor its assigns, transferees, or other successors in interest, Lessee shall be entitled to immediately terminate this Lease and vacate the demised premises. In the Alternative, Lessee may elect to declare the > material breach but retain possession for the balance of any term remaining and as liquidated damages and not as a penalty to reduce rental payments and other charges due hereunder by twenty-five (25%) for the entire term of this Lease, including any extensions thereto or periods of holdover, or until the material breach is cured by full and complete disclosure, whichever comes first. The foregoing reductions represent a reasonable endeavor by the parties hereto to estimate a fair compensation for the foreseeable losses to Lessee that might result from such breach. (Emphasis Added)

Specifically, Respondent argues this liquidated damages provision controls in the specific instance, as it alleges Claimant committed a material breach of the disclosure terms of the lease in that it failed to properly disclose to the Illinois Department of Central Management Services the various changes in ownership of the 59th & Ashland LLC from the time of the initial disclosure when Lease Number 5833 was executed up to the time Samih Jaber acquired 100% ownership in 59th & Ashland LLC. Additionally, Respondent argues that Claimant violated a State statute, alleging that Ali Ata improperly held an ownership interest in 59th & Ashland LLC while concurrently holding the position of Executive Director of the Illinois Finance Authority, none of which was disclosed to Respondent. Thus, Respondent argues it is entitled to liquidated damages in the amount of $913,669.63, representing 25% of the amount due under the lease from inception until the disclosure of Samih Jaber acquiring a 100% interest in 59th & Ashland LLC was made on August 12, 2008.

Claimant responds that the liquidated damages 25% set-off from the scheduled rent due under the Lease is improper as the initial disclosures of the one-third ownership interests of Samih Jaber, Faysel Mohmmd and Ali Ata, was sufficient as these three owners continuously owned the Building either directly or indirectly since the commencement of the Lease. Additionally, it argues that when Jaber became the sole owner of 59th & Ashland LLC, in August of 2008 he completed a disclosure from reflecting this 100% ownership and disclosed to Respondent all information known to him regarding the prior ownership interests. Lastly, Claimant argues Respondent has no right to the liquidated damages 25% rent reduction because it allegedly constitutes an unenforceable penalty as stated in section 356 of the Restatement (Second) of Contracts (1981):

> (1) Damages for breach by either party may be liquidated in the agreement but only at an amount that is reasonable in the light of the anticipated or actual loss caused by the breach and the difficulties of proof of loss. A term fixing unreasonably large liquidated damages is unenforceable on grounds of public policy as a penalty.

Under this language, Claimant argues that Respondent admits that the liquidated damages clause is an unenforceable penalty provision because its decision to not pay rent rests fully with Claimant's alleged failure to comply with the disclosure provisions of the Lease. Additionally, it argues the 25% figure is arbitrary and could have been easily set at 10%, 15%, or some other amount, thus making the provision unenforceable as the parties cannot estimate damages resulting from non-disclosure prior to noncompliance. Claimant further alleges there are only limited situations in which Respondent can measure its monetary damages as a result of non-disclosure, none applicable here, rendering the liquidated damages clause unenforceable.

Analysis

Double Rent

Following the oral argument held before this Court, Claimant was afforded the opportunity to distinguish its double rent claim as a statutory cause of action pursuant to the Forcible Entry and Detainer Act. 735 ILCS 5/9-203. Claimant argues that the double rent provision is applicable to the State, resulting in double the monthly rent damages in the amount of $1,522,833.18. However, penalty provisions in contracts are inherently not applicable against the State of Illinois. Illinois Power Co. v. State, 30 Ill. Ct. Cl. 506, 508 (1975). This Court will look to the contract to see the nature and purpose of fixing the amount of damages to be paid. If it appears Claimant seeks a penalty or relief in derogation of eh common law to be applicable to the State, the named statute must specifically and clearly named the State is liable. City of Springfield v. Allphin, 82 Ill. 2d 571, 413 N.E.2d 394 (1980). Double the monthly rent is a contract penalty provision and its penalty against the State would be prohibited. Illinois State Trust Co. v. Boart of Trustees of Southern Illinois University, 39 Ill. Ct. Cl. 1 (1986). Thus, Claimant's claim for double monthly rent is DENIED.

Liquidated Damages

A liquidated damages provision is not enforceable unless the amount so fixed is a reasonable forecast of just compensation for the harm that is caused by the breach and the harm is incapable or very difficult of accurate estimation. Bauer v. Sawyer, 8 Ill. 2d 351 (1956). This Court agrees with Respondent that the ownership interests from the time of initial disclosure to the time Samih Jabber acquired ownership in 59th & Ashland LLC were not properly disclosed to Respondent. Most importantly, this Court agrees that Ali Ata improperly held an interest in 59th & Ashland during the time he held the position of Executive Director of the Illinois Finance Authority. This position failed to be properly disclosed to Respondent.

This Court does not lightly consider these failures of disclosure. 59th & Ashland wantonly and with apparent disregard, failed to properly disclose ownership interests through the actions or omission of its members. The specific terms of the lease gave 59th & Ashland disclosure options it could make a full disclosure of ownership interests and, failing that, the lessee was entitled to a twenty-five percent reduction in the rent. This Court finds that 59th & Ashland was aware of the consequences of its actions pursuant to the lease and thus, the twenty-five percent reduction for nondisclosure is reasonable given the public policy surrounding disclosure and ethics requirements in State contracts. Court of Claims precedent establishes the State's authority to withhold funds s liquidated damages.

Specifically, in Davinory v. State, 44 Ill. Ct. Cl. 268 (1991), the Court held the Illinois Department of Transportation, pursuant to the liquidated damages clause of its construction contract with Claimant, was justified in withholding $38,640.00 from Claimant for failure to complete a pump station project within 160 days. The Davinroy Court held that the record supported the withholding as Claimant had been given numerous warnings of his impending failure to complete the project on time and was informed of the consequences of that failure.

The citizens of the State of Illinois have been subjected to multiple insults, humiliations and incalculable damage as a result of the many instances of misconduct that occurred during the administration under which Mr. Ali Ata held a significant position of power. The record reflects that Mr. Ata pled guilty to public corruption charges that include, but are not limited to, his misconduct specifically related to the lease agreement that is before the Court. One of the fundamental ways the State seeks to assure honesty and fairness in its business dealings is to require a disclosure of ownership interest. Those disclosure laws are designed to assure that public officials do not misuse their positions to procure a personal economic benefit. Here, Mr. Ata failed to disclose his financial interest at a time in which his position of power in State government was undeniably relevant to his personal business interests. The State needs a remedy to redress this type of misconduct. Without a reasonable statement of damages the disclosure rules would be nothing more than a toothless tiger. A 25% penalty for non-disclosure on these facts is fair and reasonable because of the damages the State incurred as a result of the misconduct.

Lastly, as this Court has concluded that Respondent is entitled to setoff for liquidated damages based on the twenty-five percent rent setoff, it must calculate the date of disclosure. We find the applicable date to be when Samih Jaber provided Respondent with a detailed disclosure of all information claimed to be in his possession or control regarding the ownership of Claimant to be August 12, 2008. Thus, Respondent is entitled to a setoff for liquidated damages from the effective date of lease until the August 2008 disclosure.

The parties have submitted stipulated rent calculations which provide numbers for various scenarios argued herein. Based on this Court's findings and the stipulated rent calculations, Claimant is entitled to rent due from June, 2008 through August, 2009 in the stipulated amount of $1,0343,133.29. However, Respondent is due a setoff from the rent due in the form of liquidated damages of 25% of the gross rental amounts due from the date of lease inception until August 12, 2008. The parties have stipulated that this liquidated damage amount is $913,669.63. Thus, Claimant is due $120,463.66.

Therefore, the Court finds that Claimant's Motion for Summary Judgment is granted in favor of Claimant in the amount of $120,463.66 as full disposition of this claim.

However, the question of entering an award remains before the Court. This Court cannot enter an award unless sufficient funds lapsed in the appropriations designated to pay for this rental obligation. As explained in Graham, O'Shea and Hyde v. State, 44 Ill.Ct.Cl. 175, 177 (1992) and the cases cited therein:

> In breach of contract claims, whether the claims are before us on their merits or for approval of a settlement, it is this Court's policy to limit awards so as not to exceed the amount of funds, appropriated and lapsed, with which payment could have been made. To do otherwise, i.e., to award money for debt incurred beyond the sum allotted by the General Assembly, would be tantamount to making a deficiency appropriation. The appropriation of State funds for governmental operations is the constitutional prerogative of the General Assembly. It is this Court's duty to uphold that process and advise the General Assembly.

Therefore, before entering an award for Claimant or making a recommendation to the General Assembly, the Court needs additional information. It is hereby ordered that Respondent shall file, within 21 days within the filing of this Opinion, a Departmental Report which includes fiscal information regarding the amount of funds that lapsed in the appropriations designated to pay for the underlying rental obligation related to this case, so the Court can determine the amount that can be awarded.

ORDER

THIS MATTER is before the Court following its August 22, 2012, Order granting Claimant's Motion for Summary Judgment against the Respondent, the State of Illinois, Department of Central Management Services ("CMS").

This Court ordered Respondent to file a Departmental Report including fiscal information regarding the amount of funds that lapsed in the appropriations designated to pay for the underlying rental obligation related to this case. On September 7, 2012, Respondent filed a Departmental Report indicating that funds are available for satisfaction of the amount found due in this Court's August 22, 2012, Summary Judgment Order.

On October 2, 2012, the attorney's for Claimant, Stahl, Cowen, et al., filed a Motion to Enforce Attorney's Lien Judgment. Counsel has attached a Cook County Circuit Court Order indicating that they are entitled to receive the first $33,383.61 out of the proceeds of any recovery in this proceeding. This Court finds that Stahl, Cowen, et al. has a legitimate, first lien priority attorney's lien against the recovery in this proceeding.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant is awarded $120,463.66 as full disposition of this claim, payable as follows:

1. $33,383.61 is payable directly to Stahl, Cowen, Crowley, Addis, LLC, in satisfaction of its first lien priority attorney's lien;
2. The remainder, $87,080.05, is payable to Claimant, 59th and Ashland, LLC.

Jurisdiction- Lack of Jurisdiction over Questions of Federal Law- The Court of Claims does not have jurisdiction to entertain questions of federal law under section 505/8 as the Court of Claims is created by Illinois Statute and only has limited jurisdiction on matters enumerated by the General Assembly.

Breach of Contract- Elements- To succeed on a breach of contract claim, the evidence must show: 10 the existence of a valid and enforceable contract; 2) substantial performance by Claimant; 3) a breach by Respondent; and 4) resulting damages.

Elements of a Valid Contract- Consideration- It is a well-accepted principle of law that a contract must be supported by adequate consideration moving in the direction of each of the parties to the agreement.

OPINION

Birnbaum, J.

THIS MATTER is before the Court on a recommendation from the assigned Commissioner following an evidentiary hearing held on November 18, 2011. Claimant seeks $100,000.00 in compensation for being deprived of a religiously based vegan diet that allegedly he contracted for while incarcerated.

Nature of the Claim

At the hearing before the Commissioner, Claimant testified that between the years of 2007 and 2008, he was in custody at the Illinois Department of Corrections ("IDOC") at Pinckneyville Correctional Center ("Pinckneyville"). While awaiting his court proceedings, Claimant was transferred from Pickneyville to Stateville Correctional Center ("Stateville"), before returning to Pinckneyville. Spiritually, Claimant identifies as an African American Hebrew Israelite, a faith that encourages it followers to abide to a vegan diet. Prior to receiving a religious diet, inmates whose religious beliefs require them to abstain from the consumption of specific foods must seek written permission from a chaplain pursuant to the Illinois Administrative Code. Rule 20 Ill. Adm. Code 435.70(d). In a Memorandum dated April 25, 2007, Claimant was granted his vegan diet request from the Chaplain at Pinckneyville, and subsequently began receiving vegan meals.

Shortly after receiving his vegan meals at Pickneyville, Claimant was transferred to Stateville where he did not receive vegan meals during the transport, nor during his temporary stay while awaiting his court date. Although Claimant was aware of the administrative procedures for requesting vegan meals, he failed to speak or cooperate with Stateville correctional employees during his stay or transport. Upon returning to Pickneyville, Claimant testified he was temporarily denied his vegan diet until he reminded the staff of his dietary needs.

At the hearing, Respondent called Dan Stevenson, a Corrections Food Services Supervisor from Pinckneyville. Mr. Stevens testified that inmates on a religious diet list are removed from the list when transferred out of Pickneyville. Additionally, he testified that any additions or removals from the list are only made on the first day of any given month in order to adequately plan for all of the inmates' dietary needs while preventing inefficiency or waste within IDOC. As Claimant was transferred to Stateville, Mr. Stevenson removed Claimant's name from the religious diet list. Following Claimant's return to Pickneyville, Mr. Stevenson instructed a guard to inform Claimant of the procedure for obtaining a place on the religious diet list. As Claimant had previously completed the written permission procedure prior to his transfer, Mr. Stevenson immediately replaced Claimant's name on the religious diet list. Additionally, Respondent presented evidence of Pickneyville's guidelines and procedures for inmates requiring special diet for religious reasons. The procedures detailed that the written permission from a chaplain is a formal request, not a contract, pursuant to the Illinois Administrative Code. Rule 20 Ill. Adm. Code 425.70(d).

Analysis

Previous Illinois precedent has supported the principle that Illinois Correctional Centers must accommodate inmates' religious-based request for non-meat diets pursuant to the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act and the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the Constitution. Koger v. Bryan, 523 F.3d 789, 800-801 (7th Cir. 2008); Moro v. Winsor, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 82525 (S.D. Ill. Aug. 5, 2008). However, this Court does not have jurisdiction to entertain questions of federal law under section 505/8 as the Court of Claims is created by Illinois statute and only has limited jurisdiction on matters enumerated by the General Assembly. Furthermore, Claimant brings this cause of action under a breach of contract claim. To succeed on a breach of contract claim, the evidence must show: 1) the existence of a valid and enforceable contract; 2) substantial performance by Claimant; 3) a breach by Respondent; and 4) resulting damages. Wagner v. State, 60 Ill. Ct. Cl. 248, 253 (2008). Only a duty imposed by the terms of a contract can give rise to a breach. W.W. Vincent and Company, et al. v. First Colony Life insurance Co., 351 Ill. App. 3d 752, 759, 814 .E. 2d 960, 967, 286 Ill. Dec. 734 (1st Dist. 2004).

In this case, Claimant alleges the statutory permission to request a religious diet pursuant to the Illinois Administrative Code creates a contractual right that was breached by the Illinois Department of Corrections. However, the Pickneyville religious diet list and the April 25, 2007 Memorandum from the Pickneyville Chaplain fail to meet the requirements of a contract between the parties. Therefore, the documents did not impose a legal obligation of performance. Additionally, it is a well-accepted principle of law that a contract must be supported by adequate consideration moving in the direction of each of the parties to the agreement. Claiborne v. State, 40 Ill. Ct. Cl. 176 (1987). In this case, no such consideration passed between the parties. Furthermore, this Court has previously found that the State's statutory obligation to provide a service does not create enforceable contractual rights in the recipients. Gendel v. State, 38 Ill. Ct. Cl. 76 (1982).

Specifically, the periods where Claimant failed to receive his vegan meals at Pickneyville were clearly instances when Claimant had returned from Stateville after an extended transfer awaiting court proceedings. The record shows that once Claimant alerted the food supervisors to his previous status on the religious diet list, the requested vegan meals were provided. Claimant testified that he was never denied vegan meals for longer than a few weeks. This short administrative delay was in accordance to Pickneyville's policy of only updating the religious meal list on the first of any given month in order to properly plan the needs of all inmates. Thus, this Court finds that Claimant failed to show that a contract existed between himself and the Illinois Department of Corrections. Further, the record clearly indicates Claimant's dietary needs were supported when he chose to follow the proper procedures established by Pinkneyville Correctional Center.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that this claim is DENIED.

ORDER

This Cause coming on for hearing on Claimant's Motion Requesting Relief from Judgment and Reconsideration and Respondent's Response thereto, and this Court being fully advised in the premises,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant's Motion Requesting Relief from Judgment and Reconsideration be DENIED for Claimant's failure to provide adequate justification to reinstate his claim.

KELLI KNIGHT, Claimant, v. STATE OF ILLINOIS
Opinion Filed June 20, 2013
GREG ROOSEVELT, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (HEIDI HILDEBRAND, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent

Practice and Procedure, Summary Judgment, Contract-When there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is otherwise entitled to judgment in its favor as a matter of law then summary judgment is appropriate. The evidence is to be strictly construed against the moving party and liberally construed in favor of its opponent. Material issues of fact existed as to whether there was an employment contract between Claimant and the State and whether Claimant reasonably relied on the assumption that the MBA Director had authority to offer her the job.

ORDER

Birnbaum, J.

THIS MATTER is before the Court on Claimant's Summary Judgment Motion and Respondent's Cross Summary Judgment Motion.

Nature of the Claim

Claimant earned a B.S. Degree in Marketing and a Master's in Business Administration from Illinois State University during the period of August 2004 to December of 2007. Starting in August 2006, Claimant worked as a full time graduate assistant for the University's Career Center. In August 2007, Illinois State University Associate Dean and MBA Director, Dr. Sukjung John Chang ("Dr. Chang"), announced an opening for the University's MBA Program Coordinator. When filling a position with an academic department at the University, the Human Resources Department posts the job, containing specific request concerning minimum requirements for the job, on the website. The position of MBA Program Coordinator clearly stated it required a master's degree, preferably a MBA.

The position of the University's Program Coordinator involved one-year contracts with a salary of $40,500, including certain benefits. Claimant applied for the position and subsequently interviewed with MBA Program staff members on or around September 10th and 14th, 2007. On September 18, 2007, Dr. Chang verbally offered Claimant the MBA Program Coordinator position and wrote the salary of the position on his business card, which he gave to Claimant. Dr. Chang then sent Claimant an email on or about September 18, 2007 detailing the specifics of the job and asking for a response by Claimant. Claimant allegedly accepted the position by signing a subsequent letter on September 25, 2007 sent by Dr. Chang, offering her the position as Program Coordinator in the MBA Program of College of Business at Illinois State University effective October 16, 2007. On September 26, 2007 Dr. S.J. Change published information in an Illinois State University press release that Claimant was appointed the new Program Coordinator for the MBA Program.

On or around this time, Claimant contacted the Director of the Career Center, Mike Schermer, and resigned her position of graduate assistant because she had accepted the position of the University's MBA Program Coordinator. On September 28, 2007, the University communicated to Claimant they would not be hiring her for the position as she failed to meet the requirement of having a master's degree at the time of application. Dr. Cheng testified he knew Claimant had not completed her master's degree and would not until December of 2007. He admitted his mistake of offering Claimant the job and wrote a letter of apology. Claimant was unable to regain full time employment until April of 2008 when she accepted a position as Career Services Coordinator for the University of Missouri, St. Louis.

Applications from applicants whose on-line response do not meet the minimum requirements for the job are eliminated by the computer and are not forwarded to the department for consideration. A master's degree, preferably an MBA, was a requirement for the MBA Program Coordinator position. In her online application, Claimant stated she had already earned her MBA. All other applicants for this position had already received their required MBAs at the time of application. Respondent asserts that had Claimant correctly stated that she had not yet earned her MBA, her application would have been eliminated by the Human Resources online system and would not have been forwarded to Dr. Chang for consideration.

Claimant filed her lawsuit on or about February 17, 2009 alleging Respondent entered into a one-year contract of employment with Claimant on September 24, 2007. She seeks relief of $50,000 in monetary damages to compensate for lost wages and benefits and reasonable litigation costs. Additionally, Claimant requests the award of retroactive reinstatement in respect to participation in all employee benefit plans and all other benefits available had she been employed as the University's MBA Program Coordinator. Claimant relies under a theory of promissory estoppel and apparent authority, where the employer makes a clear promise and the employee relies upon that promises to their detriment. Claimant cites Patkus v. Sangamon-Cass Consortium,769 F. 2d 1251, 1264 (1985), which states that even if an employer's stated policies fail to prove to have a contractual status, an Illinois employee may still recover under the theory of promissory estoppel. Claimant also includes a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Claimant filed a Motion for Summary Judgment.

In its Cross Summary Judgment Motion, Respondent claims that no employment contract existed and Dr. Chang did not have authority to offer claimant the job. Respondent asserts it was up to the Dean of the College of Business, Dr. Chang's supervisor, to choose the candidate for the position. Further, Respondent claims Dr. Chang lacked authority to waive the MBA requirement for the position. Although he was aware Claimant had not yet earned her MBA, Dr. Chang believed she could be considered for the position because Human Resources forwarded her application after meeting the online requirements. When Human Resources initiated the paperwork for an employment contract with Claimant, they learned she lacked the necessary MBA, or general master's degree, requirement and advised Dr. Chang that the offer would have be rescinded.

Further, Respondent asserts the Court of Claims lacks jurisdiction over promissory estoppel claims. Lastly, Respondent claims any emotional distress Claimant asserts was the result of her own actions. Respondent requested this Court deny Claimant's Motion for Summary Judgment and grant Respondent's own Motion for Summary Judgment against Claimant.

Analysis

Under 705 ILCS 505/8(b) the Court of Claims has exclusive jurisdiction on all claims against Respondent "found upon any contract entered into with the State of Illinois". In order to prove a breach of contract, the Claimant has the burden of proving to be a preponderance of the evidence that a contract existed. Black v. State, 49 Ill. Ct. Cl. 143 (1996). Respondent contends that summary judgment is proper, as no employment contract ever existed, as the September 2007 letter signed by Claimant was not an employment contract but a letter generated by the University's Human Resources Department. Additionally, Respondent asserts that the contract did not exist because Dr. Chang did not have authority to offer a job to Claimant and thus, cannot bind the state. However, Claimant argues Dr. Chang had apparent authority to offer her the position. When dealing with the subject of apparent authority, this Court has noted that the ability of a person with apparent authority to bind the State to a contract is generally eschewed when dealing with State entities. Agles v. State, 37 Ill.Ct.Cl. 134 (1984). The Agles Court wrote, "The state cannot be bound by agents with apparent authority rather than actual authority in most situations because such a policy could be disastrous to the State's budget".

But there are circumstances where the Court of Claims has held that apparent authority can bind the State. In Kent v. State, 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 471 (1978), the Court held that Claimant was entitled to damages when he reasonably relied upon the representations of the supervisory personnel that he was hired for the job of Administrative Assistant and worked in that capacity for five months, turning down two other jobs on the representations of personnel that he was hired. The Court entered an award on the ground that the State had induced claimant to perform services for it, and had accepted those services, with knowledge that he had not been legally hired.

Summary Judgment is only appropriate when there is no genuine issue of material fact, and the moving party is otherwise entitled to judgment in its favor as a matter of law. The movant has the burden of showing that, as a matter of law, it is entitled to summary judgment in its favor. Further, the evidence under consideration in ruling on a motion for summary judgment is to be strictly construed against the moving party and liberally construed in favor of its opponent. Wright . St. John's Hospital, 299 Ill. App. 3d 680, 682-83 (1992). If there exists no genuine issue of material fact, the Court must grant judgment as a matter of law, Brick v. City of Quincy, 241 Ill. App.3d 119 (1993). This Court finds that material issues of fact exist as to whether an employment contract was established between Claimant and the State. Particularly, this Court notes that Dr. Chang and other MBA Program staff members had knowledge Claimant lacked the required MBA degree during the interview process. Secondly, there exists a disputed material fact of whether Claimant reasonably relied on the assumption that Dr. Chang had authority to offer her the job despite Respondents assertion that the Dean of College of Business was the only one with authority to make the selection and forward to Human Resources. Dr. Chang testified he had the authority, based on past practice to extend the offer to Plaintiff. (Chang Dep. 9:18-22). Additionally, Dr. Chang testified that he understood that when Claimant signed the letter offering her the position, that she had accepted the position of MBA Program Coordinator. (Chang Dep. 9:11-17).

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant's summary Judgment Motion is denied and Respondent's Cross Summary Judgment Motion is denied as disputed factual issues remain regarding whether the parties agreed to a valid employment contract. This case is remanded to the assigned Commissioner for further proceedings.

ORDER

J. Birnbaum

THIS MATTER is before the Court on a Recommendation from Commissioner Ysursa following a hearing held on February 7, 2012.

Nature of the Claim

Claimant earned a B.S. Degree in Marketing and a Master's in Business Administration from Illinois State University ("University") during the period of August 2004 to December 2007. Starting in August 2006, while obtaining her MBA, Claimant worked as a full time graduate assistant for the University's Career Center. In August 2007, University Associate Dean and MBA Director, Dr. Sukjung John Chang ("Dr. Chang"), announced an opening for the University's MBA Program Coordinator. When filling a position with an academic department at the University, the Human Resources Department posts the job online, containing specific requests concerning minimum requirements for the job. The position of MBA Program Coordinator stated it required a master's degree, preferably a MBA, to be considered for the position.

The position of the University's Program Coordinator involved one-year contracts with a salary of $40,500, including certain benefits. At trial, Claimant described the interview process for the MBA Program Coordinator position. Specifically, she stated that she participated in two interviews. The first interview took place on September 14, 2007, with two University professors, Dr. McKee and Dr. Moon. Claimant testified that she informed the two interviewing professors at that time that she was currently a MBA student and expected to graduate in December 2007. The second interview was with the MBA Office staff, including Dr. Chang, B.J. Neumister and Serita Cox. Claimant testified that there was a discussion at the time of this second interview, wherein she state she was a current MBA student and expected to graduate in December 2007. Claimant testified she next spoke to Dr. Chang at the Career Fair, where Dr. Chang orally offered her the Program Coordinator position and gave him a business card with his number on the back to discuss more about the position in the future. Claimant testified that at that time she was excited about the job offering but wanted time to think about it. She stated that later that evening or the net day she received an email from Dr. Chang offering her the job.

Claimant testified that on September 25, 2007, she received and signed an employment agreement from Dr. Chang. At this time, she met with Dr. Chang to provide her social security card, driver's license and to fill out the necessary employment forms. Claimant testified that at the time she believed that she was simply completing the new employee paperwork. Next, Claimant identified Exhibit 10 as a letter dated September 28, 2007 from Dr. Chang rescinding her employment because Claimant failed to meet the job requirement of having a master's degree at the time of application and initial employment. Prior to receipt of the letter, Claimant also stated she received a voice message from Serita Cox informing her that the job offer was rescinded. Claimant testified that she then emailed Dean Charles McGuire about the rescission of the job offer and offered to wait to start the position until after her graduation from MBA School. She identified Claimant's Exhibit 11 as a letter from Dr. Chang apologizing for the circumstances and that the recession of the offer was final. She testified she contracted the University EEO Office about the situation but took no further action. Claimant received her MBA from the University in December 2007 and later obtained employment at University of Missouri St. Louis Career Center in April 2008. Claimant testified that the rescinded offer the Program Coordinator position at the University was frustrating and embarrassing. She stated that she believed Dr. Chang had authority to offer the position and that she believed it was understood when filing out the application for the Program Coordinator position that she expected to complete her MBA degree in December 2007.

On cross examination, Claimant acknowledged that she did not have her MBA when she applied for the position. Claimant also agreed that "have" means to be "in possession" in the present tense and that in her experience she understood the importance of accuracy in the application process. Further, Claimant testified that she knew that the master's degree was a requirement for the position and that she indicated "yes" on the online application inquiry regarding whether she held a master's degree. Additionally, on cross examination, Claimant stated that her previous employer at Career Services offered her a return position after the job rescission but Claimant declined. On re-direct Claimant stated that her resume was submitted with her application and it stated that the completion date of her MBA to be in December of 2007.

The next witness was Dr. Chang, an Associate Dean for the MBA and undergraduate programs in the University College of Business for the past 22 years. Dr. Chang testified he interviewed Claimant and did offer her the program Coordinator position. He stated at the time of her interview, he believed Claimant met the minimum job qualifications because her application was forwarded to him by the Human Resources Department. However, Dr. Chang testified he knew Claimant had not completed her master's degree and would not until December of 2007. Dr. Chang identified exhibit 9 as an email that was sent to College of Business staff and students announcing Claimant's hiring. He admitted his mistake of offering Claimant the job and said he wrote a letter of apology. Dr. Chang stated that the recession was due solely to Claimant not having a master's degree at the time of application, which was a requirement for the Program Coordinator position.

Respondent's first witness was Derek Story, the current Associate Director of the University Human Resources Department. Story testified that the first step in developing the application process for the filing of a University position is to develop a job description and establish the job's minimum qualifications. He stated that these minimum qualifications are then translated into disqualifying application questions that require "yes" or "no" answers. Applications from applicants whose on-line response do not meet the minimum requirements for jobs are eliminated by the computer and are not forwarded to the Human Resources Department for consideration. Story testified that the "master's degree" qualification was the only disqualifying question contained in the online application for the MBA Program Coordinator position. In her online application, Claimant stated she had already earned her MBA. All other applicants for this position had already received their required master's degree at the time of application. Story stated that the Human Resources Department only discovered Claimant's disqualification when the hiring information on the employment form indicated the lack of a master's degree. Story testified that had Claimant correctly stated that she had not yet earned her MBA, her application would have been eliminated by the Human Resources online system and would not have been forwarded to Dr. Chang and the search committee for consideration.

Respondent's next witness was Dr. Charles McGuire, who in 2007 was Assistant Provost and Interim Dean of College of Business at ISU. Dr. McGuire testified that he remained Interim Dean until 2009. He further testified that he is familiar with the hiring process for jobs in the College of Business. He testified that the search committee did not have authority to offer Claimant employment. He stated that the actual employment offer must come from Human Resources. Typically, the search committee recommends an application to the Dean, the Dean makes a recommendation to Human Resources, and after Human Resources clears the paperwork the employment offer is made to the applicant. In his experience, Dr. McGuire was not aware of anyone being able to offer employment prior to final vetting by Human Resources.

Analysis

Claimant's first claim for relief is based upon promissory estoppel. The doctrine of promissory estoppel is a common law doctrine and has been incorporated into the Restatement (Second) of Contracts as section 90. That section provides, in relevant part:

> Promise Reasonably Inducing Action or Forbearance:
> A promise which the promisor should reasonably expect to induce action or forbearance on the part of the promise or a third person and which does induce such action or forbearance is binding if injustice can be avoided only by enforcement of the promise. The remedy granted for breach may be limited as justice requires."
> Restatement (Second) of Contracts §901(1), at 242 (1981).

Courts have held that to establish a claim under the doctrine of promissory estoppel, a plaintiff must prove that 1) defendant made an unambiguous promise to plaintiff, 2) plaintiff relied on such promise, 3) plaintiff's reliance was expected and foreseeable by defendants and 4) plaintiff justifiably relied on the promise to its detriment. Quake Construction, Inc. v. American Airlines, Inc., 141 Ill. 2d 281, 565 N.E. 2d 990 (1990).

Promissory estoppel is an equitable doctrine offering relief where no legal remedy may be available. The Court of Claims has consistently held that it lacks jurisdiction over claims sounding in equity. Ace Coffee Bar, Inc. v. the University of Illinois, 51 Ill. Ct. Cl. 395 (1990); Garimella v. Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, 50 Ill. Ct. Cl. 350 (1996). This Court is not a court of general jurisdiction where it is empowered to consider the equities of a dispute. Instead, the Court of Claims is a creature of statute and its jurisdiction is controlled by §505/8 of the Court of Claims Act. 705 ILCS 505/8. Additionally, the Court of Claims lacks the authority to issue injunctive relief that either forbids or compels actions by any State officer or agencies. A-Reliable Auto Parts and Wreckers v. State of Illinois, 54 Ill. Ct. Cl. 455 (2001). While unsettled, a promissory estoppel claim may be beyond our jurisdiction. Even assuming arguendo, that this Court did have jurisdiction to entertain Claimant's promissory estoppel claim, Claimant's Count IV fails to satisfy the doctrine's elements. In order to state a cause of action for promissory estoppel the Claimant must establish: 1) a promise, 2) which the promisor should reasonably expect to induce action or forbearance of a definite and substantial character on the part of the promise, 3) which induces such action or forbearance, and 4) which must be enforced in order to avoid injustice. Lawrence v. Board of Education of School District 189, 152 Ill. App. 3d 187, 201, 503 N.E. 2d 1201, 1210 (1987).

In this case, Claimant asserts that Dr. Chang, as the Associate Dean and the MBA Program Director, armed with the apparent authority of the University, offered Claimant the Program Coordinator position. When dealing with the subject of apparent authority, this Court has noted that the ability of a person with apparent authority to bind the State to a contract is generally eschewed when dealing with State entities. Agles v. State, 37 Ill. Ct. Cl. 134 91984); Ernat v. State of Illinois, 36 Ill. Ct. Cl. 822 (1984); Bellini v. State of Illinois, 35 Ill. Ct. Cl. 701 (1982). The Agles Court wrote, "The State cannot be bound by agents with apparent authority rather than actual authority in most situations because such a policy could be disastrous to the State's budget". But there are circumstances where the Court of Claims has held that apparent authority can bind the State. In Kent v. State, 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 471 (1978), the Court held that Claimant was entitled to damages when reasonably relied upon the representations of the supervisory personnel that he was hired for the job of Administrative Assistant and worked in that capacity for five months, turning down two other jobs on the representations of personnel that he was hired. The Court entered an award there in favor of Claimant on the ground that the State had induced Claimant to perform services for it, and had accepted those services, with knowledge that he had not been legally hired. In this case, Claimant asserts she justifiably relied on the offer of employment to her detriment when she quit her graduate assistant position with the University Career Center. Claimant argues that it would be unjust to deny her the compensation that she would have received had the Program Coordinator position offer not have been rescinded. This Court finds it worth noting that Dr. Chang and other MBA Program staff members had knowledge Claimant lacked the required MBA degree during the interview process. At the same time, this Court finds it disturbing that Claimant provided inaccurate information on the online application as to the status of her master's degree. However, regardless of whether apparent authority existed in this case, Claimant fails to meet the final element of a promissory estoppel claim. Claimant argues that the offer of the Graduate Program position must be enforced to avoid the injustice of Claimant quitting her graduate assistant position, after being offered employment by Dr. Chang. However, Claimant's own testimony indicates that Claimant was offered to return to her graduate assistant position but refused.

Lastly, Claimant's second claim is for intentional infliction of emotional distress because Respondent published she had the Program Coordinator position before rescinding the employment offer. Because of this announcement, Claimant claims she suffered public embarrassment. The elements of intentional infliction of emotional distress are: 1) extreme and outrageous conduct of defendant; 2) defendant knew, or should have known, that the conduct would inflict severe emotional distress; and 3) defendant's conduct did cause extreme emotional distress. Chitwood v. State of Illinois, 58 Ill. Ct. Cl. 205 (2005), citing Feltmeier v. Feltmeier, 207 Ill.2d 263, 268-69, 798 N.E.2d 75, 79-80 (2003). Illinois Courts have consistently held that "...although fright, horror, grief, shame, humiliation, worry, etc. may fall within the ambit of the term 'emotional distress,' these mental conditions alone are not actionable. The law intervenes only where the distress inflicted is so severe that no reasonable man could be expected to endure it. The intensity and the duration of the stress are factors to be considered in determining its severity." See Public Finance Corp. v. Davis, 66 Ill. 2d 85, 90, 360 N.E. 2d 765,767 (1976); Restatement (Second) of Torts (1965), § 46, Comment d at 73. Additionally, to qualify as outrageous for purposes of a claim of intentional infliction of emotional distress, the nature of the defendant's conduct must be so extreme as to go beyond all possible bounds of decency and be regarded as intolerable in a civilized community. Kolegas v. Heftel Broadcasting Corp., 154 Ill.2d 1, 607 N.E.2d 201 (1992), citing Restatement (Second) of Torts § 46, Comment d, at 73 (1965). In this case, this requisite high level of distress has not been proven. Lastly, the actionable conduct must be entered into with intent to cause emotional distress. Id. This Court sympathizes with the embarrassment Claimant experienced with the publication and rescission of the offer for the MBA Program Coordinator position. However, this Court does not find that the high level of distress contemplated by Illinois courts has been proven in Claimant's claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress. Additionally, this Court does not find that Dr. Chang acted with the intent to cause any emotional distress to Claimant. As such, Claimant has not met her burden of proof in alleging a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant's claim is DENIED.

(No 10-CC-0214 – Claim denied)

ANGELA GORDON, Claimant, v. STATE OF ILLINOIS, Respondent.

Opinion filed August 7, 2012

ANTHONY CAMERON, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (SCOTT SIEVERS, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Retaliatory Discharge- Illinois courts and federal courts applying Illinois law have consistently recognized retaliatory discharge claims as torts.

Savings Statute- Section 13-217 of the Civil Code, known as the "savings statute" allows plaintiffs who have voluntarily dismissed their claims to re-file within a year of such dismissals.

Court of Claims- Concurrent Filings- The Court of Claims Act allows for claimants to file claims in this Court while the same actions are pending in Circuit Court, and then continue them generally until the final disposition of all other claims or proceedings arising from the same occurrence.

Jurisdiction- Qui Tam Claims- The Court of Claims is a creature of Illinois statute, and the limited jurisdiction is solely what the General Assembly has granted by law. The Court of Claims Act makes no mention of jurisdiction over Qui Tam claims. As such, this Court does not have jurisdiction to hear this claim.

ORDER

BURNS, J.

This case comes before the Court on Respondent's Motion to Dismiss pursuant to Section 2-619 of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure and Court of Claims Rules 20 and 90. The Claimant filed a Response to the Motion to Dismiss. The Court having read the pleadings and being fully advised in the premises, finds:

Introduction

The Claimant, Angel Gordon, filed this complaint against the Respondent, the State of Illinois (via the Department of Veterans Affairs), alleging that the Respondent discharged her in retaliation for her having reported various instances of workplace violence. The Claimant's Complaint contained three counts: a retaliatory discharge claim, a Whistleblower statutory claim, and a Qui Tam statutory claim. The Claimant states that as a result of Respondent's alleged retaliatory discharge, the Claimant has suffered loss of pay and other consequential damages. The Claimant seeks recovery of back pay in excess of $1,000 as well as any statutory damages.

The Respondent filed a motion to dismiss on the sole ground that the Claimant's case was time-barred under the Court of Claims Act's two-year statute of limitations for tort claims. See 705 ILCS 505/22(h). The Claimant argues that her claims arise out of a contractual relationship and, therefore, that the Court of Claims Act's five-year statute of limitations for contract claims applies. See 705 ILCS 505/22(a). For the following reasons, the Court holds that he Claimant's retaliatory discharge claims are governed by the two-year statute of limitations, and that the Court does not have jurisdiction over the Qui Tam count. The Court holds, therefore, that the Respondent's motion to dismiss is granted as to all counts.

Facts

In March 2006, the Claimant was employed by the Respondent as a registered nurse and assigned to a veterans home in Quincy, Illinois. On or about May 22, 2006, the Claimant reported alleged staff abuse of a resident elder person to management orally and in a written incident report. On May 27, 2006, the Claimant allegedly witnessed an incident of workplace violence between two employee staff nurses while on duty. The Claimant made a verbal report of this later incident at her next contact with her supervisor, and followed up with a written report of the incident.

Within days of reporting the aforesaid incidents, the Claimant alleges she was exposed to undue scrutiny, false accusations of failing to perform certain medical procedures, identified as a suspect in an unrelated offense, and interrogated numerous times in an effort to get her to "confess" to various misconducts, as well as discouraged by agents of Respondent from continuing her employment. On August 10, 2006, while still on her initial probation period from her hiring, the Claimant was terminated. The Claimant's Complaint states that Respondent gave no reason for the termination other than simply "probationary discharge."

On August 10, 2007, the Claimant filed a three-count complaint in the Circuit Court of Adams County, alleging one count of common law retaliatory discharge, one count of retaliatory discharge pursuant to the Illinois Whistleblower Protection Acts,[1] and one count under Whistleblower Act's Qui Tam provision for civil actions for false claims.[2] The Illinois Attorney General declined to pursue the Qui Tam and the Circuit Court dismissed the two retaliatory discharge "tort" counts for lack of jurisdiction on August 13, 2008.[3] On August 12, 2009, the Claimant filed her Complaint with this Court. The Respondent then filed this motion to dismiss for failure to file within the appropriate limitations period.

[1] The Illinois Whistleblower Protection Act, 5 ILCS 430/15 et seq., and, as amended, 740 ILCS 174/1 et seq., and the Whistleblower Reward and Protection Act, 740 ILCS 175/1, et seq,

[2] The Qui Tam provision of the Whistleblower Reward and Protection Act enables a private person to bring a civil suit on behalf of the State, with the Attorney General stepping into the shoes of the plaintiff to prosecute the action. If successful, the plaintiff receives a share of the proceeds of the action or the settlement of the claim. See 740 ILCS 175/4.

[3] In dismissing the retaliatory discharge tort counts, the Circuit Court noted that the named defendant, the Illinois Department of Veteran Affairs, was not an "employer" as defined by the Whistleblower Act and, thus, the plaintiff's statutory count would have been dismissed even if the Circuit Court had jurisdiction over the claim.

Analysis

There are two issues presented for the Court's consideration by this motion. First, this Court must decide the limitations period governing an action for retaliatory discharge in the Court of Claims. Second, this Court must decide whether the Court has jurisdiction to hear the Qui Tam count.

The Claimant argues that that the applicable statute of limitations for a retaliatory discharge claim in the Court of Claims should be five-year statute which governs "all claims arising out of a contract…" See 705 ILCS 505/22(a).[4] Claimant asserts that Illinois courts have recognized retaliatory discharge as a "hybrid" type tort/contract claim and, thus, for statute of limitations purposes, her claim should be granted the five-year limitations for contract claims. Alternatively, the Claimant argues that she should be granted an additional year to file her claim by virtue of either the savings statute set forth in Section 13-217 of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure or the doctrine of equitable tolling.

The Respondent argues that the applicable two-year statute of limitations comes from 705 ILCS 505/22(h) of the Court of Claims Act, which contains the Court's provision for "[a]ll other claims."[5] The Respondent points out that the Claimant brought her claim under subsection 8(d) of the Act, which pertains to tort claims. Furthermore, Respondent points out that the savings statute of Section 13-217 applies only to involuntary dismissals by a federal district court. Lastly, respondent notes that the equitable tolling doctrine does not apply since the Claimant easily could have preserved her claim in this Court by timely filing in this Court and then seeking general continuances while her Circuit Court actions played out. See 74 Ill. Adm. Code §790.60(a).

Illinois courts and federal courts applying Illinois law have consistently recognized retaliatory discharge claims as torts. Padilla v. County of Cook, 100 F.Supp.2d 1145, 1147 (N.D. Ill. 2000) citing Spearman v. Exxon Coal USA, Inc., 16 F.3d 722, 723 (7th Cir. 1994); See also, Boyles v. Greater Peoria Mass Transit District, 499 N.E.2d 435, 437 (Ill. 1986). Although no state statute establishes such a rule, the Supreme Court of Illinois treats retaliatory discharge as a tort. Spearman, 16 F.3d at 723 citing Kelsay v. Motorola, Inc., 384 N.E.2d 353, 358 (Ill. 1978).

Claimant cites case law that show courts have applied a five-year statute of limitations to retaliatory discharge claims in certain circumstances, but those cases are distinguishable from the instant case. In Teumer v. General Motors Corp., the plaintiff's claim was brought under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) and involved application of statutes of limitations found in the Civil Code. 34 F.3d 542, 449-50 (7th Cir. 1994). Neither ERISA nor the Civil Code is implicated in this case. Similarly, in Berghoff v. R.J. Frisby Manufcturing, a federal court had to decide whether section 13-205 or 13-202 of the Civil Code should apply to a retaliatory discharge claim brought under the Workman's Compensation Act. 720 F.Supp 649, 651 (N.D. Ill., 1989). Significantly, the Berghoff Court found that Section 13-202 was limited, in relevant part, to actions for "an injury to the person." Thus, the Court reasoned, the retaliatory discharge claim would fall under the five-year "catch all" provision of Section 13-205. While the Berghoff Court did go on to say that the retaliatory discharge claim was one that "arose out of a contractual relationship," it did not go so far as to say that it arose out of a contract.

[4] Section 22 of the Court of Claims Act reads, in relevant part: "Every claim cognizable by the Court and not otherwise sooner barred by law shall be forever barred from prosecution therein unless it is filed with the Clerk of the Court within the time set forth as follows: (a) All claims arising out of a contract must be filed within 5 years after it first accrues, saving to minors, and persons under legal disability at the time the claim accrues…"

[5] Section 22(h) of the Court of Claims Act reads as follows: (h) All other claims must be filed within 2 years after it first accrues, saving to minors, and persons under legal disability at the time the claim accrues, in which case the claim must be filed within 2 years from the time the disability ceases.

In the instant case, Section 22(a) pertains explicitly to claims arising out of a contract. The Claimant here was an at-will employee of the Respondent. While some courts may be willing to expand the tort of retaliatory discharge to encompass a claim under "contract" in such contexts, this Court is not willing to do so absent authority from the General Assembly. This Court must apply the statutes of limitations set forth in the Court of Claims Act. "All time limitations established under this Act and the rules promulgated under this Act shall be binding and jurisdictional, except upon extension authorized by law or rule and granted pursuant to a timely motion filed." 705 ILCS 505/22(j). This Court holds, therefore, that the applicable statute of limitations for actions before the Court based on the tort of retaliatory discharge is two years.

Turning to the issue of whether the "savings statute" of Section 13-217 of the Civil Code applies in the present case, the Court finds that it does not. Section 13-217 allows plaintiffs who have voluntarily dismissed their claims to re-file within a year of such dismissal.[6] The Claimant argues that her claims constituted a voluntary dismissal because they were tied to the Qui Tam count, over which the Attorney General had sole authority to prosecute if she chose to do so. The Court agrees with the Claimant that the Qui Tam count would be considered a "voluntary dismissal." However, the Qui Tam claim, as will be explained fully below, may not be heard in this Court for other reasons. Meanwhile, the remaining two counts of retaliatory discharge are clearly not voluntary dismissals because they were dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. Reyes v. State, 48 Ill.Ct.Cl. 170, 174 (1995). As such, the latter retaliatory discharge counts do not fall within Section 13-217's provisions.

Finally, the Claimant argues she should be granted additional time to file her claim on the basis of equitable tolling. The Claimant notes that her claims were effectively tied up in Circuit Court for over a year while the Attorney General considered whether to prosecute the Qui Tam. Thus, Claimant argues, she was effectively handcuffed from filing the claims in this Court. The Claimant further argues that it is against public policy to allow a constitutional official to delay the progress of a case, particularly one concerning an employment matter involving a state agency.

[6] Section 13-217 reads, in relevant part: "Where the time for commencing an action is limited, if judgment is entered for the plaintiff but reversed on appeal,…, or the action is voluntarily dismissed by the plaintiff, or the actions is dismissed for want of prosecution, or the action is dismissed by a United States District Court for lack of jurisdiction, then, whether or not the time limitation for bringing such action expires during the pendency of such action, the plaintiff, his or her heirs, executors or administrators may commence a new action within one year or within the remaining period of limitations, whichever is greater…" 735 ILCS 5/15-217.

The Court is sympathetic to the Claimant's arguments for equitable tolling, but finds them unavailing in this case. The Claimant cites no case law, and this Court was unable to find any, that mandates a tolling of the statute of limitations in the Court of Claims for a Qui Tam. The Court of Claims Act allows for claimants to file claims in this Court while the same actions are pending in Circuit Court, and then continue them generally until the final disposition of all other claims or proceedings arising from the same occurrence. 74 Ill. Admin. Code §790.60(a). Thus, the Claimant could have filed her timely complaints in this Court during the two-year statute of limitations period, then sought general continuances of those actions while the Circuit Court actions played out. See Reyes, 48 Ill.Ct.Cl. at 176.

As for the remaining count in Qui Tam, the Court has no jurisdiction over which to hear such a claim. The Court of Claims is a creature of Illinois statute, and our limited jurisdiction is solely what the General Assembly has granted by law. The Court of Claims Act makes no mention of jurisdiction over Qui Tam claims. See 705 ILCS 505/8. As such, this Court does not have jurisdiction to hear this claim.

For the foregoing reasons, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the motion of the Respondent is GRANTED and the Claimant's Complaint is dismissed with prejudice.

ORDER

BURNS, J.

This case comes before the Court on the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss. The Claimant filed a Response, and the Respondent filed a Reply to the Claimant's Response. The Claimant then filed an Amended Complaint. The Court having read the pleadings and being fully advised in the premises finds:

The Claimant, an inmate under the care of the Illinois Department of Corrections, filed this pro se Claim against the Respondent, the State of Illinois (via the Lake County State's Attorney), alleging various tort claims under Section 8(d) of the Illinois Court of Claims Act. Specifically, the Claimant alleges that Lake County State's Attorney Michael J. Waller and two assistant State's Attorneys under his supervision conspired to bring false charges of witness harassment against the Claimant as part of a scheme to bolster the State's case against the Claimant in an underlying criminal matter. The Claimant's amended complaint charges the Respondent with malicious prosecution, conspiracy, wrongful indictment and intentional infliction of emotional distress.[1] The Claimant claims that as a result of the Respondent's alleged conduct, the Claimant suffered irreparable harm in the form of a prison sentence longer than the Claimant would have received but for the alleged conduct of the Respondent. The Claimant seeks $100,000 in damages.

The Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss, pursuant to Section 2-619, arguing that the Court of Claims lacks jurisdiction over the Lake County State's Attorney, and that the Claimant's cause of action is barred by prosecutorial discretion and immunity.

The issue of this Court's jurisdiction to hear claims against a county State's Attorney thus far has eluded clear resolution. Illinois courts have held that Claims against a State's Attorney acting in the scope of his or her employment must be brought in the Court of Claims. Price v. State of Illinois and the State's Attorney of Cook County, 354 Ill.App.3d 90, 93 (2004); see also Biggerstaff v. Moran, 284 Ill.App. 3d 196 (1996); Sneed v. Howell, 306 Ill.App.3d 1149 (1999); Stokes v. City of Chicago, 660 F.Supp. 1459 (1987). However, this Court has held that a State's Attorney, as an elected State officer, does not trigger respondeat superior liability of the State, as a matter of law. Sherry v. State, 55 Ill.Ct.Cl. 437 (2002).

[1] The Claimant's original Complaint contained only a single claim for malicious prosecution. In her Response to the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss, the Claimant stated that she intended to add a related constitutional claim in her amended complaint. The Claimant's Amended Complaint, however, included no such constitutional clam but rather the three additional claims of conspiracy, wrongful indictment and intentional infliction of emotional distress.

The Court need not address the issue here, because the Claimant's cause of action is barred by prosecutorial discretion and immunity in any event. Under Illinois law, the initiation and prosecution of criminal charges is an important prosecutorial function for which the prosecutor enjoys absolute immunity. Van Guilder v. Will County State's Attorney James W. Glasgow, 588 F.Supp.2d 876 (2008), citing White v. City of Chicago, 369 Ill.App.3d 765 (2006). This immunity applies, however, only for those activities intimately associated with the judicial phase of the criminal process. White v. City of Chicago, 3769 Ill.App.3d 765 (2006).

In the instant case, the Claimant seeks damages due to the State's Attorney's decision to bring four charges of witness harassment against the Claimant. The conduct in question, relating to the imposition of criminal charges, clearly falls within the judicial phase of the criminal process. The State's Attorney, therefore, has immunity against the Claimant's claims stated herein. Since the Claimant cannot prevail in her claims against the State's Attorney, the Claimant's claims against the State of Illinois, via the doctrine of respondeat superior, must fail as well.

For the foregoing reasons, the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss is GRANTED and the Claimant's claim is dismissed with prejudice. All other pending motions in the matter are hereby declared moot.

ORDER

KUBASIAK, J.

THIS MATTER coming to be heard on the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(1), and it appearing to the Court that Claimant has received due notice and the Court being fully advised in the premises,
THE COURT FINDS:

BACKGROUND

On or about July 2006, the Claimant, Augustine Harding, was employed by the Illinois Department of Transportation as a seasonal employee. On or about October 2008, the Claimant submitted to Illinois Department of Transportation an application for a position as Highway Maintainer/Snowbird. Claimant alleges she possessed more employment seniority than three of six male employees at the time of her application. Claimant was not selected for the position of Highway Maintainer/Snowbird. Claimant alleges she was not selected for said position on the basis of her gender. Claimant filed a charge of a civil rights violation with the Illinois Department of Human Rights on October 20, 2008. The Illinois Department of Human Rights issued its investigation report on December 18, 2009. Claimant filed her complaint in the Court of Claims on March 12, 2010.

STANDARD

A Section 2-619 motion to dismiss admits all well-pleaded facts in the complaint together with all reasonable inferences that can be drawn from those facts in the plaintiff's favor, and it raises other defects or defenses that bar the claim. Redwood v. Lierman, 331 Ill.App.3d 1073, 1076, 772 N.E.2d 803, 808 (4th Dist. 2002); 735 ILCS 5/2-619. The court must consider whether the defendant presents facts constituting an affirmative defense defeating the plaintiff's claim. Prodromos v. Poulos, 202 Ill.App.3d 1024, 1028, 560 N.E.2d 942, 946 (1st Dist. 1990).

The Human Right Act provides that "[i]t is a civil rights violation…for any employer to refuse to hire…or to act with respect to recruitment, hiring, promotion, renewal of employment,… tenure or terms, privileges or conditions of employment on the basis of unlawful discrimination or citizenship status." 775 ILS 5/2-102(a). "Employer" includes "[t]he State and any political subdivision, municipal corporation or other governmental unit or agency." 775 ILCS 5/2-101(B)(1)(c). "Unlawful discrimination" means discrimination against a person because of his or her, inter alia, sex. 775 ILCS 5/1-103(Q). Claimant alleges her employer, Illinois Department of Transportation, refused to recall or select her for the position of Highway Maintainer/Snowbird on the basis of her sex. As such, Claimant alleges a civil rights violation arising under the Human Rights Act.

Pursuant to the Human Rights Act, "[e]xcept as otherwise provided by law, no court of this state shall have jurisdiction over the subject of an alleged civil rights violation other than as set forth in this Act." 775 ILCS 5/8-111(D). The Human Rights Act sets forth that after a proper charge of a civil rights violation has been filed with the Department of Human Rights, the Department shall conduct an investigation and issue its investigation report. 775 ILCS 5/7A-102(A)(C). Upon review of the report by the Director of the Department, the Director shall determine whether there is substantial evidence that a civil rights violation was committed and notify the complainant of his or her right to commence a civil action related to any substantiated or unsubstantiated charge in the "appropriate circuit court," which is the "circuit court" in the county in which the civil rights violation was allegedly committed. 5/7A-102(D)(2)(3); 5/8-111(A)(1).

A plain reading of the Human Rights Act reveals that the Court of Claims lacks jurisdiction over the subject of an alleged civil rights violation arising under the Act. Exclusive jurisdiction over the subject of an alleged civil rights violation is conferred upon the circuit court by virtue of section 5/8-111(D) of the Human Rights Act and the requirements set forth in the act governing when and wherein to file a civil action. 775 ILCS 5/8-111(D). Herein, Claimant filed a charge of a civil rights violation with the Illinois Department of Human Rights on October 20, 2008, related to her allegations raised in her complaint. The Illinois Department of Human Rights issued its investigation report on December 18, 2009. Upon receiving notice of her right to commence a civil action, Claimant should have commenced her action in the appropriate circuit court consistent with the Human Rights Act. Accordingly, by filing her complaint in the Court of Claims, Claimant has chosen a forum without jurisdiction to entertain her claim. Claimant's claim must be dismissed.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

The motion of the Respondent is GRANTED and the claim herein is DISMISSED with prejudice.

ORDER

Birnbaum, J.

THIS MATTER is before the Court on Respondent's Motion to Dismiss filed on December 7, 2011, pursuant to 2-615(a) and 2-619(a) of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure and Section 25 of the Court of Claims Act. 705 ILS 505/25. On April 23, 2011, Claimant filed a Motion for Class Certification. Subsequently, on March 12, 2012 this Court ordered Claimant's Motion for Class Certification to be held in abeyance pending ruling on Respondent's Motion to Dismiss.

Nature of the Claim

On March 11, 2011, Claimant filed a complaint in this Court seeking damages as a result of the purchase of Illinois Lottery Ticket "Winter Bingo", game number 754. Claimant paid five-dollars ($5.00) for a "Winter Bingo" scratch-off lottery ticket. The bingo numbers revealed a blue mitten symbol. This blue mitten symbol indicated a fifty-dollar ($50.00) winning prize. Claimant asserts that he presented what he thought to be his winning scratched-off ticket to a retail lottery agent. The lottery agent denied awarding the fifty-dollar ($50.00) winning prize. Claimant alleges Respondent violated Illinois Lottery's "Winter Bingo" game rules in its failure to award Claimant, and other similarly situated, their fifty-dollar ($50.00) prize award, or, in the alternative, reimburse Claimant for the price of the "Winter Bingo" lottery tickets. In addition to monetary damages, Claimant seeks a temporary restraining order, a temporary injunction, and a permanent injunction against Respondent.

In its Motion to Dismiss, Respondent asserts that Claimant has failed to satisfy this Court's exhaustion of remedies requirement and Claimant is not entitled to any legal recourse outside reimbursement or the issuance of a new lottery ticket. Specifically, Respondent argues Claimant failed to present his claim to the Illinois Lottery and receive the only remedy available under the "Winter Bingo" Game Rules: an unplayed ticket, or tickets, of comparable value. Conversely, Claimant argues he was never advised by the Illinois Lottery of the administrative dispute procedures under the "Winter Bingo" Game Rules and he has already requested, and been denied, a five-dollar ($5.00) reimbursement for the "Winter Bingo" lottery tickets.

Pursuant to Court of Claims Rule 790.140, Respondent filed Respondent's Department Report on December 7, 2011. 74 Ill. Adm. Code 790.140. The Departmental Report provided the "Winter Bingo" Game Rules which state in pertinent part:

> DISPUTES
> In the event a dispute between Lottery and the ticket bearer occurs as to whether the ticket is a winning ticket, and the ticket prize is not paid, the Acting Superintendent or Director may, solely at his/her option, replace the disputed ticket with an unplayed ticket (or tickets of equivalent sales price from another current Lottery game). This shall be the sole and exclusive remedy of the bearer of the ticket in the event of such disputes.
> GOVERNING LAW
> In purchasing a ticket, the purchaser agrees to comply with, and abide by, Illinois State law, all rules and regulations of the Lottery and all Directives, procedures and final decisions rendered by the Acting Superintendent or the Director for the conduct of the game.

Illinois Lottery Office of the Superintendent Instant Game Rules: "Winter Bingo", pg. 3.

Analysis

In its Class Action Complaint, Claimant specifically states that it has not previously presented this claim to a State department or officer thereof. Thus, as Respondent alleged, Claimant has failed to present this claim to the Illinois Lottery Claims Department and seek the remedy available under the "Winter Bingo" Game Rules. Section 25 of the Court of Claims Act states, "Any person who files a claim in the court shall, before seeking final determination of his or her claim, exhaust all other remedies and sources of recovery whether administrative or judicial. 705 ILCS 505/25.

Claimant argues he has pursued the Court of Claims exhaustion of administrative remedies requirement because he was already denied a reimbursement for the "Winter Bingo" lottery tickets. However, Claimant misinterprets a denied reimbursement with the sole remedy available pursuant to the "Winter Bingo" Game Rules. As previously stated, under the "Winter Bingo" Game Rules, the Acting Superintendent or Director of the Illinois Lottery has the sole discretion to replace the disputed ticket with an unplayed ticket or a ticket of equivalent sales value. This Court addressed a similar fact pattern in a 2006 case, Loane v. Illinois, 59 Ill. Ct. Cl. 325, 2006 WL 6499135. In Loane v. Illinois, Claimant sought forty-five thousand dollars ($45,000.00) in winnings from what he claimed was a winning lottery ticket. The Lottery Claims Department denied his claim and awarded Claimant a three-dollar ($3.00) ticket, equivalent to the sale price of his original ticket. The Leone Court held that Claimant had agreed to the terms of the Game Rules governing dispute resolutions through the purchase of his lottery ticket. Thus, the Court held there was no other remedy that Claimant could request from the Court of Claims for the disputed ticket. Id. at 326. In this case, although Claimant allegedly has been denied reimbursement, the "Winter Bingo" Game Rules require that he present his dispute to the Illinois Lottery Claims Department where the Acting Superintendent of the Illinois Lottery may, solely at his/her option, replace Claimant's "Winter Bingo" ticket with an unplayed ticket of similar sale value.

This Court finds that the terms of the Game Rules for the "Winter Bingo" Scratch-off game #754 are clear and unambiguous. By purchasing the "Winter Bingo" lottery ticket, Claimant agreed to the contractual terms of the "Winter Bingo" Game Rules, including the established rules governing dispute resolution. Accordingly, as Claimant agreed to the terms of the Game Rules, the terms of the Game Rules control and there is no other remedy that Claimant may pursue from this Court for the disputed ticket.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Respondent's Motion to Dismiss is GRANTED.

ORDER

Kubasiak, J.

THIS MATTER coming to be heard on the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss the claim herein, followed by oral argument presented by the parties. The Court being fully advised in the premises:

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

On August 18, 2010, Claimant was discharged from her position as a Registered Nurse 1 with the Mabley Developmental Center, a part of Respondent's Illinois Department of Human Services ("DHS"). Claimant was discharged for three charges for Failure to Perform Job Duties and one charge of Failure to Follow Facility and Departmental Policies for three separate incidents that had occurred in late June and Early July of that same year.

On June 17, 2010, after it was reported that a client was injured, Claimant failed to examine the client, failed to complete the proper documentation indicating an injury existed, failed to complete the necessary paperwork for unobserved injuries, and failed to document the injury to the client in the nursing notes.

This Statement of Charges stated as follows:

Charge 1: Failure to Perform Job Duties: In that, on or about 06-17-2010, Ms. Victoria Bryant, Registered Nurse I at the Jack Mabley Developmental Center, received a report from a Mental Health Technician that a male client had an injury of unknown origin. Ms. Bryant failed to examine this client and failed to complete the required documentation.

Charge 2: Failure to Perform Job Duties: In that, on or about 06-21-2010, Ms. Victoria Bryant, Registered Nurse 1, at the Jack Mabley Developmental Center, documented that she passed Noon medications to Johnson Home residents. However, she left the facility at 10:50 a.m. to be evaluated for an injury she stated she received nearly 6 hours earlier. Despite documenting that she passed the medications, Ms. Brant did not pass a single medication on 06-21-2010.

Charge 3: Failure to Perform Job Duties: In that, on or about 07-05-2010, Ms. Victoria Bryant, Registered Nurse 1, at Jack Mabley Developmental Center, reported to a Program Nurse at 7:00 am that she had passed all medications on residential home except for one client [sic]. The Program Nurse noted that the cup contained too many medications for this client. Upon identifying the additional medications, it was determined that the cup contained medications for two clients. Also, Victoria Bryant failed to document that she passed any of the medications on the residential home for that morning.

Charge 4: Failure to Follow Facility and Department Policies: In that, on or about 06-17-2010, Ms. Victoria Bryant, Registered Nurse I, she failed to complete an injury reports, failed to complete an unobserved injury packet and failed to document in the nursing notes. Also, on or about 7-05-2010, she failed to secure medications behind double locks, failed to document medications administered, removed medications from identifying containers.

One week after the final incident, on July 13, 2010, Claimant was granted a pre-disciplinary/Pre-Termination Meeting, which concluded that Claimant had violated Mabley Procedures 22 VIII.G and 22 VII.G.I, as well as Departmental policies 5003, 7012, 5006, 607, 2041, 2028, 2044, and 2043. After determining that Claimant already had been charged with five day suspension for a previous March 2010 incident, and that Claimant had created seven medication errors in the July 5, 2010 incident alone, Claimant was placed on a 30 day suspension pending discharge.

On August 16, 2010, the Illinois Department of Central Management Services (CMS) approved the recommended discharge. Claimant's discharge for cause became effective on the end of Claimant's 30 day suspension, August 18, 2010.

At all relevant times, Claimant, as an employee of DHS, was covered under the Agreement between the Illinois Nurses Association RC-23 ("INA") and the State of Illinois, July 1, 2008 – June 30, 2012 ("Agreement") as a Registered Nurse I.

The agreement sets out the grievance procedure for resolving disputes at the administrative level. Article IV, Section 2. At step 1, "[w]ithin five workdays of receipt of the written grievance from the employee…the Employer representative(s) will schedule a meeting with the employee(s) and his/her representative(s) in an attempt to resolve the grievance" and within ten days from that meeting, "a written answer will be placed on the grievance by the appropriate agency representative(s):. Article IV, Section 2, Step 1. "If dissatisfied with the Employer's answer in Step One…the grievance must be appealed to the Agency director by the [INA] within fifteen workdays from receipt of the answer in Step One. The designated agency representative(s) will meet with the employee representative within twenty workdays to discuss and attempt to resolve the grievance", and the written decision of the agency will be given to the grievant within twenty days of the

Step two meeting. Article IV, Section 2, Step 2. "If the grievance is not resolved through [Step 1 and 2] the grievance may be appealed to a representative of the Office of Labor Relations, [CMS]. A representative of [INA] and a representative of [CMS] will meet… to effect a resolution prior to proceeding to Step 3B…" Article IV, Section 2, Step 3A. "Grievances which have not been resolved under [Step 1, 2, and 3A] may be appealed …to arbitration within ten workdays from the date of the agency's answer in Step Two or following the meeting with CMS.." Article IV, Section 2, Step 3B.

In addition, Article IV, Section 8 of the Agreement contains an "opt out" provision whereby an employee-member can abandon his grievance process and instead press his claim with the Civil Service Commission: "An employee who files an appeal to the Civil Service Commission under the Provisions of the Personnel Code and Rules of the Department of Central Management Services shall waive any and all rights provided in this Article".

An August 20, 2010, Claimant initiated the grievance process for INA grievance number 232556, alleging she had been unjustly terminated and requesting to return to work and to be "made whole in all ways." The grievance was not resolved in steps 1 through 3A and was moved to Step 3B, arbitration.

Thereafter, in January 2011, DI-IS and INA executed a Resolution Prior to Arbitration concerning grievance numbers 232490 and 232556, resolving Claimant's grievances and wherein Claimant agreed to voluntarily resign in exchange for any mention of a discharge being purged from her record.

Most importantly, for purposes of Claimant's claim before this Court, the resolution Prior to Arbitration states and the parties thereto agreed that:

> The Union and the grievant, Victoria Bryant, agree to refrain from initiating or pursuing against the Employer any other grievance, administrative or other judicial proceedings arising out of this disciplinary action or the circumstances that led to the filing of the charges resulting in the suspension and discharge.
> This resolution is made without precedent or prejudice in the disposition of other cases, and may not be utilized in any subsequent proceedings except for the enforcement of its terms

On December 22, 2011, Claimant filed her Verified Complaint in the Court of Claims alleging she was wrongfully terminated and seeking $41,797.00 in back wages.

THE COURT FINDS:

Claimant has waived any and all rights to pursue further grievance, administrative or judicial proceedings arising out of the circumstances of her discharge from employment. The terms of the Resolution Prior to Arbitration are clear and Claimant is bound by them.

The language contained in Article IV, Section 2 of the Agreement gives the union the right of control over the employee grievance process and vests the union with sufficient authority to settle grievances on behalf of employees. In pertinent part, the Agreement states: "the parties agree that all persons responsible for resolving grievances at all levels of the procedure shall be vested with sufficient authority to undertake meaningful discussions and to settle the grievance if appropriate," Article IV, Section 2.

Based on identical language in a similar wrongful termination claim, this Court held that a union has the authority to effect a settlement for, and to bind, the claimant to its terms. Jones v. Illinois, 55 Ill.Ct.Cl. 414, 417 (2002).

In Jones, the claimant, an IDOC employee and AFSCME member, brought a wrongful termination suit, alleging she was discharged without cause in violation of the union's collective bargaining agreement. During the underlying employer-employee grievance process, the union settled the grievance on behalf of the claimant by entering into a Resolution Prior to Arbitration, Therein, the claimant waived any remaining procedural rights against IDOC, including any right to sue. Id.

This Court held that the claimant was barred from pursuing her claim in the Court of Claims and dismissed it with prejudice for failure to exhaust administrative remedies – procedural remedies such as arbitration she would have been able to pursue but for the settlement agreement – and by virtue of the underlying settlement. Jones, 55 Ill.Ct.Cl. at 417. As such, this Court must enforce the terms of the Resolution Prior to Arbitration.

The Resolution Prior to Arbitration is evidence that Claimant failed to pursue available administrative and procedural remedies against DHS. Claimant, instead of entering into the Resolution Prior to Arbitration, could have proceeded to arbitration of her claim per the Agreement. In the alternative, she could have "opted out" of the grievance procedure altogether and pressed her claim with the Civil Service Commission per her statutory rights.

The Claimant is bound by the Resolution Prior to Arbitration and by virtue of this settlement cannot sue Respondent (her employer) without first proving the INA breached its duty of fair representation to her by entering into the settlement. Jones, 55 Ill.Ct.Cl. at 417. This, however, must be established in a court of other appropriate forum of proper jurisdiction, not the Court of Claims. Id. As Claimant has failed to do so, Claimant's claim should be dismissed with prejudice as settled.

CONCLUSION

The facts of the claim before the Court mirror those in Jones, supra. Both claimants were employees of a state agency, both claimants were Union members and subject to the terms of the Agreement between Unions and Respondent, both claimants were discharged, both claimants filed grievances alleging they were discharged without cause, and both claimants entered into Resolutions Prior to Arbitration settling their grievances and waiving any future remedies. Accordingly, Jones controls the matter before the Court and the claim is dismissed.

STEVEN RUSINOWSKI, Claimant v. THE STATE OF ILLINOIS, ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, Respondent.

Opinion filed May 25, 2013

JUSTIN LONDON, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (NATHAN LUSIGNAN, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Jurisdiction- Equitable Jurisdiction- the Court of Claims is not a court of general jurisdiction, and is devoid of equitable jurisdiction; its limitations provisions in 705 ILCS 505/8 of the Court of Claims Act are jurisdictional and cannot be disregarded.

ORDER

Birnbaum, J.

THIS MATTER is before the Court on Respondent's Motion to Dismiss for lack of jurisdiction pursuant to 705 ILCCS 505/22-1 and 705 ILCS 505/22-1.

Nature of the Claim

On June 5, 2012, Claimant filed a Complaint in the Court of Claims sounding in tort against JJ Madden Mental Health Center, an Illinois Department of Human Services facility. Specifically, Claimant alleges he was falsely imprisoned by Respondent for the time period of March 5, 2011 through March 10, 2011, when he was involuntarily committed at the JJ Madden Mental Health Center. On September 8, 2011, Claimant filed a Complaint for the same incident in the Northern District of Illinois, case number 11 CV 4772, which was subsequently dismissed for lack of jurisdiction because the JJ Madden Mental Health Center is a state facility. Claimant failed to file a Notice of Intent with the Court of Claims. As such, Respondent argues this Court lacks jurisdiction to hear this claim pursuant to Court of Claims Act §22-2. Section 22-2 requires a Claimant to file a Notice of Intent of Complaint in the Court of Claims within one year of injury. 705 ILCS 505/22-2. In response, Claimant argues he could not have filed a timely Notice of Intent because he did not know JJ Madden was an agency of the State of Illinois and the doctrine of equitable tolling should apply to allow his claim to proceed.

Analysis

It is clear that the Court of Claims precedent dictates that Claimants must file in the Court of Claims to prevent the tolling of the statute, even if they are pursuing other remedies. National Railroad Passenger Corporation v. State, 36 Ill.Ct.Cl. 265, 267 (1982). The Administrative Code rules specifically provide procedures for a matter to be continued generally pending possible resolution through other means. 74 Ill.Adm.Code 60. Claimant argues the doctrine of equitable tolling should allow his claim to proceed because a Notice for Intent could not have been filed on time as the Claimant did not know, have reason to know, or lacked knowledge that JJ Madden was an agency of the Illinois Department of Human Services. Specifically, he cites the involuntary petition for transfer, which indicates Claimant was being transferred to JJ Madden Mental Health Center while failing to specify it is a State facility.

Claimant correctly notes that there are no published Court of Claims opinions dealing with equitable tolling due to the Claimant's lack of knowledge. However, this Court has considered the tolling of the statute of limitations in claims involving the rights of minors and those suffering legal disabilities. In previous Court of Claims cases involving minors filed pursuant to the Crime Victims Compensation Act ("Act"), this Court held that minor should not be punished because the parent or guardian failed to protect the child's rights by timely filing. In the Crime Victims Compensation Act, the Legislature provided a specific exception to the statute of limitations protecting the ability of an individual to file two years after a legal disability, such as being a minor, has been removed. In this case, lack of knowledge fails to rise to the level requiring the special protection afforded to the rights of minors and those individuals suffering from a legal disability.

The Court of Claims is not a court of general jurisdiction where it is empowered to consider the equities of a dispute. Instead, the Court of Claims is a creature of statute and its jurisdiction is controlled by §505/8 of the Court of Claims Act. 705 ILCS 505/8. Unlike the United States and the Illinois Supreme Courts, the Court of Claims is devoid of equitable jurisdiction; its limitations provisions are jurisdictional and cannot be disregarded. Hickey v. State, 48 Ill.Ct.Cl. 376, 383 (1995). The practical effect of adopting Claimant's position of equitable tolling is that the statutory period in question would be determined on a case by case basis and could, arguably, be extended indefinitely by a party in suggesting they were unaware the Respondent was an agency of the State of Illinois. This Court has consistently upheld the rationale surrounding the statute of limitations as enacted by the General Assembly:

> Finally, this Court would be remiss if it did not note the sounds public policy reason for the statue, which is that to all things there must be an end, and there is no hardship in requiring Claimants to act within a reasonable time. Failure by a Claimant to act, whether by lapse of time or omission, forfeits his title to the claim under the law, allowing the government to avail itself thereof in suits against it.
> Illinois Bell Telephone v. State, 35 Ill.Ct.Cl. 345, 349 (1981).

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Respondent's Motion to Dismiss is GRANTED.

FY 2013

The following list of cases consists of claims brought by prisoners and inmates of State correctional facilities against the State to recover the value of certain items of personal property of which they allegedly possessed while incarcerated, but which were allegedly lost while the State was in possession thereof or for which the State was allegedly otherwise responsible. Consistent with the cases involving the same subject matter appearing in full in previous Court of Claims Reports, these claims were all decided based upon the theories of bailments, conversion, or negligence. Because of the volume, length, and general similarity of the opinions, the full texts of the opinions were not published, except for those claims which may have some precedential value.
